Robert Sommers returned to Victoria early today but his exact whereabouts and movements were cloaked in a veil of mystery.

U.S. Flexes Jet Muscles In Long Hop

MANILA (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force twin-jet B-66 bombers swept into the Philippines to day after non-stop flight from the U.S. west coast.

The USAF said the flight from George Air Force Base, Calif., made in slightly more than 17 hours, was part of an operation to show it can deliver a tactical striking force to help nip brushfire wars anywhere in the world.

A spokesman said the 8,000-mile non-stop trip was a record for B-66s, which can carry atomic weapons. The flight refueled in the air off Hawaii.

The B-66s are the vanguard of 47 jet fighter and bombers being moved from various U.S. bases to Pacific points.

Record Flight Started

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay lifted his record-setting KC-135 jet stratotanker off Buenos Aires' Ezeiza Field early today in quest of a possible inter-American jet speed record for the 5,000-mile trip.

He was driving his car, in which he is reported to have been driving in the western U.S. during the past four months.

West Willing to Add To UN Arms Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—In an effort to avert a threatened Soviet boycott, the Western powers agreed today to add 10 new countries to the UN's 12-member disarmament commission.

This is the same number pushed by India. But informed quarters said the Indians were highly displeased by the geographic distribution the West suggested.

Soviet sources previously had indicated Russia would give serious consideration to the Indian plan to add two from each major area—the Middle East, Eastern Europe, Latin America, Asia and the West.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, our help in ages past, grant us this day an uplifting consciousness of Thy presence. We offer Thee the gratitude of our hearts for the life Thou hast given, for the beauty of the world, for the daily task in which we are able to forget ourselves and minister unto others, for our loved ones, for health, food, clothing, shelter and sunshine.

Thou hast given us the night to rest from our labors. As we start on a new day, give us grace to begin and courage to pursue our task. Help us to achieve victories and to shun evil; in Jesus' name. Amen.

ICBM to Get Top Priority Says John D.

Pearkes, Norstad
Discuss Missiles
For RCAF Units

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today development of a defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile will be given high priority in Canada's defence program.

He informed the Commons this anti-missile project is being undertaken in co-operation with the United States.

Another co-operative venture of "considerable significance" was the project for development of defensive measures against the missile-carrying submarine.

This project included new long-range submarine detection techniques and improved methods of destroying undersea craft.

CO-OPERATING FULLY

Mr. Diefenbaker was making a brief statement, requested by former external affairs minister Lester B. Pearson, on defence co-operation between Canada and the U.S.

Meanwhile, Defence Minister Pearkes was scheduled to discuss with Gen. Lauris Norstad the re-equipping of the RCAF air division in Europe, possibly with missiles.

Highly-placed informants said this will be one of the major subjects to be discussed by Mr. Pearkes and the supreme allied command in Europe.

Gen. Norstad arrived here today for two days of talks with Canadian political and military leaders.

Informants said, however, the final decision would rest with the Canadian government.

Norstad told a press conference that the balance of power between East and West will not be upset in the next few years.

He said that the Russians do not now have any significant number of operational intermediate range missiles and that the launching of Soviet earth satellites has not required any alteration in his recently-drafted five-year military plan for the North Atlantic alliance.

He added: "We're not frightened. We have the strength. We have great will and determination. We can do the job. The balance is not going to be upset in the next few years."

Ocean Still Scoured For Lost Airliner

HONOLULU (AP)—The aircraft carrier Philippine Sea and its covey of planes today enter the critical area in their search for a Honolulu-bound Pan American airliner which vanished last Friday with 44 persons.

Despite the biggest peacetime search in the Pacific, embracing more than 175,000 square miles, no trace of the plane or its 36 passengers and crew of eight has been found.

The Western decision was taken at a meeting attended by representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Canada. These same countries had agreed Tuesday on the addition of five new members but had decided to reconsider after a number of countries had complained at being left out.

The names of the countries backed by the Western powers were not disclosed immediately. They had agreed Tuesday on Brazil, Italy, Tunisia, India and Poland.

A formal proposal on the enlargement of the commission was expected to be submitted before the General Assembly meets on Thursday to consider the disarmament problem.

'TOO DAMN SMUG'

Mirror 'Reflects' British Image

LONDON (AP)—The millions of Britons who read the tabloid Daily Mirror were jolted this morning by headline advising them they are "Too damn smug!"

The entire front page of The Mirror consisted of an eight-deck head reading:

"Wake up, Britain!
"We're living in "The past
"We're too slow
"Too sleepy
"Too damn
"Smug!"

"Urgent... see today's centre pages."

'BUNGLING, OUTDATED'

A two-page spread inside The Mirror—which claims the world's highest weekday sale of more than 4,500,000 copies—says the rest of the world thinks of Britain as "stuck in a rut, bungling, outdated."

"The world is on the move, but we are still marking time. 'Little wonder that we are losing trade. Today it is Ger-

LOGICAL FOR RUSS TO HIT AMERICA FIRST

PARIS (AP)—Charles Cannon, Liberal member of the Canadian House of Commons, told the NATO parliamentary assembly today that Canada and the United States might be in more immediate danger of attack from Russia than western Europe.

He called for a joint Canadian-U.S. command under NATO.

He said: "The time has now come for the defence of North America with the participation of Europeans in this defence. Would it not be logical to have the Russians first attack North America, and then turn on Europe?"

Pulp Strike Blow to Island

Economy Threatened as 1,600
Workers Set for Thursday Walkout

By JOHN MIKA

First province-wide strike in B.C.'s pulp industry's history, scheduled to start at 8 a.m. Thursday, will throw a snag into Vancouver Island's economy.

More than 1,600 pulp workers will walk off jobs, leaving another 300 office and salaried workers stranded in four closed Island plants. Jobs of another 1,000 construction workers carrying out expansion programs also are threatened.

The Island's daily output of 2,480 tons of pulp and paper will be cut off with no shipments to customers possible during the duration of the strike.

The strike will chop into an $800,000 monthly payroll at the plants. Business activity in communities near plants also will be slowed by curtailment of plant purchases.

No negotiations were reported today between six companies, operating nine plants in B.C., and the joint union committee representing the International Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Paper Mill Workers.

About 6,000 workers will strike for a 12 per cent wage increase after rejecting a 7½ per cent boost recommended by a majority conciliation board report.

The Island plants were undergoing shutdown preparations today.

The $35,000,000 Elk Falls Co. plant will be strike-bound by 350 workers but the shutdown may affect jobs of 500 construction laborers working on an expansion project scheduled to finish Dec. 1.

The plant, four miles from Campbell River, produces 330 tons of newsprint and 400 tons of paper daily, manager Tom Hargreaves said.

Some 360 of the 440 employees at the Port Alice plant operated near the northern tip of the island by Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. are expected to join the strike.

Other Workers To Be Affected

Jim Petrie, manager of the $100,000 MacMillan and Bloedel plant at Port Alberni said 525 workers of 625 personnel were scheduled to walk out Thursday, stopping the plant's 800-ton daily production of newsprint, paper and pulp.

Some 350 construction workers employed in a large expansion project may be affected if the strike is prolonged.

G. L. Harris, manager of the company's Harmac plant near Nanaimo, said the $40,000,000 plant will be closed when 400 workers go on strike. Jobs of another 75 employees and 25 construction workers may be affected later.

Many and Japan who are beating us in world markets. Tomorrow it may be Russia.

"British is best" is a comfortable motto. But there are many places in the world today where that is no longer accepted as a historic truth.

"There are businessmen from Buenos Aires to Bombay to whom the word 'British' too often means supercilious salesmanship, late deliveries, swollen prices.

"These are uncomfortable truths to live with. So we try to escape from them. Not by going forward, but by going back.

"We try the aristocratic line: 'Everything will be all right in the end — breeding and good connections are more important than brains and skill.'"

"So that cabinet is stuffed with old Etonians, and Britain prepares to lose her Waterloo on the playing fields of Eton."

"We try the heroic line: 'Britain stood out alone against Hitler. We saved the world.'"

"True. But that was 17 years ago."

CPA Franchise Hopes Backed By Tory Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — Prospects of Canadian Pacific Airlines getting a trans-continental franchise in competition with the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines appear fairly bright.

The Progressive Conservatives have repeatedly stated they are opposed to the TCA's 19-year monopoly and the cabinet is known to favor the introduction of competition in the domestic service.

Transport Minister Hees, who answers for TCA to the Commons said today that "any air line has a perfect right to apply for anything it wants."

"That is what the air transport board is for," he said.

"The whole air industry has been under intensive review by myself and the department for some time. At a proper time in the near future I expect to disclose what the government's thinking is in connection with that industry."

Four years ago the Liberal government rejected the CPA bid for a trans-continental air freight franchise to compete against TCA in this field. The bid was rejected by the cabinet. Certain recommendations were made by the air transport board but these were never made public.

Last year TCA reported the highest gross revenues in its history and a surplus of $1,556,000, up from $190,000 in 1955. Revenues went up by 18 per cent to $91,306,000. Operating expenses totalled $82,225,000 and depreciation charges $6,971,000.

The company's financial improvement was attributed to increased traffic throughout TCA's trans-continental and trans-oceanic system.

Details of proposed schedules will be announced when the application is submitted, he said in a statement.

CPA is prepared to start the new service as soon as the air transport board's approval is received, with four east-west flights a day. A fleet of 15 super DC-6B airliners will be available for the domestic service.

"We are convinced that the time has come to satisfy the public demand for competitive air service in Canada," Mr. Mather said. "It is apparent that the measure of competition involved in the CPA application would benefit the travelling public by improving the quality, the efficiency and the frequency of available air service in this country."

"Competitive air service in Canada would result in no duplication of facilities in terms of public investment in air transport."

Huge U.S. Missile Successfully Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A huge missile was fired from the air force missile test centre here today.

It roared over the Atlantic tracking range in an apparently successful launching.

The needle-nosed projectile was believed to be a Navaho, an inter-continental missile still on the stockpile here although no longer manufactured for the air force.

Spectators along the beach near the top secret base said the missile moved upwards with a roar, slowly curved and then moved over the tracking range out of sight.

Application At Ottawa; No City Link

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines announced today it will apply to the Air Transport Board this month for permission to operate a trans-continental mainline route linking Vancouver and Montreal.

CPA chairman W. A. Mather said the application will seek traffic rights at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

(A CPA spokesman at Vancouver told the Times today a Victoria-Vancouver service was not proposed in the company's plans for a trans-continental service.)

The application would cover not only passenger traffic, but "competitive service with Trans-Canada Air Lines on all services which TCA provides."

This would include air mail, air express and air freight services.

Charles Watt, assistant public relations officer, said the CPA application probably will come up before the air transport board "within two weeks."

(If the board decided public hearings on the application were necessary, it could take two months or more before a decision is reached.)

Mr. Mather said the proposed route pattern would "directly duplicate only 10 per cent of the present inter-city services" and would give "a number of the cities concerned... more direct as well as more frequent air services."

The federally operated Trans-Canada Air Lines now operates the only trans-continental service.

FOUR DAILY FLIGHTS

Details of proposed schedules will be announced when the application is submitted, he said in a statement.

CPA is prepared to start the new service as soon as the air transport board's approval is received, with four east-west flights a day. A fleet of 15 super DC-6B airliners will be available for the domestic service.

U.K. ROCKET 83 MILES UP AT 3,307 MPH

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Britain launched a Sky-lark high-altitude rocket to a height of 83 miles today, Australian Supply Minister Howard Beale announced.

The firing — at Australia's Woomera range — was designed to check instruments being used in International Geophysical Year experiments by British universities.

It was the fourth Sky-lark rocket to be launched.

Beale said the rocket's speed was 3,307 miles an hour.

"After 20 years of monopoly, the trans-continental airline now, if ever, should be strong enough to stand up to competition in a prospering economy."

"We in Canadian Pacific Airlines believe we can provide an efficient and profitable east-west air service under competitive conditions and thus our application is in line with the proven principles of the free enterprise system."

CPA had applied some years ago for authority to operate an air freight service across Canada but the application was rejected. The current application will be for regular passenger service, a CPA spokesman said.

WESTERN OPERATION

CPA now operates several domestic services mostly in Western Canada and the North. All of the aircraft are piston-engined.

CPA also operates several international services, also with piston-engined aircraft. They run from Mexico City to Madrid, Amsterdam to Sydney, Australia, and Hong Kong to Vancouver.

TCA now provides Canada's only trans-continental service. Its planes land at Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, Regina, Swift Current, Moose Jaw, Winnipeg, Brandon, Fort William, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Fredericton, Halifax, Sydney, N.S., Charlottetown, St. John's, Nfld., and Gander, Nfld. There are other regional and international services.

TCA operates Vickers Viscount turbo-prop aircraft domestically and the Super Constellation piston craft internationally. A spokesman said TCA hopes to add by 1960 some Douglas DC-8 jet aircraft for use on some domestic services and in 1961 the Vickers Vanguard, a sister ship to the Viscount and also turbo-prop.

'Old Guard' Communist President Zapotocky Dies

PRAGUE (Reuters) — President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia, one of the "old guard" Czech Communists, died here early today of a heart ailment. He was 72.

Zapotocky, once a stone-cutter's apprentice, returned from a German concentration camp at the end of the war to become successively head of the revolutionary trade union movement, premier and president.

Premier Vilam Siroky was being tipped here as Zapotocky's most likely successor.

DIES AT CLINIC

Zapotocky died at Sanops, a Prague clinic reserved for high party and government leaders. He was admitted there nine days ago when he was taken ill after seeing off a Czechoslovak delegation to Moscow.

Black flags, banners and streamers went up on many government and other buildings less than two hours after the announcement.

Zapotocky presided over the destinies of his country during a turbulent period which saw Czechoslovakia become Russia's most reliable ally in Europe.

The Communist leader, considered "absolutely loyal" to both the party and Russia, played a major role in consolidating the power of the Communists in the crisis of 1948 which followed the resignation and death of President Eduard Benes.

One of the founders of the Czech Communist party, he became president March 21, 1953.

on the death of President Klement Gottwald.

PROMOTED PURGE

He was also one of the main promoters of the 1952 purge in which the former secretary-general of the Czech Communist party, Rudolf Slansky, was tried as a traitor and executed with 16 others.

During the war Zapotocky was imprisoned by the Nazis, first in Dachau concentration camp, then in Sachsenhausen.

When the Germans retreated from Czechoslovakia in 1945, Zapotocky was among 5,000 Sachsenhausen prisoners who went on a notorious "death march" of hundreds of miles toward Mecklenburg.

He was finally freed by the Red Army.

driving off the Black Ball ferry at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo, at 10 p.m.

A reporter watched him make a phone call from a booth on the ferry parking lot after carefully inspecting the area.

SLOW DOWN

Then he returned to his car and drove a twisting route through Nanaimo, doubling back on his own course several times, pulling into side streets and periodically turning his lights off.

At times he slowed to five miles an hour to force cars behind him to take the lead.

The scene switched then to Victoria, where a reporter-photographer team watched Mr. Sommers' home until 3 a.m.

He did not arrive by that time, but this morning his car was parked in the garage under the house.

Reporters got no answer today when they knocked on the door and no one answered the telephone in the house. Later the phone was apparently taken off the hook.

NO DEVELOPMENTS

Meanwhile, there were no new developments today following the startling events at the inquiry Tuesday when the validity of the commission was challenged by lawyer Alfred Bull, Q.C.

Mr. Bull, counsel for C. D. Schultz and Co., said he expected to seek an injunction blocking further hearings.

He was understood to be conferring with Mr. Schultz this morning before seeking a writ from the B.C. Supreme Court. Attorney-General Bonner has indicated the provincial government will contest any attempt to overthrow the Commission.

"I'd be very surprised if we didn't oppose such a move," Mr. Bonner said. "The government naturally hopes the inquiry will be permitted to proceed."

Mr. Bull maintains that the provincial government had no right to set up the commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, because a criminal offence is involved which comes under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

QUEBEC CITY (RUP) — The Speech from the Throne opening the 25th Legislature said today Quebec would ask Ottawa for a bigger share of the tax dollar.

Laika Dead Before Sunday, Says Russ

MOSCOW (UP) — A spokesman for the Moscow planetarium said Tuesday that Laika, the dog in Sputnik II, had died even before the satellite's radio signals failed.

The spokesman, identified only as Prof. Porzesky, added that he knew of no device in the Sputnik in which the dog or its body could be brought back to earth.

Porzesky's report indicated that Laika had died prior to Sunday, the day on which the satellite's signals generally were presumed to have failed.

His statement appeared to refute rumors that Laika had landed somewhere in Russia and that search parties had set out to look for it.

The statement conflicted, however, with one made Tuesday night by Soviet premier Nikolai Bulganin to newsmen at a Swedish Embassy party. Bulganin said that the dog was alive to his knowledge on Sunday, but that he had not heard about its condition Monday.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The dog aboard Sputnik II probably has been brought back to the earth alive but the Russians aren't talking about it because of military implications, the paper added.

Development of Columbia Power Urged by B.C. Man

Trans-Canada Air Lines should be sold if it can't meet competition, Ernie Broome (PC-Vancouver South), said in the Commons Tuesday.

The newly-elected member delivered a stiff criticism of the publicly-owned air service during the Throne Speech debate.

"Canada years ago outgrew the necessity of pampering its monopoly airlines" Mr. Broome said. The field of transcontinental air service, now held solely by TCA, should be made competitive.

"If TCA can't face private competition, then sell it to someone who can operate it" provided control of the company remains in Canada.

TCA's monopoly position had led it to charge the highest passenger rates in North America. Now the company was proposing to cut its rates Jan. 1 as an "act of deathbed repentance."

Mr. Broome said Columbia River power in British Columbia must be developed soon. But there should be no power development of the Fraser River or other salmon streams. The salmon fishery should not be destroyed to provide a brief respite from the present power shortage. Development of Columbia River power would tide the province over until nuclear power was economically feasible. Already a 1,200,000-horsepower thermal power plant was planned in B.C. which could be converted to nuclear fuels.

Federal aid to education also was urged by Mr. Broome.

"The greatest indictment of our educational system is the inequality of opportunity in our cities, towns and rural areas," he said.

Educational standards should not rely on the wealth of the community or even of the province, but on the wealth of the country as a whole.

PAUL MARTIN

John D. Shows Lack of Respect, Charges Martin

TORONTO (CP)—Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, says Prime Minister Diefenbaker has shown less respect in one month for Parliament than anyone who ever held his office before.

In a speech Tuesday night to a Young Liberal Association here, Mr. Martin, referring sarcastically to the prime minister as "this great champion of Parliament," criticized him for announcing new legislation outside Parliament and introducing a new form of closure.

Mr. Martin mentioned specifically Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement of changes in pension legislation during a TV program; his announcement last summer of new trade proposals to the press gallery instead of Parliament and the establishment of a joint American-Canadian continental air command without Parliament's approval.

He said the government's new form of closure is refusing to answer questions and refusing to take Parliament into its confidence.

Canadian Aid Gratifying To Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese foreign office today expressed "deep gratitude" for relief funds given by the Canadian and American peoples to last July's flood victims on Japan's southernmost island of Kyushu.

The foreign office said a total of 766 Canadian dollars and 8,705 U.S. dollars were donated by individuals and organizations by the end of October for the relief of the victims.

About 1,500 boxes of clothes were also contributed by Japanese organizations in Hawaii and British Columbia, the office said.

System Success in Germany, Says Mainwaring After Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Electric Company will receive a report shortly from one of its vice-presidents on the possibility of using a monorail system for fast transportation between downtown Vancouver and International Airport on suburban Sea Island.

William C. Mainwaring said in an interview Monday his report will be neither a recommendation nor a suggestion, but "only my impressions of the system as I saw it."

A member of a British Columbia trade mission which returned from a six-week tour of Europe, Mr. Mainwaring was enthusiastic about the monorail's future in swift interurban passenger transportation.

He saw the system in operation outside Cologne, Germany. A similar system has been proposed by an affiliate of industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren to open up the north-central section of British Columbia.

Mr. Mainwaring declined to commit himself on the economics of the system pending detailed study of its capital and operating costs.

"I'll be making a report to our people, I hope this week," Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who headed the trade mission, described the monorail as

Liberals Urge Contributory Pensions

Two Liberal senators proposed that the federal government adopt a contributory old-age pension plan.

Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald and Senator Thomas Reid, British Columbia, made the suggestion during debate of government bills increasing to $55 monthly from $46 maximum allowances paid to needy Canadians between 65 and 69, and to blind and disabled.

The bills received second reading—approval in principle—and were referred to committee for detailed study.

Senator Macdonald said there should be a contributory system in Canada for federal old age security pensions now paid to all persons in Canada when they reach 70.

The federal government's present pension plan was not established on a sound actuarial basis.

Present federal old age security pensions are financed from a special fund into which is paid revenues from two-percent levies on personal and corporation income and merchandise sales. The fund, barely breaking even with the $40 pension level early this year, is expected to run at a deficit as a result of two pension increases this year to $55.

Senator Reid said he favored adoption of a contributory system under which payments of $200 a month could be made to married couples.

"All the present system is doing is causing one political party to bid against another."

Fred S. Zaplitzny (CCF, Dauphin) suggested Churchill, Man., be made a free port for entry of British goods.

Allowing British goods to enter Canada through the Hudson Bay port duty-free would provide great encouragement for building up facilities in the port and attracting greater use of it.

It "eventually would pay large dividends in western Canada."

He said Churchill "is the nearest seaport to the greater part of the three Prairie Provinces."

"It could be built up into a large metropolis if it were given some encouragement."

J. A. Smith (SC, Battle River-Camrose) urged Canada sell surplus wheat for soft currency if that would boost sales.

Further, he said, if sterling or other local currency was not available to prospective buyers, the Canadian wheat board should be empowered to conclude barter deals. Outright gifts of Canadian wheat also should not be ruled out to poorer countries with undernourished populations.

"No country in the world should have a food surplus" with half of the world's population hungry.

Tariff-Free Competition Demanded

Opposition members criticized the government for what they termed its "thoroughly disappointing response" to Britain's free-trade proposal and its alleged plans to "short-change" other provinces for Ontario's benefit.

In firing his free-trade criticism, Fred S. Zaplitzny (CCF, Dauphin), said Canadian manufacturers are turning out a lot of "shoddy junk."

Tariff-free competition from British goods would improve the quality of Canadian-made products and lower the price.

Hon. J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonaville-Twillingate) said the government apparently plans to "short-change" other provinces to meet fiscal demands of Ontario's Premier Frost.

There was growing apprehension among the "poorer provinces" that they would get less from the Conservatives than they did from the Liberals under the federal-provincial tax-sharing formula.

George Hahn (SC-New Westminster), criticized Prime Minister Diefenbaker for saying in a recent radio speech that unemployment is not a serious problem in Canada at present.

Dr. Stanley Haidasz (L-Toronto-Trinity) says Canadians like to sit in their ranch-style bungalows and talk about science, but won't do anything about it.

A medical doctor, he said that unless the government steps in to encourage scientific education, the shortage of scientists in Canada and the western world will increase.

The Law's Delay

IT IS DIFFICULT TO UNDERSTAND why C. D. Schultz and Company, and its counsel, Mr. Alfred Bull, QC, should wish to halt an investigation of the Sommers case. But the litigation has the right to take advantage of every technicality in the law, and the technical argument now pending is, or soon will be, sub judice of the courts. No comment on it may properly be offered at present.

Whatever the law may say about the legality of Chief Justice Sloan's royal commission, its inquiry must, we believe, will go on to its conclusion.

Until he is stopped by an injunction from a higher court the Chief Justice intends to proceed with his work. If the courts of British Columbia refuse to grant an injunction and the case is carried to the Supreme Court of Canada—as Mr. Bull intends—the issue will be delayed for many months. In that period, however, the Chief Justice can and evidently is determined to continue and probably complete his inquiry.

On the other hand, if he is forbidden immediately by the courts to continue with his present commission that prohibition need not and must not prevent the process of justice.

Attorney-General Bonner says the Government is anxious to get all the facts of Mr. Sturdy's charges against Mr. Sommers. He indicates a confident belief that the courts will not interfere. But if they do, a quick remedy is open to Mr. Bonner and he will be expected to use it.

Mr. Bull argues that the Sloan commission is invalid because it trenches upon criminal matters, outside the jurisdiction of any provincial government. Should that be the view of the courts, the commission can easily be amended by a simple order of the Federal Government. It can equip the royal commissioner with concurrent federal powers and thus place his status beyond question.

Undoubtedly the minister of justice, Mr. Davie Fulton, would advise the federal cabinet to take this action and the cabinet would act on his advice. A request of that sort from Mr. Bonner could not be refused in Ottawa and should be formally approved in a matter of hours.

It is quite unthinkable that an inquiry into the vital business of British Columbia should fall between two legal stools of provincial and federal jurisdictions. The governments in Victoria and Ottawa can certainly assure an inquiry if they wish to do so.

The public, therefore, will expect Mr. Bonner to take the necessary steps if a purely constitutional dispute should threaten to delay Chief Justice Sloan. The delay in this matter—almost two years now—has been much too long already and it gravely reflects on the wisdom of Mr. Bonner who is responsible for the enforcement of law in British Columbia.

Another point arose in yesterday's proceedings before the Chief Justice. Mr. Sturdy asked that the terms of the royal commission be widened to make sure that no aspect of the Sommers case could be excluded from the inquiry.

The Chief Justice, determined to get all the facts, indicated that, if he thought it necessary after reflection, he would recommend some amendments to his commission.

The Provincial Government could not refuse such advice. We believe it will do exactly as the Chief Justice recommends. And apart from C. D. Schultz and Company everybody in British Columbia will wish the Sloan inquiry to proceed without further hindrance or any more of the law's delay.

War Without Warning

CANADIANS GENERALLY will be in agreement with the principle of General Pearkes' affirmation that Canada will not go to war without the direct consent of the Canadian Government.

He made the statement in reply to questions regarding the arrangements for joint U.S.-Canadian defence of the continent, for there had been some understanding that the decision of the head of the North American air command might, in an emergency, throw Canadian as well as American forces into action against an air attack.

The defence minister explains that the warning of our northern radar networks will permit time in which to get the consent of the Canadian Government for Canadian participation.

On the basis of Second World War bomber attack this might be reasonable. But on the basis of attack by rocket missile, which is what we must expect in any future war, the DEW line and other warning outposts would appear to be almost useless. Travelling at a thousand miles an hour or more, a rocket would give little advance warning.

Mr. Pearkes says "the decision to go to war must rest with the Government of this country, and not any general Canadian or any other nationality."

Would it not be more true to say that the decision would rest not with our Government but with the Government of the attacking country? Once the missiles were launched in our direction, we would be in a war whether we "decided" we were or not.

The defence minister's principle is a sound one, and it is one that has been followed heretofore. But it is difficult for the layman to reconcile it with the new order of push-button warfare. Can Mr. Pearkes, or anybody else, explain further?

Mr. Horner's Corner

MR. A. E. HORNER, ONE OF the pioneers and architects of Saanich municipality, was a happy man last weekend. He saw his private dream realized.

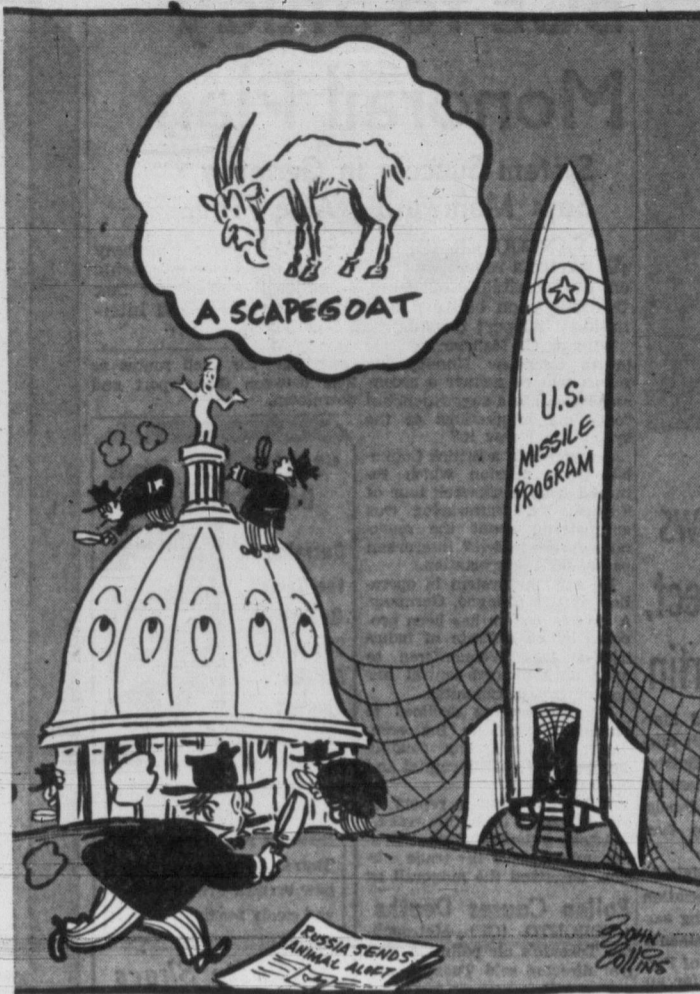

Perhaps the throng which rededicated the Gore Park Peace Memorial on Armistice Day and unveiled there a simple cairn of remembrance had forgotten Mr. Horner's long struggle to preserve this small plot of ground.

As a former councillor of Saanich, he had proposed the memorial in the first place. As a lover of the earth and growing things, a kind of civic philosopher and friend of everybody, he had fought off, year after year, the attempt to destroy a small preserve of land dear to his heart and memory. And at last he had succeeded.

When, appropriately enough, he presided at the rededication services, he saw his work finally confirmed. It might not appear to be a big thing in this age of bigness but Mr. Horner had accomplished what he set out to do, he must feel happy about it and he deserves the thanks of the whole community.

TOOTHsome STORY

By B. A. TOBIN

Kelowna Did It

THE question of fluoridation of public water supplies as a means of strengthening tooth enamel in children and so reducing decay has roused some hot controversy during the past few years. The arguments against it have been many and varied. They range all the way from charges that the whole thing is a deep plot by the Communists to poison the free world, or that the aluminum industry is merely trying to get rid of one of its by-products at the expense of the public's health, to less lunatic insistence that fluoridation of the water supply is an invasion of the individual's political and religious rights.

Tobin

Obviously, with this range of argument, opponents of fluoridation include a good many different types. Many of them fight the idea with a savagery that indicates they are not well balanced mentally. Others show good intentions but appear to be putting their trust in second-best authorities.

Good Example

The beautiful little city of Kelowna provides a very good example of how the whole fluoridation question can be handled. The other day a party of Vancouver dentists visited the lakeside community to gather information on the fluoridation situation there. Vancouver will have a plebiscite on fluoridation next month; Nanaimo and Duncan will too.

A handful of newsmen tagged along to get some first-hand information on the subject. I was one of them, and I must say it was a very enlightening experience.

In the first place, Kelowna adopted a very unusual approach to the question. The civic authorities asked themselves, "Who is best qualified to advise us on dental matters?" They decided that dentists would be the best choice.

Then they asked, "Who is best qualified to advise us on the medical aspect?" Unanimously they decided that medical doctors would be the best ones for this purpose.

Who Knows?

Now these decisions may not sound unusual to you, but if you delve into the fluoridation controversy very far you soon find that in many cases dental and medical experts are the last people consulted. This may be because dentists and doctors are almost 100 per cent in favor of fluoridation, so that opponents have to recruit a few mavericks or else go outside the professions to get support for their opposition.

However, Kelowna took this odd method of finding out the facts.

As Mayor Jack Ladd of Kelowna says: "In the past we have always accepted medical advice on civic matters requiring it. We found that fluoridation is advocated by all the medical and dental authorities in Canada. We took their advice."

It was as simple as that.

It wasn't exactly that simple, perhaps. In keeping with democratic procedure it was decided to put the question to a public vote. The doctors and dentists of Kelowna staged a spirited educational campaign to tell the people of the advantages to be gained.

I think that is a very significant fact: the doctors and dentists led the fight for fluoridation. This was no far-fetched idea given a reluctant okay by the professional men. Such men as Dr. D. A. Clarke, director of the South Okanagan Health Unit; Dr. Bruce Moir of the Kelowna Medical Society, Dr. K. Geis of the Kelowna Dental Society, and others led the parade.

Public Discussion

They quickly got the support of the Local Council of Women, who in turn spread the good word. PTA groups, service clubs, all kinds of local organizations invited fluoridation speakers, asked questions and made up their minds.

Not everyone became interested, of course. There must always be a nucleus of supporters to lead the way in these things. Opposition to fluoridation in Kelowna was not widely organized, although lots of people disregarded the advice of the doctors and dentists and decided against it, mainly, perhaps, on the grounds of expense.

When the vote was put, only one-third of the eligible voters turned out. Of these, 699 voted in favor, 381 against. This was at the end of 1954, before a 60 per cent majority was required.

Premature Suffering

I could discover only one subsequent complaint that was lodged against fluoridation. I was told how one elderly man a week or two after the plebiscite announced that he "couldn't take this water any longer." He was selling his house and getting out to some other community, where the water was pure and he could drink it without discomfort.

It was explained gently to him that fluoridation had not yet been started. That it would not be started, in fact, for another 10 months, and that all the terrible effects he was experiencing existed only in his imagination.

It reminded me of a similar incident in Brantford, Ontario, some time ago, where a woman loudly complained that her pet goldfish died promptly on the day fluoridation commenced. At least it was on the day fluoridation was supposed to commence. But, due to some hitch at the last moment the start had been postponed a day. The goldfish didn't hear about the delay, however, and died on schedule.

Sooner or later Victoria is going to be faced with a vote on the question of fluoridation. It would be worth our while to look further into Kelowna's experience, which we will do in Friday's column.

FROM ANKARA, TURKEY By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Six Little Indians

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV'S brilliant, sinister triumph over Marshal Zhukov is an event of extraordinary drama and significance. The whole history of modern times has nothing to show that is quite like this. It is an event, moreover, which casts a revealing light on the character of the man who now holds in his stubby hands fantastic power, of which Sputnik II is a symbol. For Khrushchev, one must now conclude, combines a remarkable and ruthless political talent with the genius of a great actor.

Alsop

The coarse peasant's appearance, the rough, hearty peasant's appetites, the salty peasant speech—these qualities compose the picturesque and homely facade that has deceived the world and his rivals.

All the way from the ablest Western diplomats, who used to feel so sure that Malenkov was far the abler man, to Marshal Zhukov himself, who evidently felt a dangerous measure of contempt for his jolly little friend whom he saved from utter destruction in June, everyone has under-rated Khrushchev.

No doubt Khrushchev actively wished and contrived to be under-rated. After all, it is very useful indeed to be regarded as a comic character, if your real purposes are the very opposite of comic.

And so the surprised rivals went down one by one, like the little Indians in the old song.

First Beria was executed. Then Malenkov was demoted. Then, after a long period of the most intricate maneuvering, Malenkov counter-attacked with Molotov, Kaganovich, and Shepilov to help him, and all four were destroyed with the essential help of Zhukov. And finally Zhukov, whose powers had also been vastly increased by this grisly elimination contest, has been coolly eliminated in his turn.

Last of the Mohicans

So there are no more little Indians hanging on the wall. There is now Nikita Khrushchev alone.

He has at his bidding the Party organization, as before. And now he has gained control of police and army too, by his swift and savage attack upon his savior of last June.

In sum, Khrushchev now has all the dictatorial instruments that Stalin had. But he does not yet possess the dictatorial authority, the grim, terrible but accepted personal aura that Stalin also had. And Khrushchev's Soviet Union is in many ways a very different country from the Soviet Union of Josef Stalin.

For these reasons, Nikita Khrushchev's last gamble is in some ways his biggest gamble. He has broken Marshal Zhukov, agilely seizing the chance to strip Zhukov of his seemingly invincible power when this power was in abeyance because of Zhukov's absence from Russia.

But Khrushchev has not changed the fact that Zhukov, the only national leader without the blood of the Stalin years on his hands, was also the only Russian national hero in any real sense of those words.

And he has not changed the fact, either, that a vast majority of the immediately important Soviet officer class must feel the most lively sympathy for Zhukov in their hearts, whatever they may say at their Party cell meetings.

It is one thing to name old Molotov, with marvelous irony, as Ambassador to Outer Mongolia. It is quite another thing to make the great Zhukov the commandant of a minor military school or something else of that sort. The risk is immeasurably greater. The temptation to reduce the risk by renewing Stalin's terror is also immeasurably greater.

Hence this is a breathless moment. The Soviet Union and the world must wait to learn whether Khrushchev's final triumph will be celebrated with a hecatomb of human victims.

The general probabilities point that way. The only available specific evidence points the other way, however. It comes from the Poles and Yugoslavs, who decided together at Belgrade to support Khrushchev against Zhukov by all means possible. In Warsaw, this decision was authoritatively explained to me on the ground that Khrushchev represented the best hope of continuing "liberalization" of Soviet society.

Doubtful Prospect

Perhaps Khrushchev has fooled Tito and Gomulka as he has fooled so many others. But even if they are right about him, let no one suppose that the prospect is very much more reassuring.

For "liberalization" means letting in more air, which is the most dangerous thing of all in the airless Soviet society. It means radically changing all the most long standing priorities, including military investment priorities, to give the people a better life.

Above all, it means continuing to give free play to the huge, increasingly strong new groups in the Soviet ruling class, whose challenge to the monopoly of rule of the sacred Party apparatus was typified by Zhukov. For Khrushchev, therefore, terror is almost an easier way out.

Thus the second giant nation in our divided world is now wholly in the hands of a brilliant, cool and calculating gambler who has triumphed over all his rivals by his appetite for risk.

Great difficulties confront him at home. Great opportunities glow before his eyes abroad. And by our own fantastic, self-indulgent folly, we have created a situation in which this man must inevitably believe he can most easily strengthen himself at home by success abroad.

Gentlemen, Plain or Real

Thirty years ago when he worked his first harvest, said Hugh Barrett in a BBC talk for East Anglia, the days of the great harvest scything gangs, with their own elected Lord of the Harvest on each farm, were already past, but there still remained a considerable etiquette to be observed in the fields.

"Before I was allowed to join in the work, the men insisted that I be shod and stand my footing. This was a sort of initiation ceremony in which the second horseman held up my feet in turn while the head horseman beat on the soles of my boots with a hammer, and then all the men shouted 'He's shod'."

"This was a custom which had been going on in Suffolk for centuries, and the 'paying your footing' which followed—that is paying for a gallon of beer—was probably as old. This June, I was an accepted member of the harvest gang—I had received the Freedom of the Fields."

"It was the custom also that when the farmer brought a visitor into the field for us all to cry out 'largesse' and the visitor was expected to fork out money for beer; and depending on the size of his contribution he would be spoken of as either a gentleman, a nice gentleman, or a real gentleman. I seem to recollect that there were more plain than real gentlemen even in those days!"

FROM THE SLOAN REPORT

Stepping Into the Hemlock Age --- The Swing to Pulp and Paper Production in B.C.

(Seventh of a Series)

BRITISH Columbia originally built its dominant forest economy on the strength of a premium product—the timber cut from great stands of giant Douglas fir.

Today, says Chief Justice Sloan in his forestry report, "we are nearing the end of the era when virgin fir was the major producer of our forest wealth and are approaching an economy dominated by hemlock." Hemlock produces high, premium lumber, though not so high as Douglas fir. But hemlock is the pulp species par excellence.

The shift to hemlock, broadly speaking, is the shift to pulp and paper. By volume the cut in this province is still overwhelmingly for sawmills. And the gross return in money from lumber is still higher than for pulp products.

But a materially larger percentage of the wood taken from our forests is being used for pulp than it was 10 or 15 years ago. And the money it brings, by volume, is well above that from a similar volume of wood for lumber sold on the open market.

Though pulp and paper are running behind lumber at this date, they are closing the gap and will take the lead in the foreseeable future.

A graph and some tables reproduced in the Sloan report are illuminating. The graph shows the growth in the gross value of the B.C. pulp and paper industry's production of pulp and paper from about $15 million in 1924 to about $170 million in 1955. In volume of production one table shows an increase from 471,322 short tons in 1940 to 1,407,561 in 1955.

"It is commonly said," the commissioner remarks, "that while converting a log into lumber doubles its value, the same log quadruples in value when converted into pulp."

Pulp and paper have obvious values over lumber. The raw material can be taken from younger trees and hemlock grows more readily than Douglas fir, the prime lumber species. The product, moreover, can be shipped more easily and cheaply.

There are specific forest conservation factors also favoring pulp. Pioneer work in British Columbia both in salvage from logging operations and in utilization of sawmill residuals—formerly called waste—are among the most provident developments in the forest industries. In 1955 about one-quarter of the wood consumed for pulp came from sawmill residuals.

Logging salvage is, of course, limited, as the commissioner points out, by economic factors. Chief of these is access to conversion plants. But in the use of wood formerly burned in sawmills as waste, the picture is one for pride. By processes developed here—use of barkers and chippers in conversion plants and transfer of the product to pulp mills—British Columbia sets the pace for Canada. Statistically, this province utilizes 81.3 per cent of all waste wood, converted into pulp and paper in the nation.

Such utilization, both in logging salvage and use of sawmill residuals, the commissioner points out, has a vital conservation value. It provides a volume of raw materials, previously lost, which would otherwise have to be taken from standing timber.

Beyond that, returns from sawmill residuals often make the difference between unprofitable and profitable operations for some mills. It provides the margin which keeps them going.

The net value of British Columbia's pulp and paper production in 1954 was 14 per cent of the Canadian total. This province supplied only about one-twelfth of the newsprint produced in Canada, which supplies half the world's needs for that commodity.

But the trend shows an ever-increasing swing to the pulp and paper section of B.C.'s forest industries.

By 1954 almost two-thirds of the total volume of all species processed for pulp in British Columbia was hemlock.

The pulp and paper outlook is not, however, one inviting unrestrained euphoria. Development of pulp producing forests and conversion plants in the Southern Pine region of the United States and other parts of that country has forged ahead. Great Britain is progressing with its planting program.

South Africa is advancing in its pulp and paper as well as lumber production, as are New Zealand and Australia. In addition Russia's forests provide keen competition in world markets, and the eastern provinces of Canada continue as a reservoir of huge forest wealth.

The commissioner cites pulp and paper production figures for Eastern Canada and adds: "When we look at these figures and at the steadily increasing volume of pulp production throughout the world, our production, when measured in that frame of reference, shrinks to comparative insignificance."

He is nevertheless convinced that "given a favorable economic climate in which to operate and expand, our pulp and paper industry, with its integrated operations, will contribute in a great measure to the financial stability of this province."

Such are the commissioner's views as British Columbia moves into "an economy dominated by hemlock."

WORLD NEAR DISASTER, NEHRU SOUNDS WARNING

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today the world stands on the "verge of total disaster" just when it has arrived at an interplanetary age that should promise happiness and prosperity to all.

Speaking of the success of the Russian satellite, he told the Asian regional conference of the International Labor Organization:

"Even as we record this great triumph of the human mind and human technology, we do it in fear and trembling—in fear of a conflict with each other. Our pride is damped by this fear of conflict and progress itself becomes a threat."

PTA Keeps Lookout For Crime Comics

Greater Victoria PTA members have not spotted any objectionable crime comics on local newsstands since a general alarm was sounded in Vancouver, Mrs. M. R. Wills, president of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, said today.

"As far as I know, we haven't any worry about that here," she said.

Six samples of crime comics being sold again to children in Vancouver were displayed at a recent meeting of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation in the mainland city.

Local PTA groups were advised to be on the lookout for infiltration of the literature here.

"If they do begin to show up, we will ask newsstand dealers to have them withdrawn," Mrs. Wills said.

"The dealers usually cooperate with the PTA because it is often more through ignorance than intention that they display the comics."

Several years ago Victoria PTA organizations started a campaign that caught on across Canada, resulting in the ban of crime comics from newsstands.

FROM 'CISLUNAR' TO PLANETARY DRONE

Space Age Brings New Words to Language

By WILLY LEY

(Copyright 1957, The Chicago Sun-Times)

New science and new activities require new words, and rocket engineering and space research are no exception. They have been rather prolific in coining new terms.

Some of these terms are simply German like brennschluss which means "end of burning," others are fairly self-explanatory like three-stage rocket, or ignition delay (between the firing of the stages).

One of these new terms is rather intriguing because of its implications. The word is cislunar. It means "this side of the moon," but it does not refer to the surface of the moon itself. It means that everything that is done in space inside the orbit of our moon. Since the average distance of the moon is very nearly 240,000 miles; this is a rather large space.

The very fact that such a term as cislunar has been coined means that scientists are thinking about operations which will eventually lead to operations beyond the moon; in short, interplanetary travel.

The goals of interplanetary travel are very obvious to the astronomer. The first other heavenly body which will be reached by man will, of course, be our moon. It happens to be the nearest and therefore is going to be the first.

But our neighboring planets promise to be far more interesting than the moon. Of all the planets which revolve around the sun the one closest to it is a small one called Mercury. It is only 3,100 miles in diameter (the diameter of the moon is 2,160 miles and that of earth 7,920 miles) and it races around the sun in just 88 days.

Too Cold and Too Hot

Nobody expects to go to Mercury for a long time. It is too hot on one side and too cold on the other. It also is too close to the sun, which presents several danger factors.

Next nearest the sun is Venus, which becomes visible to us as the morning and the evening star. Venus is 67,000,000 miles from the sun and takes 224.7 days to go around it once. Venus is a little bit smaller than the earth, but we don't know yet by how much. Nor do we know what the surface of Venus is like. Both these things are unknown for the same reason. Venus is forever wrapped in several dense cloud layers.

When we say that we measured the diameter of Venus we actually mean that we measured it from the top cloud cover on one side to the top cloud cover on the other side. But we don't know how much distance there is between those top cloud covers and the surface of the planet. And, for the same reason, we have never seen that surface. Next planet out is the earth, 93,000,000 miles from the sun, and then comes Mars, 141,500,000 miles from the sun on the average, with a diameter of 4,200 miles. The atmosphere of Mars is thin. Even at its surface the air is denser than on top of Mount Everest on our planet.

Because the atmosphere of Mars is so thin it is the planet about which we know most. We know that about three-quarters of its surface is reddish-yellow desert. The remaining quarter is greyish-green, and since it changes color in accordance with the seasons on Mars most astronomers are agreed that these areas are vegetation of some kind.

We have even succeeded in measuring the temperatures on Mars with sensitive instruments. It turned out that in a dark area, in summer, at about noon, the temperature is 70 degrees Fahrenheit, quite pleasant. But in the same spot, at night, even in summer, it must be about 70 degrees below zero.

A Trip to Mars?

Mars then, is not a very pleasant world, but at least we know for what to prepare, while in the case of Venus we do not know. Partly because we know what to expect, partly because Mars is the major mystery of our solar system because of the dark markings which have been called "canals," the rocket experts dream of a trip to Mars.

Dr. Werner von Braun has sacrificed his evenings and weekends for years calculating ing a trip to Mars. Could it be done with the fuels we now have? The answer is yes—and the trip would take 260 days, one way — provided there were a space station circling the earth, near which the ships for the Mars expedition could be assembled.

However, if we have a space station, we can do something else. Why send men on the first trip? For good planning we have to know what to expect at the other end. Instruments can tell us what to expect and they can report by radio.

So why not send the instru-

New Business Tax Bills Going Out Payable Dec. 15

Business tax bill going out this week are due and payable Dec. 15, Victoria city comptroller Dennis A. Young said today.

Mr. Young said he did not believe collections would be a problem as 65 per cent of the gross revenue is already paid—as trade licence fees.

In every case where trade licence has been paid, this amount is credited to the business tax. In the few cases where trade licence fees are greater than the business tax levy, no further payment is required.

The city budgeted to receive $460,000 from the two levies.

Russia Builds Giant Navy, Admiral Warns

PARIS (Reuters) — United States Admiral Jerauld Wright warned today that Russia is building a huge navy designed to isolate North America from Europe and destroy the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Wright, supreme Allied commander in the Atlantic, added: "All our war plans are prepared, are approved and are ready."

He was giving a private briefing of navy defence plans to legislators of the 15 NATO countries in conference here. Extracts from his statement were later released to the press.

The admiral said that Russia has developed the largest submarine fleet ever known in peacetime.

Moscow is building a navy larger than all the others in the world combined except for the United States navy, he said, for the purpose of "the isolation of North America from Europe, the defeat of NATO at sea and therefore the destruction of our alliance."

Russia is known to have 500 submarines and is building between 75 and 100 every year, Allied sources say.

Wright said the "clear inference" of the size of the Soviet submarine fleet is that Russia does not visualize a short war.

"Whatever your estimate of the length of war, it is evident that we must assure the security of the seas for the duration of any emergency," he said.

"One sure way to bring on ultimate defeat would be to lose our sea communications and therefore our unity."

Russ Not Planning Short War

The task of the Allied Atlantic Command, Wright said, is to assure that North America and Europe are strongly tied together.

"We are mutually supporting each of the other," he said.

He added: "The Soviet submarine fleet is not one which can make itself felt in the early stages of a war. It must be deployed and its effective employment will take time—time beyond what many feel will mark the termination of hostilities."

"The clear inference to me is that the Soviet in building this fleet do not visualize a short war."

He said that for the security of the Atlantic Allied Command Atlantic had these tasks to perform:

"1. First and most important is the employment of naval atomic forces against the forces of Soviet naval power. This we do with the striking fleet including aircraft carriers and other forces with an atomic capability."

'SILENT' MP MAKES SPEECH

OTTAWA (CP) — J. H. Harrison (L-Meadow Lake) Tuesday kept his promise to those who elected him June 10: "Namely that I would make a speech after the election."

So, being a saxophone player, "I conducted most of my campaign with an orchestra."

HE'LL GET KISSED, TOO

Out of Frying Pan Into Pond Is Fish's Reward for Survival

PONTELAND, England (AP) — A tenacious tench named Oswald has hit the jackpot. As a reward for staying alive 17 hours out of water, he is going to have his own private pond—with no fishing allowed.

Contractor George Clay, who caught two-pound Oswald several weeks ago, is spending £270 ($756) to have the pond built.

Clay snaked Oswald out of a stream at Kidderminster, 270 miles from here. Wrapped in a dry newspaper, the fish made the trip home in the trunk compartment of Clay's car and stayed there overnight.

The next morning Mrs. Clay, knife poised, was about to start carving Oswald into breakfast filets when he gave a sudden wiggle.

The Clays didn't have the heart to eat the hardy little fellow, so they put him in a bathtub, where he is doing nicely on a diet of grubs and bread crumbs.

Their two-year-old daughter, Beverly, insisted on keeping Oswald as a pet.

Mrs. Clay told a reporter: "He's getting to be a real

Support Urged For Faster Ferry Service

Oak Bay and Esquimalt municipal councils Tuesday were urged to support Mayor Percy Scurrell's bid for a fast ferry service between Sidney and the mainland.

Coun. Eugene Diespecker, candidate for the Saanich reeve-ship, said "everyone will benefit—even the housewives—with a faster ferry."

Saanich council has endorsed the mayor's campaign and the two other municipalities also should give their support, he said.

"The whole region would benefit because savings on freight could run as high as four or five cents a hundredweight," Coun. Diespecker said.

Newest entry in the election campaign is postal worker Harold Todd, 1402 Andrews, who said Tuesday he would try for the one-year term left by Coun. Diespecker's resignation.

Mr. Todd called for a referendum to determine whether ratepayers wish an investigation of amalgamation. If defeated "it will save spending money on an inquiry the people may not want," he said.

Record Catch By Youngster

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — A nine-pound, three-ounce eastern chain pickerel caught July 6 by Frank McGovern, 11, of Medford Lakes, N.J., Tuesday was declared a world record for that species.

The youthful angler caught the fish in lower Aetna Lake near his home. He will receive an outboard motor as the grand prize winner of the fresh water division of the annual contest sponsored by a national wildlife magazine.

The previous record was a nine-pounder by Russell Trimble of Green Pond, N.J., Jan. 5, 1948.

27% BOOST ACROSS CANADA V.I. Hits Quota In Savings Bonds

Vancouver Island has hit 100 per cent of the Canada Savings Bond area objective in payroll deductions from commercial and industrial firms, bond headquarters announced today.

Twenty-six of 51 establishments subscribed over their quotas.

Throughout Canada to Nov. 8, bond sales totalled $654 million, a 27 per cent increase over the same period of the 1956 campaign.

94 PER CENT

The B.C. payroll group reports purchases of $13,500,000, or 94 per cent of last year.

Payroll deductions across the country were listed at $194 million, and probable final figure will be close to last year's record $214 million.

General sales surged as orders dated after Nov. 1 came in from banks and investment dealers. Number of purchases is down in this classification but the average purchase is up to $1.663 per transaction.

Missile Plans Junked by GOP

Truman Says He Had Program Going When Republicans Came Into Power

NEW YORK (UP)—Former President Truman said today that under his administration "we had a guided missile program" but when the Republicans came into power "the whole program was dropped."

He said the missile program was inaugurated "about the time the Germans were bombing London" and that he brought in K. T. Keller, a former president of the Chrysler Corp., to co-ordinate the air force, navy and army missile programs.

Truman said he told his own "missiles czar" that if the service rivals "don't come together, I'll help you knock their heads together."

The former president made the statements in a brief, walking press conference as he went from his hotel to the home of his son-in-law, Clifton Daniel, for breakfast.

Asked whether the Eisenhower administration was to blame for a United States lag in missiles and satellite developments, Truman said "that's where the blame belongs."

New York Paper 'Crazy as Hell'

He was told that a New York newspaper (The News) had said in an editorial that Truman had no right to criticize Eisenhower, as there had been no missile program under his own administration.

"That's just crazy as hell," Truman said.

The former president also said he had not been contacted by the Eisenhower administration in regard to the forthcoming meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization heads of state in Paris.

There had been speculation in Washington that perhaps a new attempt would be made to lead the Eisenhower-Truman rift to bring about bi-partisan unity in dealing with Russia's scientific challenge.

Truman would make no comment on Adlai Stevenson's acceptance of an advisory role in connection with the Dec. 16 Paris meeting. Asked whether he would accept a position in the meetings if invited, Truman said:

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Truman said he agreed with former President Hoover that Americans should take a "bird's eye" rather than a "worm's eye" view of Russian technical and scientific advancements.

"That sounds sensible," Truman said. "It sounds as if what he (Hoover) has in mind is for us to review our position up and down and crossways and I hope we do that."

Winnipeg Coal Trust Fined $20,000 Total

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fines totalling $20,000 were assessed Tuesday against 18 Greater Winnipeg coal firms and their operators for conspiring to form a combine.

The fines were handed down by Chief Justice E. K. Williams in varying amounts according to the firm or individual participation in a scheme which began on Jan. 1, 1946, and Oct. 31, 1952, allegedly set prices for coal sold by tender in the area.

In addition to the fines, Chief Justice Williams also issued a restraining order which prohibits the firms from participating in a combine in future and forbids them to take part in monopolies.

Sixteen of the firms pleaded guilty last week and two pleaded guilty yesterday.

Heaviest fine was one of $2,500 and the lowest was $250.

The firms and individuals fined were: Winnipeg Supply and Fuel, $2,500; Federal Grain Limited, which operates Fort Rouge Coal Company, $2,000; Hagborg Fuel Limited, $1,500; Harstone Coal Company, $2,000; Thomas Jackson and Sons, $2,000; Jubilee Coal Company, $250; McCurdy Supply Company, Limited, $1,500; Northland Coal and Ice Company, $2,000; Red River Co-operative Supply, $750; Windatt Coal Company, Limited, $750; Beverly Fuel Supply, $250; John Irvine and Sons, $250; Crown Fuel Supply, $250; Wolfman Fuel Supply, $250; J. $1,000 LEFT TO SQUANDER

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A woman described as "having a fine sense of humor" has willed $1,000 to her son-in-law "to spend foolishly."

Ben B. Herr, the son-in-law, also was named executor of the estate probated Tuesday. He said he didn't know why Mrs. Sara Cecil Taylor should make such a bequest.

The rest of the $100,000 estate was left mostly to Mrs. Taylor's daughter, Herr's wife.

Motor in tail, activated by gyroscope, can tilt in several directions to correct course.

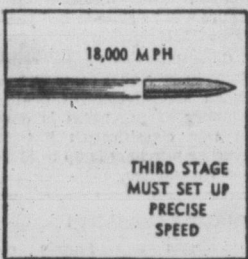

Push of earth's eastward rotation helps. Burnout height must be accurate.

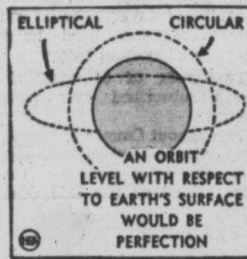

A coasting period could allow independent jet nozzles to function as steering device.

More auxiliary rockets could fire automatically to set up a desirable rotation speed of something like 200 revolutions per minute.

Speed must be calculated carefully to balance outward (centrifugal) force with pull of gravity. This varies with distance away from earth.

This would be difficult at present stage of knowledge. Even such things as shape of earth and magnetic field influence can throw orbit into elliptical shape.

PROBLEMS IN ORBITING A ROCKET

It isn't easy to orbit a rocket. Here are some of the problems encountered by U.S. scientists in designing the Vanguard rocket and planning its flight. The biggest problem, that of thrust, revolves about the power of fuel used. U.S. scientists have expressed concern because Soviet fuels seem more powerful than ours. This may account for the fact that the Sputnik rockets are fanned while Vanguard is not. There is no indication as to how they overcame other difficulties sketched above but some of the theoretical solutions are suggested below each sketch.

SPUTNIK GETS INTO TRADE AS NEW VODKA

Punishment Stands For Missile Prophet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Army's fortunes in the satellite and missile field have changed—but not those of Col. John C. Nickerson.

Nickerson was the officer at the army ballistic missile agency, Huntsville, Ala., convicted by a court-martial on charges that he sent unauthorized persons documents containing secret material. The charges grew out of his one-man campaign against limiting army missile activity.

At Knoxville, Tenn., last week Ray Jenkins, Nickerson's counsel at the court-martial, said the defence department order assigning the army to a place in the satellite field was "complete vindication" for Col. Nickerson.

The army also has been allowed to continue testing its Jupiter missile for which Nickerson fought.

A check with the army headquarters at Washington today indicated that there is no move now contemplated to soften the punishment handed out to Nickerson.

So far as can be determined, he is to continue the assignment as an "inspector of engineering facilities" in the Panama Canal Zone.

The army ordered him there last August. In doing that, it also cut him off from any connection with the work he had been doing.

Huge deposits of peat found in East Pakistan are estimated to cover about 200 square miles.

Adlai Stipulates Terms For Aiding Ike at NATO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson held out the possibility today he may accompany President Eisenhower to the Paris NATO "summit" meeting next month.

From a haze of confusion, the role of the Democrat whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the U.S. presidency emerged as that of adviser—and possibly a participant—in proposals Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles will present to a North Atlantic Treaty meeting of heads of government in Paris Dec. 16.

An error by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, brought on the uncertainty which both Hagerty and Stevenson later sought to clarify.

WILL REVIEW POLICIES

Stevenson said he had informed Dulles a week ago that he would not undertake to formulate the president's policies, I would gladly review and discuss our government's proposals before they were put into final shape."

Hagerty said Stevenson will be kept informed of the developing program and will, we hope, discuss the items in the program with the administration before they are finalized.

In a bid for bipartisan support, Stevenson was offered at first a key position in both formulating and presenting United States proposals to strengthen NATO against Russia's growing missile strength.

Even in the more limited advisory role, officials let it be known that Stevenson could go with Eisenhower and Dulles to Paris if he chose to.

FOREIGN AID INCREASE

In New York Tuesday night, Stevenson said he would be willing to attend the Paris meeting. But whether he would go, he said, would depend on the shape of the United States proposals.

He indicated one condition might be an increase in foreign aid which would require a relaxation of the $175,000,000,000 limit on the United States federal debt.

Stevenson issued his statement after Hagerty had announced at first that Stevenson would limit his co-operation to commenting on the program after it had been developed.

Hagerty, conceding later he had made an error, said he had misunderstood the meaning of the word "comment". He agreed Stevenson's role would be to consult and comment while the policies are in preparation. He said he was "red-faced" about his error and had hurried to correct it after he discovered it.

Major oil company representatives Tuesday asked the City of Victoria to leave hours of gasoline sales unrestricted.

They proposed a public opinion poll, at their expense, to prove the drivers of the district favored the present non-regulated hours of sale.

City council is pondering a by-law which would require service stations to either close at 6 p.m. or stay open 24 hours a day. Victoria Automobile Club has recommended regulation of hours be left to the service station operators.

ON HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Tories Stalling Claims Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin has accused the federal government of "stalling" implementation of a national hospital insurance scheme.

He told the Victoria North Kiwanis Club Tuesday this was the effect of a decision to hold back federal funds until hospital insurance plans were in operation in six provinces.

He said rising hospital costs in B.C. was "a serious matter." Since 1939, hospital bed capacity has increased 37 per cent, staffs 80 per cent and total patient days 50 per cent.

Wages have roughly trebled in the past nine years but more demands are being made.

"My duty is to protect taxpayers from excessive costs in the hospitals," Mr. Martin said. "They are asking for more money all the time. They never had so much."

City Needs Technical Planners

Greater Victoria municipalities will have to hire technical planning staffs to turn an impending development plan for the region into reality, capital region planner Brahm Wiesman said Tuesday night.

He told a Saanich Council committee the plan "will be just so much paper" if municipalities did not employ technical staffs to implement it.

ONE MORE Elworthy Elected By Tories

Gordon Elworthy, elected president of the Oak Bay Conservative Association Tuesday for a two-year term, said the organization has grown from about 25 to 145 members in the past six months.

Other officers elected were Gerald Carter and Anna Wootton, vice-presidents; Mrs. F. X. Russell, secretary, and William Mann, treasurer. Ten members were elected to the executive.

Robber Tackled

MONTREAL (CP) — Two bank employees tackled a suspected bank robber Tuesday after a holdup of less than $1,000 took place at a branch of the Bank of Montreal in mid-town Montreal.

Club Owner Protests Socred League Ouster

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary club owner Cliff Harris, ejected from the Alberta Social Credit League, said Tuesday night he will not surrender his membership card.

"I regard Orvis Kennedy (of Edmonton), president of the league, as a petty dictator," he said in an interview. "I shall not surrender my membership card."

Mr. Harris was informed by registered letter that he had been expelled because he opposed an official party candidate, S. J. Helman, in the Oct. 2 provincial by-election in Calgary.

Progressive Conservative Ernest Watkins was elected in a five-man field with Mr. Helman running a close second. Mr. Harris polled the fewest votes.

"I think the main reason for the expulsion was because I ran a campaign for liquor reform and the result of the provincial plebiscite Oct. 30 has endorsed that demand," the night club owner said.

He is the second Calgary politician to be ejected from the Alberta Social Credit League. A former constituency president, J. Leslie Hill, lost his membership a few years ago when he allegedly asked oil companies to contribute to party funds.

Crumble one Oxo cube with one tsp. flour. Add cup cold water, bring to boil. Simmer 5 minutes.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was moderately active today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Pressure in flux was irregular with some increase in offerings from various sources. Prices were on the lower trend during early trade. After some buying by commission houses and international interests on recessions, prices firm as the session progressed.

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grain futures declined on the Board of Trade today, turning downward on a late selling wave that disclosed lack of follow-through demand.

Wheat was off as much as 1½ cents a bushel at one time and losses in rice ranged up to 1¼ cents a bushel near the close. Soybeans were down a cent or more and oats dipped fractionally.

Rye followed the lower trend ally. Traders said weakness in wheat futures was influenced partly by Canadian claims that Canada has been injured by United States methods in dis-lands 400,000, Italy 375,000, Pakistan 270,000, Belgium 265,000, Germany 245,000 and Japan 20,000.

Lakehead prices for Class 2, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Tuesday.

WITH RCMP MUSICAL RIDE

August Date Asked For Nanaimo Fair

NANAIMO—Vancouver Island Exhibition Association president Norman Westman said an application will be made today at the B.C. Fairs Association convention here to advance the 1958 exhibition at Nanaimo to Aug. 13.

Mr. Westman said the Nanaimo association plans a four-day show starting Aug. 13 to conform with appearance at Nanaimo that day of the RCMP musical ride.

Cattleman and fair showmen favor the earlier date over September. If the exhibition request is granted at the B.C. Fairs meet the 1958 fair at Nanaimo will precede the Pacific National Exhibition by one week.

Nanaimo Centennial Committee, which is preparing for the RCMP musical ride and band concert, was also unanimous in welcoming the suggested change.

New Church For Historic Coast Mission

TOFINO—A mission founded at Friendly Cove on Nootka Sound in 1789, and revived again in 1890, is still going ahead and soon will have a new church to be named for St. Pius.

The exterior of the building already is finished, but interior work has yet to be started. It is 90 feet in length, and covered with asphalt siding. Contractor is E. J. Boughen of Vancouver, and his foreman on the job is Ivo Holstein.

When completed it will be the largest Roman Catholic church north of Port Alberni, and will dominate the heart of one of the most historic areas of Vancouver Island.

Capt. John Meares first saw Nootka, three miles north of Friendly Cove, in 1786, and left in 1788 after the launching of the North West America, first ship built in the North Pacific.

The Spanish arrived at Nootka in 1789, and the same year the Franciscan Fathers founded the mission near the site of the present church. Their first mass was celebrated on the Feast of St. John the Baptist, June 24, 1789, and the first sermon preached was "I am the Voice of One crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight."

Founder of the Spanish mission was Padre Magin Catala, born in Spain in 1761, who arrived in Santa Clara, Calif., on completion of his novitiate as a Franciscan priest.

learn that old Indians could describe the shape, color, and appearance of the cowls worn by the Spanish missionaries a century earlier.

Rev. A. S. Stern took over the mission in 1908, studied the language of the Indians, made many converts, and won the acclaim of the Indians as a "Nootka man."

The new church takes its name from Pope Pius X, now St. Pius, who took a personal interest in the mission and was in direct correspondence with the Indians of the church.

One hundred years after the arrival of the Spanish, Bishop C. J. Seghers and Rev. A. J. Brabant bought land where St. Pius Church now stands. The two clergymen were startled to Mr. Farquhar played "a leading role" in raising of funds for the CNIB. He was a former chairman of the Duncan branch which he was instrumental in forming.

Due to his activities, more than $30,000 was raised within seven years.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA) — Whitey Bimstein was standing in front of Tommy Jackson in the barren Polo Grounds dressing room, shielding him from boxing writers who wanted to know if the punching bag with legs was still alive after 11 tortuous rounds with Floyd Patterson.

"He don't want to talk to nobody," rasped the trainer, who meant that the Hurricane was in no condition to talk to anybody.

Then Bimstein told his dismembered tiger to put on his clothes. Jackson fumbled with a thin cotton undershirt. His hands moved slowly, grabbing it with an exaggerated motion. He was like a drunk concentrating on walking a straight line. It required all he had left—plus some help—to get dressed.

Outside the Polo Grounds, Freddie Brown, Jackson's other handler, chewed on a cigar as he waited for a cab. "Yes, he did," Freddie said. "Yes, he did. He took a lot of pretty good punches."

With the veteran and hardened Brown, who has been in one corner or the other in thousands of fights, "pretty good punches" means just what happened. Jackson took an awesome beating, and as he tried to dress there was every indication that he was badly hurt.

There wasn't a soul in the ball park who didn't say that Jackson should never again be permitted to fight. Everybody was fully convinced that the crazy-quilt clouter of Rockaway Beach had absorbed more punishment than the human body ever was intended to take.

They were right, for later that night Jackson had to be rushed to a Long Island hospital.

This was only three months ago, yet Jackson is going into a San Francisco ring for a scheduled 12 rounds with Eddie Machen, a stiff, straight punching young man out of Redding, Calif. The date: Tonight.

There are no walls of official anguish. There are no shouts that Jackson no longer can hold his hands up. Not a single politician or political appointee stresses that Tommy is just a poor illiterate boy whom the other fellow can't miss and one night may walk into something much more tragic than oblivion.

There are only press releases and ballyhoo. But when Pete Rademacher, a young and strong ex-army officer, thought so much of his chances against Patterson that he raised $250,000 with which to purchase the crack at the crown, there were more objections raised to the Seattle scrap than there are at a trial of a labor racketeer.

Governor Albert D. Rosellini of Washington received protests from United States senators, the World Championship Committee, the National Boxing Association and every state boxing commission but his own.

Now Hurricane Tommy Jackson's blood bothers nobody, simply because he is still rated highly officially as a prize fighter. Just because he has the rating, it seems that poor Jackson has to be knocked out again to be definitely disposed of.

This despite the fact that the four blocks which separate his home from that of Floyd Patterson in St. Albans, Long Island, is as close as he should be allowed to get to another pasting.

Patterson, in fact, probably put it best. "They shouldn't make matches for him," the champion said. "They should teach him to defend himself first. He doesn't even know how to hold up his hands."

The Machen-Jackson mismatch further illustrates that the basic principles of the humane society have not yet been discovered by people in the boxing business who think only of making a fast buck.

CHIEFS MOVE AHEAD

Vs Finally Put End To Scoring Drought

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Kamloops Chiefs passed the one-leading Kelowna Packers in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League Tuesday and Pentiction Vs made noises as if to do likewise.

Chiefs, sparked by fine goaltending from Jim Shirley, came up with three third-period goals to beat the Canadians in Vernon 6-4. In Pentiction the Vs, after losing two in a row to Kamloops and scoring only once in the two games, exploded for five first-period goals to trounce and Bud Andrews padded the margin in the final stanza.

In the only Western International League competition, Rossland Warriors won their third game of the season against five losses when they beat Trail Smoke Eaters 5-1.

At Vernon Johnny Millard, Bill Warwick and Buddy Evans triggered third-period goals for Kamloops. Vernon rightwinger Jim Moro had tied the count at 3-3 early in the third before the Chiefs broke it open. Moro scored the Canadians' fourth goal, but from then until it was over Shirley kicked out everything that came within range.

Walt Peachos and Bob Harper each netted a pair for the Vs. Winger Johnny Untch, who also counted one, for Pentiction.

END OF A LEAF ERA

'Smiddy' Was Last of the Old Guard

By Canadian Press
The passing of Sid Smith from the National Hockey League closes an era in the history of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The slim, hawk-nosed left-winger who bowed out Monday was one of the last Leafs who could hark back to the late forties and early fifties when Toronto was a power in the league.

One other man is left—Tod Sloan—and though only two years younger at 30, he was never really considered a member of the old guard.

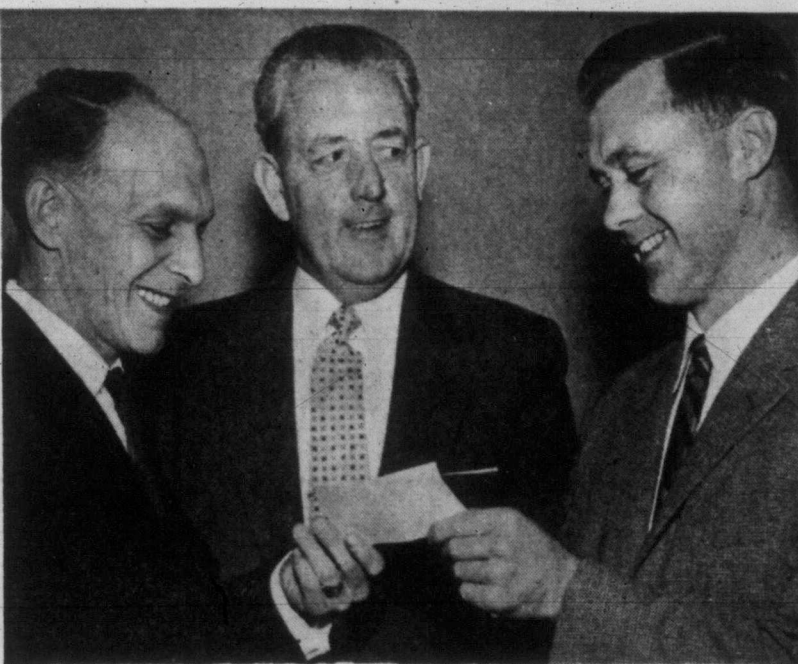

The rest, Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker, Jim Thomson, Gus Morton, Turk Broda, Hay Day, Joe Primeau, are all gone, and only Broda is still a member of the Toronto organization.

Perhaps for Smith the era really ended on the last game of the 1954-55 season when Ted Kennedy, his great centre, retired. Though Kennedy made a brief, desperate comeback last season, the two were never reunited on the same line and "Smiddy" never really found the scoring touch he once had.

When he had it, from 1949 until 1955, he was one of the best around and he, or anyone else, can prove it by the record book.

Twice he won the Lady Byng trophy for "sportsmanlike and gentlemanly conduct" despite the fact he was

Rangers Bring Up Ex-Cougar, Paille

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League recalled goalie Marcel Paille and defenceman Ivan Irwin, a former Victoria Cougar, from Providence Reds Tuesday. Both are expected to be in the lineup when Blueshirts tangle with Chicago Black Hawks in Madison Square Garden tonight.

General manager Muzz Patrick said Gump Worsley, Rangers' regular goalie, still was troubled by a pulled thigh muscle. In addition, Worsley suffered cuts above and below the right eye in Tuesday's workout and ice packs were required to reduce a swelling. He has been sidelined since Oct. 31.

Paille was sent back to the American Hockey League Reds Sunday after playing five games in the New York nets. He allowed 10 goals as the Rangers put together a 3-1 record during his term.

Irwin, with the Blueshirts two years ago, will replace Bill Gadsby, who wrenched his back in Chicago last Saturday and will miss his first NHL game in five seasons.

All or Nothing In Semifinal Game Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders meet tonight in a sudden-death, Big Four semifinal playoff—the game that means the end of the 1957 football season for the losing team.

The winner meets Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a home-and-home, total-point series beginning this Saturday with the final game a week later, to choose the eastern representative in this year's Grey Cup game at Toronto.

Riders held a light, half-hour workout Tuesday night, their second this week. Also arrived in Ottawa after a light workout in Montreal Tuesday afternoon.

Both teams have been hard hit by injuries, but all the ailing were expected to dress tonight.

Other WHL Coaches Wouldn't Mind Ride

Chapman Irked Despite Lead Held by Canucks

Art Chapman, coach of the Western Hockey League Vancouver Canucks, is not unlike a shrewd automobile buyer. He wants performance and looks—in that order—from his team.

The looks are there. The 1957 Canuck model is leading the Pacific Coast field; a good looking machine in the standings showroom. But in the miles-to-the-gallon department, Chapman is not satisfied.

Vancouver extended their Coast Division margin to three points over New Westminster Royals Monday when they beat the last-place Victoria Cougars 3-2 in overtime.

WIN FOR WARRIORS

In the only game Tuesday, Winnipeg Warriors won their first game in four starts against Edmonton Flyers 4-2. The victory shoved Alf Pike's crew one point ahead of Flyers in the close race for top spot on the Prairies.

Back on the coast Chapman was irked by the rough ride Canucks took as they won their ninth game in 11 dates. They have tied one.

He said his team were overweight and pokey. "They're in worse shape now than when we broke training camp last month in Winnipeg," he said following their victory over Cougars.

EGAN BACK

The game against Victoria saw Pat Egan, signed last week by the Island team, make his first appearance on Vancouver ice since he left the Canucks two years ago. The 39-year-old ex-Boston Bruin left as coach of the Western International Hockey League to don the Cougar coaching mantle.

The flamboyant Irishman's first game with Victoria saw them trip Calgary Stampede 4-1 for their only victory in 12 games. To Egan, this single success was no fluke. "This club doesn't belong in last place unless the Coast Division got awful tough since I left. . . . I'll take more than bad breaks to keep us out of the playoffs."

FLYERS LOSE LEAD

In Winnipeg Tuesday George Ford and Gordie Redahl beat Edmonton goalie Dennis Righlin in the third period for the Warriors win. It was Redahl's second goal of the night.

Howie Glover tied the game for the Warriors in the second after the Flyers had taken a 2-1 lead. Metro Prystai led Edmonton, scoring one goal and setting up Len Lunde for the other.

Only three points separate Warriors from last-place Calgary on the Prairies—Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals trail the Flyers by one, in third.

Tonight, Victoria plays in New Westminster and Winnipeg travels to Calgary. A win for the Royals would put them within one point of the Coast-leading Canucks.

Should last-place Calgary knock off the Warriors it would climb into a second-place tie with Edmonton on the inland circuit.

FANS TO SELECT TEAMS IN WHL ALL-STAR GAME

SEATTLE (AP) — The first annual all-star game of the Western Hockey League will be played at Calgary Jan. 8, 1958, between all-star teams of the Prairie and Coast Divisions, league headquarters has announced.

Proceeds of the game will go to the WHL Players' Benefit Fund, which has been founded to assist needy hockey players of the league.

Fans in Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon-St. Paul and Winnipeg will vote for the Prairie team and the fans in Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster will select the Coast team.

All fines collected by the WHL have been transferred to the WHL Players' Benefit Fund by vote of the league directors. The fund now totals more than $9,000.

Trader Accepts Indian Challenge

CLEVELAND (AP) — An explosive 61-year-old baseball executive with a reputation for shrewd trading is faced today with making pennant contenders of the Cleveland Indians—and fill spacious Municipal Stadium with fans who will pay to see them play.

Egan Sets Objective For Cats

Gordie Wilson will step back into action as Victoria Cougars start a rugged four-day Western Hockey League chase against the Royals at New Westminster tonight.

Wilson, the smooth centre who has been resting a troublesome knee, will take over for Frank Milne, who suffered a hip injury as the Victoria club dropped an overtime struggle to Vancouver Canucks Monday.

Milne is also expected to miss the game against Americans at Seattle Friday, but may be back in the lineup when the Coast Division leading Canucks appear at Memorial Arena Saturday night.

SHUFFLES LINES

Coach Pat Egan, who has set a minimum of four points as the Cats' objective for the three games, plans to shuffle two of his forward lines as he sends the Cougars out after their second win of the season.

He will leave his top unit of Colin Kilburn, Eddie Dorohoy and Doug Macauley intact and will work Wilson between Larry Leach and Fred Brown. Pivoting for Doug Kilburn and Blinky Boyce will be Gordie Haworth.

Manager Colin Kilburn still had no word this morning on negotiations he hopes will bring the Cougars one or two experienced players.

Island Hoop Champs Launch New Campaign

Dickinson & Dunn opens defence of its city and Vancouver Island senior "B" men's basketball crowns at Central Junior High School Thursday night with several new players in the lineup.

The Double D's, who meet Morrisons in the feature game of a three-game Victoria and District Basketball League program, will be without several stars of last season's team, including Johnny Clark, Barry Jackson and Gordie Jones.

The high-scoring trio has lined up with a new entry—Dairy Queen Eds—and will make their first appearance with their new club in the second round, against Royal Roads, a junior squad which will compete in the senior league until playoffs.

Opening the card at 7:30 will be a senior women's game between Victoria B's and Victoria Meteors.

Two games are scheduled at the same gymnasium Saturday. Victoria B's will tangle with Victoria College Vikes in the opener at 7:30 and Royal Roads will battle Victoria College Vikings in the second encounter.

Machen Wants To 'Win Big'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Boxing followers discover tonight if Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson has dropped from heavyweight title challenger to trial horse within the short space of two fights.

The tireless warrior battles the No. 1 challenger, undefeated Ed Machen, in a televised 12-rounder at the Cow Palace.

This marks the first outing for Jackson since July 29, when, as the top-ranked challenger, he was shellacked by champion Floyd Patterson. The one-sided bout was stopped in the 10th round. Jackson went to hospital.

Now comes the hard-hitting Machen, a 25-year-old from Redding, Calif., who is undefeated in 23 bouts. He says he wants to "win big" to impress everyone with his right to battle Patterson.

Pro-Am Tourney May be Stimulant

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Now is as good a time as any for Victoria and District Golf Association officials to stop, look and listen... and also make a bid to institute a pro-amateur tournament as a means of picking up the slack created by the winter season.

Like a good five-cent cigar, a good pro-am event would most certainly be appreciated in many quarters.

Before more is said, it should be pointed out that this is not meant, in any way, as criticism of the present monthly medal matches, which are interesting and which should definitely be continued.

If Victoria's golf lacks anything, it seems it may be a pro-amateur event. Most other large and neighboring cities, including Seattle and Vancouver, stage such tournaments and look to them as important dates on their calendar.

One of the most oft-used (now well-worn) excuses against a pro-am here has been: "There aren't enough playing pros around to make it successful."

Let it be said Victoria has never had it so good for, as of today, there are at least eight pros available. Among these are Ron McLeod, professional at Jasper Park who winters in Victoria; Joe Pryke, Ron Cuth, Bill Court, Laurie Carroll, Norm Boden,

The present weather may not be conducive to good golf, but that doesn't seem to bother Fleming, the unattached pro who will stage a golf clinic at the Gorge Vale course November 21, and Laurie Kerr, Colwood amateur.

Bob came within shooting distance of the course record at Victoria Golf Club last week, and Monday afternoon stepped out on the Gorge Vale course for another brilliant round.

Kerr, city amateur champ, meanwhile gave the Uplands' record a scare while winning gross honors in Monday's Remembrance Day competition.

Fleming, playing the Oak Bay layout with Keith Olson and Bill Fergie, reached the 17th tee needing a birdie and a par to match the pro mark of 61 owned by Phil Taylor.

But Bob took a fat seven on the par-five 17th and a par four on the 18th to finish with a four-under-par 65, one above the amateur record shared by Bill McColl and Vic Painter.

He had seven birdies, one double bogey and two bogeys in his round.

Monday afternoon, playing in a foursome with Pryke, Jeff Beech and Les Holding, Fleming carded a brilliant 66, six under par, at the Gorge. He was out in 34 and in with a 32.

Kerr also turned in a near-flawless round when he toured Uplands in 66, four under par and one stroke off the course mark shared by Ken Lawson and Seattle's Chuck Congdon.

Laurie was three under at the turn, with a 32, and came in with a 34. He started his round by taking a bogey five on the first. His card included five birdies and 12 pars, all fours and threes.

Colwood's Bryant Trophy competition... they lost their semifinal match in the two-ball foursome event to Ernie Bayliss and Frank Skillings.

Kerr, who undoubtedly enjoyed his weekend, took a five-stroke lead in monthly medal play with a par-equaling 72 at the Gorge Sunday.

Laurie and Fleming shared low gross honors as 32 golfers took part in the second of the monthly matches.

Veteran George Bigelow came in with a 74... Hugh Fletcher of Gorge Vale, Danny McLean of Uplands, and Joe Evans of Colwood tied for net honors, each with 71.

Kerr, who posted a 72 in the first round, is five strokes ahead of Cuth's 149... Third round will be played at Uplands Dec. 8.

Jim Squires, who defeated Fleming on the 38th hole in 1950 to win the B.C. amateur title, is a Victoria visitor... he makes his home in Edmonton now... Defending champion George Sparling and Jack Langan fell to the wayside at the weekend in

Canucks Vault To Top Place In Puck Loop

Lake Cowichan Canucks vaulted into first place in the Suburban Hockey League as they clipped Port Alberni Flyers, 6-4, in one of two weekend games at Nanaimo.

Defeat dropped the Flyers out of the top spot, one point back of Canucks and two points ahead of Nanaimo-Ladysmith Combines.

The Combines chalked up their second win of the season as they extended Courtenay's losing skein through a fifth game by downing Courtenay, 5-3.

went on sale Monday, the "sold right out" sign was hanging in the Gardens box office window. Dynamos and the Dunlops will represent Russia and Canada, respectively, in the world amateur hockey tournament next February in Norway.

GRUDGE GAME Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen tackle the Dynamos Nov. 26 at Kitchener. They have a score to settle with the Russians, who beat Kitchener in the 1956 world championships.

Last week 8,000 tickets went on sale, and shortly after the Kitchener management announced so many fans were milling around the box office "we could have sold 20,000 for this one."

Only 400 rush seats were left three hours after seats went on sale for the Russia-Windsor Bulldogs game, Nov. 24, at Windsor. All reserve seats were sold out. Capacity is 5,400.

The Montreal Forum expects to sell out its 13,535 seats for the appearance of the Dynamos there, Dec. 1, against Ottawa-Hull Canadiens.

Ralph's Romp Leaves Football Brass in Fog

RALPH TOOHEY

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—It probably won't happen, but the Canadian Rugby Union should clarify before Grey Cup time Nov. 30 the rule concerning players who hop off the bench on to the playing field. Otherwise, it is conceivable that Canada's greatest sports spectacle could be loused up properly.

Right now, the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Unions (they are the CRU) are as much in a fog about the rule as football fans. A sad commentary is that some league executives admit it.

This intelligence cropped up when the Big Four brass met in Toronto to deal with a Montreal protest following the escape of helmet-less Ralph Toohy, the Hamilton Tiger-Cat who dashed off the bench to foil what Alouettes claimed was a certain game-winning touchdown.

THREE-HOUR SESSION

The executive pondered three hours behind closed doors and innocently announced the protest had been thrown out because they weren't clear on the rule. They wiggled out of a decision by saying that action should be taken at the Big Four annual meeting to recommend that the CRU clarify the rule.

Fair enough, but their timing is off. The Big Four meets in January, two months after the East-West final, and the CRU gets together next March. The rule is clear enough if a ball-carrier obviously touch-down-bound, is tackled by a bench-hopping player. A touchdown is awarded.

But Toohy's case is a little bit different. He dashed onto the field before the ball had been snapped, and that's where the confusion exists. Does play begin when the referee signals time in, or when the ball is snapped?

Imagine the mass confusion if a similar case came up in the Grey Cup final before 27,400 partisan fans with the result of the game hinging on the decision? Suppose the team is penalized 10 yards for having an extra man on the field as in the Toohy case and no touchdown awarded?

What league or game official would dare to give a decision on the spot without a clear-cut ruling beforehand from the CRU, the governing body in the east-west playoff?

The boys still have time to get together and clear the air on this point.

CRITICAL COMMENT

Lack of action by the Big Four, led veteran sports observer Elmer (Montreal Star) Ferguson to ask: "How stupid can you get?"

"The executive . . . indicated that this sort of bush-league shenanigans must cease. Though they admitted that Ralph the Rough had committed no offence, they suggested that he should be fined for the offence that he didn't commit!" Ferguson wrote.

Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell said that Toohy "is about to knock off his first football commissioner."

"Ralphie's latest escapade . . . will have delayed action early next year when the Big Four brass will put the boots to their practically anonymous commissioner, Judge A. J. Fraser of Ottawa," Dunnell wrote.

"To give Toohy his due, the judge probably would have gone anyway. The Hamilton hey-rube merely sealed the sentence. Critics of the judge will cite it as one more example of dereliction of duty."

Dunnell quoted a member of what he termed the "Fraser-must-go" faction as saying the judge "has about four reports on various matters before him right now. These are things which were brought to his attention by officials handling our games. But we never got any rulings on them."

EDMONTON STARS SET EIGHT WIFU MARKS

Eskos Lead Assault on Records

REGINA (CP)—Fourteen team records were broken in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this year, eight of them by the Edmonton Eskimos, Bill Hawrylak, of Regina, WIFU chief statistician, announced today.

The Eskimos set new marks in total net yards from scrimmage, yards rushing, number of carries rushing, best gain a rush, total first downs, first downs rushing, best average pass and most points in one season.

Three records went to Saskatchewan Roughriders, two to Winnipeg Blue Bombers and one to Calgary Stampeders.

The Riders established new marks for the fewest fumbles, 15; most kickoffs returned, 79, and most points scored against in one season, 438.

The Bomber marks were for most penalties, 108, and most yards penalized, 932, while the Stamps set a record for total yards from scrimmage in one game, 654.

The total net from scrimmage for Eskimos was 7,075 yards, easily surpassing the mark of 6,020 set by Riders last year.

Eskos also broke four of their own records. The new marks are for yards rushing, 4,345, best gain a rush, 6.01 yards, first downs rushing, 272, and best average pass, 10.1 yards.

The other records for Eskos were previously held by Winnipeg. These new marks are for total first downs, 403, number of carries rushing, 722, and most points in one season, 475.

Riders were the top team in passing this year, completing 182 of 367 aerials for 2,819

Man Killed By Stroke?

A post mortem will be held to determine cause of death at 7 a.m. today of 89-year-old pedestrian George Morley, 712 Vancouver, who was believed to have been in collision with a car at Quadra and Meares Tuesday at 11.05 a.m.

Police are investigating possibility the man suffered a stroke and collapsed on stepping into the street, suffering head injury when he fell.

It was believed he was victim of a hit-run driver when police took the man to St. Joseph's Hospital in critical condition.

A motorist who saw the pedestrian fall to the pavement said he thought a car ahead of him was involved. Police said the car was followed.

But no evidence was found to substantiate the theory it was involved.

It was not decided today whether an inquest will be held. The post mortem likely will determine whether an inquiry will be necessary.

AWAY FROM CURB

According to traffic officers, Mr. Morley fell about six feet from the west curb of Quadra, his walking stick and a roll of maps he was carrying were beside him. His clothes were not disturbed as they might have been if he were in collision with a vehicle, police said.

Examination at the hospital showed the elderly man suffered severe injury on the forehead and a hand abrasion.

He was semi-conscious when admitted. The deceased has a niece living in Cumberland who was en route to Victoria today. There are other relatives in England but no more in Canada. Mr. Morley's wife died here about a year ago.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Oshawa, Ste. Therese return Nov. 20.
Sussexville, Stettler return Nov. 27.
Jonquiere returns Nov. 25.
Antigonish returns Nov. 25.
Miramichi leaves Thursday, returns Nov. 23.

... AND THE BREAD WAS A FAILURE

A runaway three-ton truck loaded with gravel crashed its way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wright, 1255 Revercombe, and caused an anxious hour as gasoline splashed into the basement Tuesday afternoon. "It sounded like an earthquake. I thought at first it was the furnace," a shaken Mrs. Wright said as firemen squelched the fire hazard with ansul powder and some of the spilled wet gravel. She had been baking bread in her kitchen and went to adjust the furnace. Coming back upstairs she heard the noise and ran to look out her front window.

People were running across the street toward a truck lurching on its side and jammed through the steel door of the Wright's basement garage.

Truck driver Andrew Rowan, 1403 Haultain, said he had left the truck parked across the street, partly backed up to a driveway of an uncompleted house while he went inside to find out where to dump the gravel.

It rolled across the street, bumped a parked car, property of C. J. Schaddelle, 1259 Revercombe, damaging it slightly and pushing it across the sidewalk, half-mounted a retaining wall at the Wright home, then dove at an angle into the basement wall and door, knocking a corner off the house.

Mrs. Wright's bread was a failure.

'Sorry' Driver Leaves Scene After Man Hit

A 57-year-old pedestrian complained to police Tuesday a car knocked him to the pavement as he walked across Pandora with a friend, the driver apologized then left the scene.

David Brownlee, Royal Olympic Hotel, was treated at Jubilee Hospital for a leg abrasion and released.

The man and his companion, Jack Jenner, 1118 Cook, told police they were crossing the avenue at Blanshard at 11.55 p.m. when a car travelling east on Pandora was in collision with Brownlee.

Jenner said the driver said he was sorry, asked if they were all right, and drove off.

SATISFACTORY

Mrs. Valerie Obee, 28, 167 Knight, who was admitted to Royal Jubilee for observation, Tuesday noon, after she was involved in an auto crash at Bay and Blanshard, was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Mrs. Obee suffered a severe head cut in the crash. She was driver of her car and the other car was driven by a 17-year-old Victorian, police said.

Mildred Williams, 2160 Bartlett, was treated for bruises and a shaking up when she was taken to Royal Jubilee after a three-car collision at Oak Bay and Jubilee at noon Tuesday.

She was identified as the driver of one car. The other drivers were Marcia Prior, 1960 St. Patrick, and James M. Laing, 1221 Reynolds.

IMPROVED

In slightly improved condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today is Mrs. A. E. Cotton, 74, 1054 MacGregor, who with Mrs. Karen Woodley, 75, 123 Wellington, was in collision with a car on Douglas in front of Strathcona Hotel last Thursday night.

Mrs. Woodley is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today with a broken leg and arm and head injuries.

Mrs. Cotton has a fractured leg and hip and head injury.

New Personnel Structure Set for Navy

Adapted to Need For Specialists

The Royal Canadian Navy has adopted a revised personnel structure which will be introduced in progressive steps over a period of years, naval headquarters at Ottawa announced today.

The announcement said the new structure is adapted to the increasingly technical nature of naval weapons and equipment and the navy's particular needs.

Most officers, under the new regime, will be on the navy's general list. They will be given a broad, basic knowledge of the various specialties of the navy and more advanced training in particular fields.

The general list will include a restricted duty section, composed of a comparatively small number of highly specialized technical and administrative officers. Naval headquarters added, however, that existing demarcations between branches in the service will in time disappear.

TRAINED OUTSIDE NAVY

The special list will include chaplains, doctors, instructor officers and others with a special knowledge whose training was received largely outside the naval service and who will not be expected to assume command.

The limited duty list will consist of men with long experience commissioned from the lower deck. Such officers will have the opportunity to transfer to the general list if they qualify.

The announcement said the increased complexity of equipment requires an increase in the capabilities of men on the lower deck. The existing trade structure is to be revised to train men in both the maintenance and operation of weapons and equipment, while continuing to develop and use special skills where necessary.

A report of a special committee calls for classification of recruits into trades after they have served for a while and their capabilities have been assessed. Recruits now choose a trade or branch on entry, although this can be changed after some service.

The statement added changes in the personnel structure of the RCN eventually will be reflected by changes in the organization and structure of the naval reserve.

Data Asked On Juvenile Beer Traffic

A public appeal for aid in stamping out juvenile liquor and beer traffic in Victoria was issued by Mayor Percy Scurrell today.

"Anyone with information can speak to me strictly in confidence," he said.

The mayor said he was "gravely concerned" with reports reaching him that teenage youngsters were able to obtain beer and liquor on demand from certain adult sources.

PROTECTIVE

"Knowing this traffic exists and making convictions are different things, I would be very grateful to anyone who could give me definite information. They could be assured we would protect them from publicity or reprisal," Mayor Scurrell added.

He indicated the matter would come before the city police commission at a meeting Thursday morning.

Mayor Scurrell, who is also chairman of the police commission, may be reached at City Hall 4-7111.

Robert Eddy and rug...

'ONE-SHOT ROBBIE'

Youth, 14, Kills Bear at 300 Yards

Bear steak is the order today at the Milne's Landing home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eddy due to the keen eye and steady nerves of son Robert, 14-year-old Times carrier. "Robbie," an avid if youthful hunter, brought down with one shot a 180-pound black bear from 300 yards in dense bush with his sporting model .303 British rifle.

He was hunting with his father and uncle at Cold Creek, about six miles from home, when he spotted the animal. He hit the bear in the neck and it died instantly.

The grade eight pupil at Milne's Landing High School shoots two or three deer a year, plus ducks and geese, and spends most of the money earned on his nine-mile Times route on hunting and fishing equipment. He's carried the Times four years.

Apart from steaks, remainder of the bear is in the process of becoming a rug.

Pupnik Burn-Out Over City Soon?

There is a mathematical chance that the dog-bearing Sputnik II will burn up over Victoria or the Pacific Northwest within a few days, a scientist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said today.

"We believe the Sputnik will disintegrate when it gets within 80 miles of the earth's surface," said electronics expert Edward Argyle.

WITHIN 150 MILES

"On one of its 14 daily trips around the earth the Sputnik comes within about 150 miles of Victoria—the lowest point of its orbit."

"There is, therefore, just a chance it could happen here—say a one-per-cent chance. It is highly improbable that even a tiny fragment will reach the earth. The Sputnik should burn up completely within 80 miles."

Paradoxically, although the Sputnik is accelerating in speed, its altitude is dropping and the 80-mile limit could be reached within a few days.

Observatory scientists are satisfied that both the radio batteries—and the dog inside the satellite—are dead.

They believe the Sputnik passed over Victoria at around 6.40 a.m. today but it is now too deep in the earth's shadow to be seen from Victoria at this time.

No radio signals have been received from the satellite since Friday evening.

"When I last heard them, early Friday morning, the beep-beep had changed to a long piercing whistle," Mr. Argyle said. "I think the batteries were dying then."

RECONSTRUCTED

From orbital figures received from the Harvard College Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., Mr. Argyle has reconstructed the Sputnik's orbit with a strip of wire encircling a globe of the world.

The orbit drops to within about 150 miles over the Pacific Northwest and rises to an altitude of 1,050 over Australia, South Africa and South America on the other side of the equator.

"The Sputnik should now be seen above northern Canada, Greenland and northern Russia at an altitude of about 300 miles. It will not be seen here again."

Mr. Argyle says the energy of the Sputnik is equal to 12 freight trains drawing 60 fully-loaded cars at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

"Up to now we have reckoned its average speed at 18,000 miles an hour. Now the speed is increasing."

"If it reached 25,000 miles an hour it would cease to be a travelling companion of the earth and would fly off into space. But that is highly improbable."

Mr. Argyle is confident the Russians will send more animals into space—possibly more dogs and then an ape.

APE NEXT

"They are certain to send an ape before long as the ape is closest to man in its physiological reactions."

He added that the orbital figures compiled by the Harvard College Observatory will be made available to scientists throughout the world, including Russia.

MONTE ROBERTS

Professor John Farina of the University of Toronto has succeeded in stirring up a nest of indignant hornets with his recent remarks about sport.

Sport, according to the dictionary, is amusement, diversion, fun, pastime, game.

But sport, according to Professor Farina, breeds cheating, larceny, fighting, and downright sadism.

Sport, also according to Professor Farina, is of no use in building character or social adjustment.

Before proceeding further with this matter, let us award the professor a "C" for courage.

Or possibly an "A" for advertising, if we wish to be cynical.

But there is no gainsaying his courage.

In this country, sport is a sacred object, one not lightly to be attacked. It is in much the same category as motherhood, democracy, home cooking, and kindness to animals.

If you're agin' any of them, the wise and safe course is to keep your opinions to yourself.

Professor Farina, however, has so much courage he calls hockey the "most degenerate sport in the world."

It is only fair to point out this outspoken critic of sport is a former football player, and a former football official.

So presumably he knows whereof he speaks when he says sports are no good.

But I wonder what would happen if we carried the professor's thoughts to their logical conclusion, and abolished all sports?

No more golf, no more tennis, no more marbles, no more yo-yo's, no more Texas Wrasslin'.

No more games liable to breed "cheating, larceny, fighting and downright sadism."

You know what I think would happen?

We'd have lots of time on our hands to figure out other ways of achieving training in cheating, larceny, fighting, and downright sadism.

I have enough faith in human nature to believe THAT.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Bomb threats are becoming a bore to Oaklands School staff.

Notified of a "bomb" plant in the school at 8.40 a.m. today, principal N. Forbes did not even order the school cleared. It's happened too often in the past, usually at the impetus of a pupil.

Police were informed of the threat by Mrs. F. Cole, 1704 Hollywood, who received a telephone call in what sounded like a woman's voice, disguised.

Proposed opening of a jazz-lovers' night club in downtown Victoria by a Vancouver interest may be linked with the new Victoria Jazz Society, president Bud Glover said today.

The Vancouver club, called the Cellar, has attracted widespread attention on the coast and has featured some of the west's top jazz talent.

As its opening here, the jazz society plans a large and small group "history of jazz" concert in Club Sirocco Dec. 3 or 4.

Greater Victoria Community Chest crept closer to the objective of $251,717 today with a total recorded at noon of $182,296.

Persons who have been missed in the general canvass are asked to telephone 2-5121 and a special representative will call.

Reunion of HMCS Conway personnel will be held Friday at 7.30 p.m. in Brentia Lodge, Brentwood.

Those wishing to attend should contact J. A. Brown at 3-3497.

Coun. Ainslie Worthington, of Saanich was in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today recovering from injuries received when his car went off a control and struck a power pole Tuesday morning.

He was driving alone on Quadra near McKenzie when the accident occurred.

There was still no sign today of a 31-year-old man missing from his Victoria home since Saturday, probably due to amnesia.

Eric Grant, described as five feet, eight inches in height, 180 pounds, fair hair and wearing a short blue-grey coat with grey trousers, was last seen in a pub between 11 and 12 noon Saturday.

He drove a blue English car, licence number 291-021.

Police were told the man had wandered from home before, and was found in Fort William, Ont.

The Welsh Society meets Friday at 8 p.m. in the Business and Professional Women's Club, 904 Government.

Patrick C. Ball, 20, 326 Obed; Edward Adkin, 1641 Cedar Hill, and David Terrence Caird, 18, 462 Burnside, each were fined $15 in city police court today for being minors in possession of liquor.

City council passed a by-law last month permitting issuance of car window stickers to any person living in a residential zone where two-hour parking regulations are enforced. The stickers permit the owner to park in front of his home, all day.

Naval seaman Donald Edgar Ferguson was fined $20 in city police court Tuesday for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board will meet at Cormorant Street headquarters, Monday morning, Mayor Percy Scurrell; board chairman, announced today. He said a great many applications for the post of district co-ordinator have been received. "... but the board may decide to advertise the position before making an appointment." Present co-ordinator, Roger Peachey, announced his resignation last month.

Victoria voters' list will be posted Nov. 15 at the entrance of city hall. Court of revision will be held in council chambers Nov. 20, and after any errors or omissions are corrected in the list, the publication will be distributed. The court will consist of Mayor Percy Scurrell, chairman; Ald. J. Donald Smith and Ald. Hugh Ramsay. Nomination day is Dec. 5 and election day Dec. 12.

Centennial Tartan Colors Will Appeal to Every Age

By PENNY SAVER

It's here! The British Columbia official centennial tartan... and I must say it is exquisite. In it is woven the red of St. George Cross; the blue and white of the Pacific Ocean; the gold of the setting sun and the deep green of our forests. Wonderful for coats and suits or a full bonnie lassie's kilt! Everyone will be buying it for next year's celebrations, so you'd better get on the band wagon early. It's $8.95 a yard.

Do you have nieces, nephews and grandchildren on your Christmas gift list? You can stop pondering about what to give them. Today I stumbled on an assortment of colored canvas bags with quick and witty little rhymes written on the outside. I opened a bag and I found a skipping rope complete with bells! Lots of fun for $1.79.

Misplaced your specs? I mean, have you the ingenious habit of leaving your glasses in silly places? I've discovered a cute and yet a practical method of keeping them right near you so you'll never have to peer near-sightedly at the written word! It is a spec-brooch. Attach glasses to the brooch and they can't fall off. They come at $2 each.

Oh, it's springtime in November when you clip the gay and giddy band I've found—around your chinon or pony tail. The band is constructed of plastic and decorated with little posies! Pretty for the teenager to touch up her party dress. Makes a perfect gift for $1.50.

It is sometimes difficult to find jewelry that will team up with several costumes especially when milady is on a shoe-string budget.

CWL Bazaar Makes $1,550

A sum of $1,550 was realized at the fall fair held in the Catholic Chinese Mission Hall by St. Andrew's Cathedral Catholic Women's League, earlier this month.

Assisting organizations were the Junior CWL, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Youth Organizations, League of the Sacred Heart, the choir and glee club and women of the Polish Club.

There were stalls of home cooking, sewing, miscellaneous gifts, religious articles and a fish pond. Tea was served in the afternoon and a turkey dinner in the evening, followed by games.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A fine store of energy should be one of our most coveted possessions. Energy is the coin with which we pay our way in life. With it we purchase success, and to a certain degree, to which we can give ourselves to life, to others and to our work, is in ratio to the amount of energy we have. No matter how great our ideas or how gracious our intentions, unless we have the pep to put them into action they can mean little to us or to anyone else.

Some persons just naturally have more energy than others because of their fine constitutions. These folks are fortunate but they are in danger just as a beautiful woman is. Both may rely too much on their lucky inheritance. I wrote a column not long ago about the "madness of superlative health." Remember that most of the folks who are vital in older years had some physical trouble around middle age and had to take care of themselves.

Then there seem to be some people who were just born tired. These may have come into the world with a physical inheritance which left much to be desired. On the other hand, this seeming fatigue may indicate no physical disorder or handicap; but may be a matter of glands or temperament.

If, however, you find there are defects which are stealing your energy and they can be corrected, do not hesitate to do so. This may only require consistent care on your part or it may call for medical or surgical treatment.

Usually drastic measures are not the answer. Most folks have a potential for a much greater amount of energy than they experience but never get to enjoy it because of many small leaks. Our energy is worth saving and even cultivating. It is worth spending carefully but glamour, excitement and adventure are added to life if we have an extra margin of energy and can be a bit extravagant with it.

Working Holiday Brings Romance to Jean Hewitt

CALGARY (CP)—A Calgary girl set out on what she calls a "working holiday" around the world and has returned with a husband.

Miss Jean Hewitt, now Mrs. Brian Carter, sailed from Vancouver for New Zealand in July, 1956. She obtained work in Christchurch and four months later met her future husband while skiing in the South Island.

Mr. Carter, an Englishman by birth, was at the time with the works ministry in New Zealand. Both he and the globe-trotting Canadian found a common interest in photography and skiing.

It was love at first sight and the couple later were married in England. For their honeymoon they purchased a motor scooter and toured France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Luxembourg, Austria, Switzerland and Italy.

After the honeymoon the couple returned separately to Canada. Mr. Carter was classed as an immigrant and had to take a later flight.

Reunited in Toronto, the Carters travelled by car to Calgary, where they plan to settle permanently.

Mrs. Carter, meanwhile, recommends this kind of travel for young women, saying if you "work your way" a trip around the world can be done fairly inexpensively.

"The less luggage you take the better—for there is very little room on a motor scooter for excess baggage," she says.

PARIS (Reuters)—Four regents have succeeded the late Christian Dior on the throne of haute couture, it was announced Friday.

The Dior Fashion House said that for the time being it will continue under the collective leadership of this team:

Yves Mathieu St. Laurent, 21, Dior's successor as chief designer; fabric specialist Raymond Zacker, "soul" of the House; technical specialist Marguerite Carre, and glamor expert Madame Brizard.

The Dior House spokesman said the new team reflects the last wish of Dior, who died Oct. 23.

Builds Up Bust as PM Works

OTTAWA (CP)—While Prime Minister Diefenbaker busied himself with the country's business Friday, English sculptor Mrs. Dorothy Russell stood nearby building up a bust of his head.

As Mrs. Russell applied pat of fast-hardening clay to the three-quarter life-size model, the prime minister spent a busy 1 1/2 hours revising a speech, receiving a reporter, taking a French lesson, signing some state papers and having long telephone conversations.

The 52-year-old British artist, meanwhile, had reached a point in her work at which she felt that with two more sittings the work would be completed.

In Canada two months to visit a 25-year-old daughter, Pamela, who is a post-graduate student in geography at McGill University, Mrs. Russell is the wife of a British chartered accountant. She took up sculpture as a hobby six years ago. This year she had a work accepted by the Royal Academy.

While sailing to Canada aboard the liner Invernia she was discussing art with a fellow passenger, to whom she happened to show photographs of her work. The passenger said she ought to do Canada's new prime minister.

Plans were completed for the home cooking sale to be held at the Oak Bay Avenue Shop-Easy store on Friday, convened by Mrs. J. A. Barry and Mrs. H. C. Johnston.

Social convener, Mrs. H. Hawkins announced that the Christmas meeting will be held in the form of a coffee party at the home of Mrs. Munro.

(MOTHER OF 5)

Curiosity is second nature to the toddler. But curiosity can often lead a little explorer into trouble if his surroundings aren't safety-proofed. A few precautionary reminders:

Cupboards are intriguing. Make sure reachable cupboards do not contain harmful objects or poisonous cleaning agents. Dangling electric cords are fun to yank. Keep 'em out of reach.

Fire is fascinating. Lighters and matches should be kept off coffee or end tables.

This Fruit Cake Needs No Cooking

The words "Christmas" and "rush" invariably go together, especially in the minds of today's active women. However, busy Canada's 1937 homemakers are, they still like to carry out age-old Christmas traditions of which, in years gone by, baking was one of the most time-consuming and laborious.

With far less effort and fewer hours in the kitchen, the modern way is to use the packaged mixes available and still earn the kind of compliments great-grandmother blushed to hear.

One home economist has developed a startling recipe for one of these Yuletide specialties, Christmas cake.

Called "Mystery Fruitcake," the new recipe does not call for the long hours of baking that a conventional fruitcake needs. In fact, the fruit in this cake isn't "baked." And the cake itself is made, quickly and easily, from cake mix.

Two layers of honey spice (or white, yellow or devil's food) baked according to package directions are crumbled into a large bowl. Whole fruits and nuts are added. Then a surprising ingredient solves this mystery recipe—marshmallows, white and fluffy, blend cake and fruit together!

No long mellowing for this fruitcake. The mixture is pressed into foil-lined loaf pans and chilled for at least 48 hours. It is sliced and served cold. You will be pleased with the beautiful, natural colors of the fruit, bright and brilliant like a stained-glass window.

Here is the basic recipe as perfected in the testing kitchen:

MYSTERY FRUITCAKE

Step 1: Bake honey spice cake mix, following package directions. (Or you can use white, yellow or chocolate devil's food cake mix.) Cool and crumble into very large bowl or pan.

Step 2: Add fruit to crumbled cake: 4 cups candied mixed fruit (2 lbs.), 1/2 cup each Glistening fruit and nuts atop this deliciously different creation of Mystery Fruitcake form a pattern and design all their own. Fruit topping is added before packing; no extra work after baking. No matter how you serve this ready-to-eat fruitcake dough, your guests will ask for more.

whole red and green candied cherries (1/2 lb.), 1 1/2 cups seedless raisins (1/2 lb.), 1 cup dates, cut up; 4 cups walnut or pecan halves.

Step 3: Heat together over boiling water, 1 lb. marshmallows (64) and 3 tablespoons milk until marshmallows are melted, stirring occasionally. Add to cake mixture. Stir with spoon or toss together with hands until mixture is damp and blended together.

Step 4: Pack tightly into foil-lined 10" tube pan, or two 9 x 5 x 3" loaf pans. Pat down with buttered hands until smooth. Cover cake with foil, and chill

California Plum Pudding

Three cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon ginger, 2 cups pitted, cooked prunes, 1 1/2 cups currants, 1 cup seedless raisins, 3 cups diced, mixed candied fruits, 1 cup broken nutmeats, 2 cups all-bran, 1/2 cup juice from prunes, 1 1/2 cups butter or margarine, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, well beaten, 3 teaspoons vanilla flavoring, 2 cups soft white bread crumbs.

Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Cut prunes into small pieces; combine with currants, raisins, mixed fruits, nutmeats and all-bran. Add juice mixing until fruit is well distributed. Blend butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Stir in bread crumbs. Add flour and fruit mixture; mix well. Fill greased 1-quart pudding molds about 3/4 full; cover tightly. Steam 3 1/2 to 4 hours. Remove from molds, slice and serve hot with hard sauce, pudding sauce or ice cream. Yield: 3 puddings, 1 quart molds.

Apples and cheese go together like ham 'n' eggs, for what is apple pie without the cheese? As a change from the usual slice of cheese served atop the pie, try sprinkling the top of the pie with grated aged cheddar cheese immediately it is removed from the oven. Luscious!

Vintage Fruit Cake

Fruit cake season is here! If you're looking for a new recipe, try this "Vintage Fruit Cake"—a spicy blond cake flavored with honey, cardamom and wine. Big seeded raisins as well as seedless ones go into the batter along with peel, citron, candied cherries and walnuts.

THE CAKE

Four cups light or dark seedless raisins, 1 1/2 cups seeded raisins, 1 cup diced candied orange peel, 4 cups sliced citron, 1 cup halved candied cherries, 2 cups coarsely chopped walnuts, 1 teaspoon cardamom, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons allspice, 1/2 cup honey, 1/2 cup dessert wine (such as Muscatel, Tokay or Port), 1 1/2 cups butter or margarine, 2 cups sugar, 10 eggs, 4 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Rinse raisins, drain. Slice seeded raisins. Combine raisins, peel, citron, cherries, nuts, spices, honey and wine, blending thoroughly. Cover and let stand for 2 hours or overnight. Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add beaten eggs and beat well. Mix in fruit. Sift flour with salt, soda and baking powder; add to fruit mixture and stir until well blended. Spoon into one 10-inch tube pan (or 2 loaf pans), lined with 2 thicknesses of greased brown paper. Bake in slow oven (275 degrees F) 3 1/4 to 3 1/2 hours. Place shallow pan of water on bottom of oven during baking. (Smaller cakes will require less baking time.) Test with cake tester or pick before removing from oven. Baked weight: about 8 pounds.

Magic Popcorn Pie Is Fun, Good Eating for Everybody

Looking for food stunts to delight teenagers? Try popcorn. The young of heart of any age will get loads of fun out of these two ideas and also enjoy eating them. Let them make them themselves.

MAGIC POPCORN PIE

Three-quarters cup granulated sugar, 1/4 cup molasses (light), 1/4 cup water, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 1 can of popcorn freshly popped, 1/2 cup chopped glazed fruits, glazed fruit to garnish, if desired.

Pop canned popcorn as label directs. In a 2-quart saucepan blend sugar, molasses, water, butter and salt. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; reduce heat and continue cooking until mixture reaches 270 degrees F. on candy thermometer; or until a little mixture in cold water becomes brittle. Stir in vanilla extract.

Pour the hot syrup over warm popcorn in large bowl, mixing and tossing until all the popcorn is well coated. Press 1/2 of the still hot mixture into a well-buttered 9-inch pie plate; sprinkle with chopped glazed fruit, cover with remaining popcorn mixture. Pressing the mixture down firmly first, smooth and level top. Cut pie into 8-12 wedges while warm. Garnish with glazed fruit if desired.

MAPLE POPCORN BALLS

One and one-half cups maple-blended syrup, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 can of popcorn (makes 2 quarts).

Pop canned corn as label directs. Combine syrup, vinegar, sugar and water in saucepan. Slowly bring to a boil. Over very low heat, continue to boil, without stirring, until syrup spins a thin thread when dropped from fork (or to a temperature of 230 degrees F.). Remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes. Stir in butter and salt; pour slowly over popped corn. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Then let stand until cool enough to handle (about 15 minutes). Press firmly into balls.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Fresh Grapes Make Good Nibble Bait.—Next time circumstance calls for between meal snacks, whip up a platter of Swiss cheese cubes skewered with pretzel sticks and surrounded with a medley of green, red and black grapes. The flavor combination is unusually good.

Try this idea next time you are having home-made baked beans. Dice three red-skinned eating apples—yes, peel and all—they look much prettier in the salad. Sprinkle with a little lemon juice. Add 1/2 cup diced cheese, 1/2 cup sliced celery and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Moisten with 1/2 cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing and heap in a crisp lettuce cup.

The girl who really enjoys the holiday whirl is the one who sees to it that she gets enough rest despite shopping, addressing cards, wrapping gifts, giving and going to parties. This girl uses some beauty short cuts that can be yours, too. At night, after a day's shopping, she uses a gentle but deep-reaching and fast cleansing lotion to remove grime and make-up (left). She doesn't want hair care to take up lots of time during the holidays but she very especially wants her hair to shine and curl. So she uses (centre) a fast-lathering, crystal-clear shampoo that rinses her hair clean in a jiffy. And to hold that curl in her hair, she uses (right) a self-styling hair spray. She sprays first, then combs hair into place.

Beauty Keeps Pace with the Holiday Whirl

The exciting whirl of holiday parties is fast approaching. And so is the frantic rush of Christmas shopping which is as much a part of the season as the fun.

At this time of year, we want to look our prettiest. Yet we feel we must employ every beauty trick we know. For in this gala season, there is so much to do and so little time in which to do it.

Short cuts must be made in the regular beauty routine, and by all means make them. But if you want to look your sparkling best, don't give in to the temptation to skip the job entirely—not even for just one night.

A day spent fighting crowds of Christmas shoppers may leave you tired and grimy. But don't drop into bed without thoroughly cleansing your skin. First suds gently with soap and water. Then spread a deep-reaching facial cleansing lotion over your face and neck. Work it into your skin, tissue it off, and you've removed every trace of grime. The creamy film that remains keeps your skin soft and smooth.

You'll get to bed a few minutes later, but your complexion will be clear and pretty in the morning.

To save time in hair care and still keep your tresses shining, one manufacturer offers a crystal-clear, fast-lathering shampoo that is claimed to eliminate the need for that extra rinse with vinegar or lemon to cut dulling film.

With everyone in high holiday spirits, dates are likely to crop up frequently. And the temperate weather, so typical of this time of year, can play havoc with anyone's hairdo. It's a good idea to keep hair spray at the office as well as at home.

There's a new self-styling hair spray on the market that should be extremely helpful for quick setting. It dries faster than water and gives body to the hair, making the curl last longer.

If you've no time to set your hair before going out for an evening, just spray, it before combing. Then when you comb, push the waves into place and coax a curl exactly where you want it. It will stay in place, the makers say, and can be refreshed by merely flicking a damp comb through the waves and pushing them back into place.

Here's a trick to remove the tired lines from your face if you've got to go out after a rugged Christmas shopping session. Take ten minutes to soak your feet in a basin of hot, sudsy water. You can do your nails or some other beauty chore at the same time, and you'll feel the tension lessen and quickly disappear.

Take advantage of every short cut to beauty that you know, and the rigors of the holiday season won't detract from your appearance just at the time you want to look your loveliest.

THE EXPERTS SAY

Clean Game Soon as Possible After Shooting; Hang Venison for Flavor

TORONTO (CP)—About this time of year many housewives are wondering what to do when the head of the house comes home with a bag of game.

A common complaint among hunters is that wives don't know how to cook their prized trophies.

Food experts say all game should be cleaned as soon as possible after the shooting. Aging is recommended to improve the taste. For instance, venison should hang for no less than a week and preferably three to four weeks.

LARD LEAN GAME

Louise Moore, Toronto Telegram food editor, says "wild game lacking in fat should be larded—that is, by inserting strips of slices of fat salt pork into the lean meat with a skewer or larding needle. Or, baste the meat during cooking with butter or bacon fat, or wrap the meat in thin slices of fat salt pork before cooking."

For venison, broiling and roasting are recommended by experts as superior methods for cooking. Choicest portions are the hind quarter and saddle.

If the animal is fairly well fattened, and has hung for 10 to 15 days in a cool dry spot, the loin should be tender enough to broil, the hams can be roasted and the balance of the carcass braised and stewed.

If your husband returns from a trip with such delicacies as canvasback or mallard ducks, broiling and roasting over glowing coals are methods most likely to preserve the flavor.

When braising or roasting a duck is planned, the meat should be seared to a rich brown over coals before it is placed in the oven. By doing this the natural juices are preserved and hence the flavor is not lost.

Here's a meal that's sure to make a hit. Try serving braised duckling with orange juice, wild rice, lettuce and watercress salad, spiced whole peaches, celery curls, and mince tarts.

While the bird simmers gently in the orange juice, cook the rice in boiling salted water for 30 to 45 minutes and fix the salad. Cut the wedges of lettuce and combine with green watercress. Drizzle a seasoned lemon-oil dressing over the salad.

To braise the duckling, cut the duck in quarters. Place skin side up on rack in shallow baking pan. Roast in slow oven 325F. for an hour. Cook giblets for about 40 minutes. Then prepare the orange sauce using giblet broth and fruit juice. Transfer duck to covered pan.

Then, pour the orange sauce over duck and cover tightly. Continue baking in sauce till tender, about 30 minutes.

Before Buying New Toys Check New CAC Guide

The most exciting thing in Canadian Association of Consumers at the moment and right up until Christmas is the bright 16-page Toy Buying Guide booklet which has been prepared by the toy testing committee.

The citizens' committee on children in Ottawa has produced two editions of the famous little book "What's What for Children" and there will be a third next year. Out of the toy section of this book grew the unique idea of actually testing and rating toys.

The committee issues information from time to time which is free to members. But this year's Guide is such a comprehensive and attractive one that it was decided to have a large number of them printed and make them available to the public at 10 cents a copy or eight cents for bulk lots over 50.

It is a useful reference for anyone who has anything to do with children, especially just before Christmas, but its usefulness is not by any means limited to Christmas buying.

Anyone who uses "What's What", which, by the way, will be brought up to date again next year, will want the 1957 Toy Buying Guide beside it on the bookshelf.

The Guide will be available in a number of communities in stores, such as supermarkets, toy shops and book stores, as well as from CAC branches. Falling any of these sources, they may be had in any quantity at the CAC national office, 157 MacLaren Street, Ottawa 4, Ont.

Is There Really a Statue Honoring Seagulls?

Yes, indeed there is a monument honoring the seagulls. It stands in a quiet garden in beautiful Salt Lake City. The seagulls of gold, with graceful wings outspread, seem to be alighting on a tall pillar. The inscriptions tell the story of Seagull Monument and why it was erected.

The story goes back to pioneer days. It belongs to the Mormons, those pioneers who fled the eastern states to find a land where they could worship as they chose. A party was led by Brigham Young in the year 1847. They left the wide Missouri in April and moved westward over the plains and the prairies. In those days this was frontier territory. In the party there were wagons drawn by oxen, there were mules and some of the sturdy pioneers pushed their worldly possessions on hand carts.

The journey rates as a great saga in the history of Early America. These Mormons traveled a thousand miles through hostile territory in three and a half months. They reached their Promised Land on July 24, 1847. Like the Promised Land of the Old Testament, this one was also a desert. The weary Mormons looked down from the slopes of the Wasatch Mountains and gave thanks for the Valley of the Great Salt Lake below. This was to be home for them and for other Mormons which were to follow.

Work began at once. Grain must be grown. For next year's crops must feed more travelers from the east. The soil was dry and hard. But this did not stop the pioneers. They looked up from their barren desert and saw the snowcapped peaks of the Rockies. They took their spades and climbed the slopes. Water, melting from the year-round snow, was forced to flow in new streams. Spadework turned those cool streams down into the desert valley.

'White Man's Way No Good'—Mungo

Chief Mungo Martin today is after the "scalp" of a California native preacher for saying Indians should give up their ancient traditions and adopt the white man's way of life.

The preacher was Rev. Grant Smith of Santa Rosa, a member of the Pomo Tribe, who attended a Pentecostal convention for Indians at the Faith Temple over the weekend.

Rev. Smith said the only way Indians can hope to progress socially was to stop living on their reservations and to drop their traditions and religious beliefs.

The famous totem pole carver is sizzling.

"White man's ways is no good," said the chief, as he chiselled away at a totem.

"White man some day to burn himself up with atom bomb," he added. "Is that better way of life than Indian?"

The chief said Indians did not believe in the accumulation of goods and wealth. They believed in sharing their goods with one another.

"White man always preaching this but never does it," he said. He said Indians lived for the day and believed in letting tomorrow look after itself. The white man, on other hand, was always worrying about the future and never fully enjoyed himself.

"We are poor," he added, "but happy."

Robert George Gibb, 4103 Shelbourne, was placed on six months' probation and $500 bond for good behavior when he was sentenced in city police court Tuesday for carrying a concealed weapon.

Additionally, he was fined $35 for careless driving and $20 for speeding over 30.

The first charge arose from a cafe fight last week, in which Gibb and another youth were alleged to have had in their pockets lead slugs, or knuckledusters.

W. A. Scott was elected president of the Victoria Humanist Fellowship at a recent annual meeting.

Other officers elected were L. J. Pepper, secretary-treasurer, and executive members Dr. Marian Sherman, Mrs. May Campbell, M. de Roote, W. S. Gable and J. A. Johnson.

Bert Baker, 2709 Fifth, was sentenced in Saanich police court Tuesday to one month in jail for possession of 6½ sheets of plywood valued at $18, knowing they were stolen.

Dan Thom, YMCA, pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to a charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal at a service station at Oak Bay Junction early Sunday.

Detectives found the youth inside after investigating a report of a broken window at 2.20 a.m.

He was adjourned to Monday for a probation report.

One hundred bronze centennial medals are still available for buyers at a cost of $2.75 each, Victoria Numismatic Society president Allan Klenman said Tuesday.

The medals, being struck in London, England, should be distributed by Christmas, he said. Orders may be sent to the society, Box 73, Victoria Post Office.

Alfred Stanley Carson, 18, Sooke, pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to theft of a $2 bill from a milk bottle set out by Ethel Ebert, 1045 Joan Crescent, Monday morning.

To catch the thief, Mrs. Ebert had made a note of the bill's serial number, and notified police immediately she found it gone.

The suspect was found at the rear of the premises in company with a juvenile. He said he had taken the money and bought two packages of cigarettes at a Fort Street store.

Police checked the store and found the bill.

Carson was remanded to Friday for a probation report. The juvenile is held on a charge of car theft from Princeton two weeks ago.

French PM Empowered To Halt Moslem Revolt

PARKING VIOLATOR—A policeman checking parking meters in Lunenburg, N.S., blinked when he saw this calf "parked" with the red violation showing. So did close to 100 motorists and pedestrians who stopped to investigate. It turned out a grocer had tied the calf there to advertise a weekend sale of beef. The calf got free parking for the afternoon. (CP Photo.)

'Plot' Brings Writers Jail Term in Hungary

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—The Hungarian Supreme Court today sentenced Tibor Dery, 63-year-old Hungarian writer, to nine years imprisonment for "leadership of an organization aimed at overthrowing the state order."

Three other leading Hungarian writers active with Dery in the intellectual stirring which preceded the Hungarian revolution a year ago also were jailed for periods ranging from six years to 18 months.

Gyula Hay, 57-year-old author and playwright, was imprisoned for six years.

Zoltan Zelk, 51, a poet, was sentenced to three years imprisonment and Tibor Tardos, 40, a journalist, got 18 months for agitating against the state order.

The trial of this group brought protests from many world figures, including Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the British Labor party, French authors Francois Mauriac and Jean-Paul Sartre and playwright T. S. Eliot.

Gyula Kallai, minister of culture, said in a newspaper article that they "forged the spiritual weapons of the counter-revolution."

Change of Heart By Quebec Team

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces have decided to remain in the Quebec Hockey League. Dr. Bruce Crutchfield, principal shareholder in the club, said Tuesday.

Dr. Crutchfield said a week ago dwindling attendance might force the Aces to consider dropping from the league. At that time he said the three next games might tell the tale.

PHIL RECRUIT
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies Monday signed Joe Bobby Land, 18-year-old outfielder from Salina, Kas., to a contract with Bakersfield in the class C California League.

PARIS (UP)—The National Assembly voted emergency powers to Premier Felix Gaillard shortly before midnight Tuesday to deal with the spreading Algerian rebellion and new outbreaks of Moslem violence in France itself.

Gaillard turned today to another pressing problem—economics. He goes before the assembly Thursday with a demand for emergency financial powers and will ask it to approve a move to raise $247,000,000 in new taxes—a plan already under fire by the right wing.

The special powers act gives the government special police powers to cope with the rebellion. These include the right to conduct night searches and assign forced residence (close to house arrest). They were first given to Socialist Premier Guy Mollet on March 12, 1956, and must be renewed by parliament within 10 days following the formation of a new cabinet.

PARIS (UP)—A government official said today that reopening of diplomatic relations between France and Egypt "is not impossible."

France-Egyptian relations were discussed at a cabinet meeting this morning. Afterward, Emile Claparede, secretary of state for information, told reporters that negotiations between Egypt and France "had developed in a happy way."

He said "reopening of normal diplomatic relations between the two countries is not impossible, although the problem was not discussed this morning."

Relations were broken off after the Anglo-French attack on the Suez Canal a year ago.

IN B.C. SHOW

Top Standing For Colwood Mink Ranch

Owens and Sons Mink Ranch, Colwood, has won the reserve trophy for highest total points in the 13th B.C. Live Animal Fur Exhibition which ended Tuesday in New Westminster.

The Colwood ranch exhibited 34 mink and captured 23 rabbits for an aggregate of 3,948 points.

Owens and Sons were the sole exhibitors from Vancouver Island in the big show which attracted 932 mink entries from throughout Canada and the western United States.

The Owens ranch won firsts in standard male and female, light sapphire female, medium beige male and female, plus several seconds and other top standings.

The Owens ranch, in business 17 years, in 1956 took top honors in the show, largest in Canada.

U.S. Now Thinking of Manned Space Ship Says Air General

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Air Force general says the United States already is doing some preliminary thinking about a manned space ship—although such a project still is a long way off.

Brig. Gen. H. F. Gregory, commander of the air force office of scientific research, said in a speech Tuesday:

"Although it may be somewhat early to be building manned space ships, it is not too early to be thinking about exploratory research in this area."

"In fact we have been doing it for some time." Gregory described the USAF Project Farside, a recent series of rocket tests, as "one of many high altitude scientific research efforts that will be required for the successful conquest of space."

The USAF has said previously that six rockets were fired in the Farside tests in the Pacific and there have been unofficial reports that the sixth shot went more than 4,000 miles into the sky.

Gregory said there was no foundation for reports that Farside personnel had been pressured to speed up the project as a result of Russia's first satellite launching Oct. 4.

It was that event which touched off a general clamor for accelerating the U.S. missile and satellite programs. The second Soviet satellite, one carrying a dog, was hung in space Nov. 3.

Radio Moscow, meanwhile, predicted that the first satellite will drop into the atmosphere and burn in late December or early January, and that the carrier rocket will come down somewhat sooner.

"Sputnik II will remain in orbit considerably longer," the radio said, quoting the Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

Inco's new matte separation process, the molten matte comes from huge Bessemer converters to the casting and cooling building in 14-ton ladles. There, it is poured into brick-lined cooling moulds and covered with insulated steel hoods. During the cooling period, while the matte solidifies, nature works her magic. At the end of the controlled cooling cycle, the nickel and copper sulphides have each formed into separate crystals.

Inco Research solves the "riddle of the rock"

New method developed for separating nickel and copper in Sudbury ores

The "riddle of the rock"—how to separate nickel and copper when they are both present in the same ore—had plagued mankind for centuries. It confounded early attempts to produce copper from the ores mined near Sudbury, Ontario.

The Orford process of separating nickel and copper helped put the Canadian nickel industry on its feet and served it well for many years.

Recently Inco developed a new and better method of separating the nickel and copper present in the Sudbury ores. After careful study, involving hundreds of laboratory experiments and a long period of pilot-plant operation, Inco research found a way to put nature to work solving the "riddle of the rock."

Inco metallurgists discovered how to cool molten matte under carefully controlled conditions so that the copper and nickel sulphides form into independent crystals which can be separated by conventional means.

The new matte separation process is another example of the way Inco research is finding better ways to find, mine, smelt and refine Canada's great store of mineral wealth.

Second Wave Of Flu Germs Possible Here

A second wave of flu may follow the widespread outbreak now declining in this area, Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health was told Tuesday.

SAMMON VIEW:

Flu Vaccine Split Shows Merger Need

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said this has been the case in other areas.

She also reported, a check on deaths from pneumonia, indicated they could not be linked with flu except in three cases publicized earlier.

It was pointed out the two schools most seriously affected by absenteeism from flu, Central Junior High School and Esquamalt High School, were schools most seriously crowded.

Board member and school trustee, Richard Reeve, said Esquamalt was built to accommodate 450 students and has 600. Central was planned for 700 and has over 900.

Uneven distribution of flu vaccine was seen by health board chairman G. K. Sammon, Tuesday, as "pointing up a crying need for amalgamation" of Greater Victoria.

He told the Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health that although Veterans' Hospital and Royal Jubilee Hospital are only separated by a hedge, Royal Jubilee staff received free flu vaccine and DVA had to purchase supplies, or do without.

Mr. Sammon felt the Union Board of Health would have made sure all hospital workers in the district had vaccine available, but for the fact the Veterans' Hospital lies in Saanich, and outside the board's jurisdiction.

Dr. Mahaffy told the board many people refused to be inoculated.

ROMANCE—The sudden legal separation of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini revived speculation of a romance between Rossellini and Indian script writer Sonali Das Gupta (above). She was last reported to be in Paris.—(NEA).

'Report to Esquamalt' Scheduled for Dec. 10

Non-Members Must Pay Health Board

Residents of Saanich and Oak Bay who receive services of Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health will be required to pay in future.

The health board Tuesday asked Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy to submit a recommended scale of charges for such items as inoculations.

In the past, because of its central location and full-day operation, the health clinic has been visited by residents of non-member municipalities. People going abroad received injections. Out-of-town babies appear at the child health clinics.

UNAWARE

The matter came up last year when the board was attempting to bring Saanich and Oak Bay into the health union. But it was dropped in view of investigations into complete municipal amalgamation.

"As long as people get them (the services) for nothing, they are not aware they are not paying for them," said Richard Reeve, Esquamalt board member.

He was supported by Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson and Walter Thompson, school board representative on the board.

Reeve A. C. Wurttele will present his annual report to Esquamalt municipality at a meeting in Esquamalt High School Dec. 10 at 8 p.m.—two days before the municipal elections.

Committee chairmen will give their reports and new candidates for council posts will be introduced.

Council appointed James Elrick returning officer for the Dec. 12 municipal elections.

Mr. Elrick was authorized to appoint his deputy returning officer.

Nominations should be filed at the municipal hall and polling will take place at the hall and 855 Craigflower Road.

Tax-free exemption for St. Paul's new church hall and the two lots on which it stands was approved.

Provisions for exemption are laid under the Municipal Act.

Sum of $6,295 has been spent to date on clearing a beach and opening roadways into the Klismen-Gorge Park, it was reported to council.

Drag line dredging by Pacific Pile Driving Co. workmen will continue while the weather permits, municipal engineer John Graeme said.

Cost of installing a septic tank and outfall in Lang Cove will be included in next year's budget.

The recommendation of the municipal engineer was adopted by council after a petition from 25 residents of the area was heard.

14-16% Wage Boosts Asked by 12 Nurses

Salary increases ranging between 14 and 16 per cent have been asked by 12 public health nurses working for Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health.

The board Tuesday authorized city manager C. C. Wyatt to carry on negotiations.

The nurses, represented by the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C., have asked increase of basic salaries of $240 and $270 to $275 and $315. Four annual increments are applied to the

Scientists of Australia Probe Rain-Making Secrets

By LOUIS LECK
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY (CP) — Australia has embarked on a major research program designed to unlock one of the great secrets of nature—the making of rain.

Details have just been released of plans to step up the rainmaking work which the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization has carried on for the last 10 years. The cost will be about $200,000 a year, in the initial stages.

Australia claims to lead all other nations in this field. The present object is not merely to make rain under suitable conditions—the Australian rain-makers did this first 10 years ago—but to alter the weather over a year in three widely-different types of country, and to examine costs as against results.

ARABLE LAND
There is much more than scientific curiosity in this new Australian effort. Australia is the driest of all the continents—so dry that only 11 per cent of its land area of 3,000,000 square miles is suitable for agriculture.

In normal times considerably more than half the continent gets less than 10 inches of rain a year. Now, after 10 good seasons, the country is again facing the threat of a major drought.

Although the rain-makers are cautious in their forecasts, it is known that some remarkable results have already been achieved. These suggest—though they do not yet prove—that rainfall may be increased by artificial means by up to 20 per cent.

The CSIRO made the first artificial rain in history in February, 1947, when a Liberator bomber poured 200 pounds of dry ice (frozen carbon-dioxide gas) from sugar bags and set off a thunderstorm.

Considerable progress has been made since then. The rain-makers still get their best results by "seeding" clouds from the air, but instead of dry ice they use silver iodide crystals. The silver iodide is diffused from a small burner set below the aircraft wing.

The scientists have formed these conclusions:

1. Nothing can be done until nature first provides a cloud. High cumulus clouds give the best results.

2. Rain forms naturally in the cloud around "freezing nuclei"—tiny particles of foreign matter. Not much is known about these "freezing nuclei," but probably many of them are provided by the showers of meteors which bombard the earth from outer space.

3. Silver iodine crystals form the most useful artificial "freezing nuclei." However, they must be diffused in exactly the right places and at the right time. Experiments with silver iodide burned at ground level proved it did not reach the high altitudes required, and Australian work now relies exclusively on "seeding" clouds from aircraft.

COMPARATIVE STUDY
With the co-operation of the Royal Australian Air Force, which provides aircraft at cost price, the CSIRO men for two years past have been testing their method over the snowy mountains in southeastern Australia.

They selected two areas some distance apart, but almost identical in natural conditions and in rainfall. They consistently made rain in one, but not in the other.

In the two years the rainfall in the selected area has been substantially higher than in the other. The work will be continued for three more years to ensure that this is no fluke.

Similar experiments are to be undertaken now in other parts of the Commonwealth, in which there are different weather conditions.

The head of the Australian project is Welsh-born Dr. E. G. Bowen—one of the men behind Britain's development of radar in the Second World War.

SCOPE LIMITED
The present methods involve arduous flying, careful navigation, and skill in the "seeding," and are not expected to become general.

The rain-makers say that making widespread rain by this means may never be possible.

However, they believe firmly that even with present limited knowledge they may be able to bring rain in certain selected areas fairly consistently. These areas will be the watersheds of streams which flow into the dry interior, or which have been diverted into the interior through the snowy mountain hydroelectric scheme.

FRED NORRIS

FRED HAWES

Norris Changes Mind — Seeks Re-Election

Reeve Fred Norris announced Tuesday he will run again in the municipal election, reversing his stand of several months ago.

The reeve will be seeking his third two-year term, admittedly under pressure from friends.

Coun. Fred Hawes also announced he will again seek office. Coun. George Murdoch had not yet decided, while Patrick Birley, who had served two terms on council but did not run for re-election last year, will run again.

Kenneth C. Murphy, defeated last year, will also vie for a council seat.

JOHNSON OUT
Coun. John V. Johnson, who has served 23 years on council, will not seek re-election.

This leaves three announced candidates for the three vacant council positions.

A public forum will be held in the municipal hall early in December to allow all council candidates to explain their platforms.

MacMillan Orders Probe On Bank Rate Leak Claim

LONDON (Reuters) — The government today ordered a judicial investigation into charges that information about a bank rate increase was leaked in advance.

Prime Minister Macmillan for weeks had rejected Labor party demands for an investigation.

He told the Commons today he had decided to order the inquiry because of "insinuations" made Tuesday against Oliver Poole, deputy chairman of the Conservative party.

The investigation will give Poole an opportunity of "clearing his honor," Macmillan said.

CLAIM FORTUNES MADE
Labor party officials had charged that because of a leakage of information, millions of pounds changed hands and fortunes were made Sept. 18—the day before Britain raised the bank rate to 7 per cent from 5.

Labor members asked Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft Tuesday to say whether he had seen Poole on the day before the bank rate was increased.

He refused to answer this question on the grounds that it was "improper." There was no leakage, he said.

Poole today wrote to the prime minister saying that he saw Thorneycroft on the day in question but did not receive any prior information about the bank rate from anyone, nor did he sell any securities.

REQUESTS INQUIRY
He asked the prime minister to order a judicial inquiry in fairness to himself.

Macmillan told the House: "This is an attack on the honor of two gentlemen — Mr. Poole and the chancellor of the exchequer—and I think it right that they should have an opportunity to rebut this attack. At an earlier stage it was mere tittle-tattle."

The lord chancellor, Lord Kilmer, the government's adviser, recently made a private inquiry for the government and reported there was no evidence of a leakage.

LOST — Captain George H. Brown of Palo Alto, Calif., was the pilot of a double-decked Pan American Airways Strato-cruiser which has been presumed to have gone down in "perfect weather" midway between San Francisco and Hawaii. The lost airliner had 44 persons on board.—(NEA)

Two Years In Coma, Logger Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — A young Dutch logger died in hospital here Monday, two years and 12 days after lapsing into a coma when he suffered a severe brain injury.

Joseph Byl, 29, had been unconscious for longer than anyone else in Canada as the result of an industrial accident, a Workmen's Compensation Board official said Tuesday.

Byl, who regained semi-consciousness recently, was hit by a cable on a logging job Oct. 29, 1955.

His mother, Mrs. Klaas Byl, returned to her home in Holland last October after praying beside Joseph's bedside for 120 evenings.

The board paid $42,000 in medical expenses for Byl. About $6,000 in lost time compensation will be paid into his estate.

COLLECTION OF EXILES

Intrigue, Mystery Cairo's Trademark

By WILTON WYNN
CAIRO (AP) — This city of intrigue and mystery has a strange collection of exiles, each of them dreaming of that special assassination, revolution or coup d'etat which will pave the way for their return home.

Emir Abdel Krim El Khattabi, Moroccan rebel leader, is willing away the twilight years of his life in the gardens of a villa. Grizzled and squire-eyed, he still wears the white cloak, turban and pointed leather slippers characteristic of the Rif where he gained fame as a desert warrior a generation ago. He is 73.

The French sent Abdel Krim

into exile when the rebellion was crushed in the 1920s. He likes to pore over maps of North Africa and trace the fighting between Algerians and French. He draws up battle plans and relives the days when his desert fighters held at bay the armies of France and Spain.

WAS ARAB CHIEF
The ex-mufti of Palestine, Haj Amin Hussein, lives in Heliopolis, Egypt. He directs activities of the Palestine Arab higher committee.

The mufti has no patience with talk of implementing United Nations resolutions on Palestine or any other compromise of any kind with Israel. Haj Amin wants all Palestine united as an Arab state, and nothing less.

He is a bitter enemy of Jordan's King Hussein and is barred from that Arab state. In 1951, one of the mufti's relatives was hanged for the murder of Hussein's grandfather King Abdullah.

The mufti hasn't seen Palestine since he fled from British authorities during the Arab revolt of the late 1930s.

Three young Jordanians from the old Arab Legion form another section of the exile population in Cairo. Col. Abdullah Tel was convicted of complicity in the murder of King Abdullah in 1951 and was sentenced to death in absentia.

His two comrades here are Maj. Gens. Ali Abu Nuwar and Ali Hayari, who in rapid succession were chiefs of staff of the Jordan Army. Both fled Jordan last April and have since been accused of complicity in a plot to assassinate Hussein.

An enemy of the pro-Western regime in Iraq, Rashid Ali Gailani, also keeps his headquarters in Cairo. Rashid Ali almost brought the Axis powers into the Arab world in 1941, when he took over the Iraqi government in a pro-Fascist revolution.

Why do these exiles gather in Cairo? For one thing, Cairo is the headquarters of the Arab world, with the Arab League centred here. Also, the Cairo press and radio provide ready-made propaganda facilities for such political movements.

Money short exiles also find they can live economically in the Egyptian capital, in many respects the most modern of Arab cities.

Newfoundland Escapes Polio

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Dr. John Davies says this may be the first year in 10 that Newfoundland has not had a case of poliomyelitis. No cases were reported for the first eight months of 1957.

The acting chief medical health officer says the province expects an average of 10 cases a year.

During a 1953 epidemic 242 cases were reported; 50 per cent were children under five years of age, 75 per cent under 10.

In Newfoundland, he says, children seem to be most susceptible to the disease in their third year.

A Salk vaccine program was based on these figures and by the end of October 25,000 inoculations will have been given. Dr. Davies names these factors which "have been incriminated in influencing the spread of polio virus."

Removal of tonsils, fracture or injury, over-exertion or fatigue during incubation, pregnancy, infections and the use of cortisone. These factors are important only during an epidemic.

"Great strides have been made during the last few years in the prevention of poliomyelitis and I expect even greater progress," Dr. Davies said. "For the present our hopes are in Salk vaccine."

U.K. Traders Hear Methods Criticized

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three Vancouver-based United Kingdom trade commissioners Tuesday heard a battery of British Columbia purchasing agents roundly criticize Britain's method of doing business with West Coast importers.

The commissioners, John Saunders, Leslie Reid and John Matthews, were panel guests of the Purchasing Agents Association of B.C.

They heard charges that British servicing arrangements in the B.C. market area are poor; that U.K. deliveries are untrustworthy; and that U.K. manufacturers' agents do not understand the West Coast market.

Other criticisms: British workmanship is often below standard; U.K. exporters fail to supply parts in B.C. for many types of their own machinery; goods often are left lying on the dock for weeks because of lack of co-ordination between factory and the shipping lines; British exporters "snub" B.C. buyers, ignoring inquiries and complaints.

The Britons also got in a few licks. They complained that Canadian importers do not understand the role of British confirming agents in expediting shipments, thus taking on unnecessary follow-up work.

Mr. Saunders said the problem now is to get the various complaints across to the manufacturer. "Just wait a while; things will improve."

Eight Young Canadians to Get All-Expense European Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Forty-eight young Canadian university students next year will have a kind of European holiday with all expenses paid.

The group—24 boys and 24 girls—will act as guides at the Canadian pavilion during the 1958 world fair in Brussels, April 17-Oct. 19.

Being able to speak both English and French is one of the major prerequisites.

"We're also looking for students who are extroverts without being brash, and pleasant without being shy," said Glen E. Bannerman, chairman of the trade department's exhibition branch.

The students selected must have a good knowledge of Canadian geography as well as a B standing or better in their last university examinations. Mr. Bannerman told a press conference here.

As guides at a fair which will be an international showcase for 48 countries, the students will have to answer questions about Canada's 28 exhibits.

SELECTION STARTED
Work on the selection of guides started about two years ago. Some 20 universities agreed to handle student applications and make nominations to the exhibition branch—the government body looking after Canadian participation in the fair.

After nominations close Oct. 15, two selection teams composed of exhibition commission and civil service commission officials will visit universities to make final selections. Mr. Bannerman said he expects two or three students will be chosen from each university.

LT-Col. Edward Bullock, the exhibition commission's information officer, said students will be paid $150 a month, with all travel and living expenses paid.

The Canadians will wear a distinctive uniform—a dark green blazer with a scarlet maple leaf and "Canada" in gold lettering on the pocket and grey slacks or skirts.

The guides will receive some training, but just how the courses will be conducted hasn't been decided. It's quite probable that the boat trip from Canada to Belgium will afford time for the guides to brush up on their Canadiana.

The 1957 Iceland herring fisheries yielded about 210,000 barrels of salted herring for Norwegian fishermen.

U.S. Space Experts Called

WASHINGTON—The army's Academy of Sciences. The government previously had ruled out the use of military rockets in the American effort to get a satellite into an orbit, New equipment had to be designed for use in the navy project which is under the direction of Dr. John P. Hagen of the naval research laboratory. Hagen said Tuesday that the United States might have beaten the Russians into outer space if U.S. scientists had had rockets like the army Jupiter-C assigned to the Vanguard project from its start in September, 1955.

Mendari and von Braun were expected to work out with officials here the size, shape and weight of the satellite they will hurl into space with their powerful Jupiter-C, a test rocket which has been used in atmosphere re-entry experiments.

Two White House meetings—one small and the other large—dug Tuesday into the problems of financing space age defenses.

Canada Subject Of Supplement In London Times

LONDON (CP)—The historic links between Canada and Britain and the development in Canada of a growing national consciousness are themes stressed in a special Canada supplement published Tuesday by the Times.

The supplement contains articles by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Finance Minister Fleming and other official personalities. There are also articles on Eskimo art, housing and architecture, wildlife in the northwest Territories and Canada's Indian population.

A story on British emigration to Canada notes that the annual movement from these islands is comparable to transplanting the entire population of a town such as Reading, Berkshire, across the Atlantic. Reading has a population of more than 100,000.

This is the second supplement on Canada published by the Times. The first appeared a year ago.

MULTI-MILLION PROJECT CONFIRMED BY BONNER

Attorney-General Robert Bonner says British money released for export by the Bank of England will be used to build a $3,000,000 office building in downtown Vancouver.

Back from a trade mission in Europe, Mr. Bonner confirmed Monday an earlier announcement that the building would be undertaken. In addition, he said, Dutch and British investors are interested in investing a minimum of $30,000,000 in an estate type of development on the Vancouver waterfront.

He declined to reveal details except to say the plan is something like the Annacis Island industrial estate in the Fraser River.

"If the arrangements go through it would mean that Vancouver's port facilities would be greatly enhanced," Mr. Bonner said.

Airport Agreement With Gov't Approved

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Ottawa has given written assurance that it will co-operate with the city in construction of a new passenger terminal at Vancouver International Airport.

The offer was contained in the new operating agreement between Vancouver and the Department of Transport which city council formally approved Tuesday. The agreement provides that the Department of Transport will continue to operate all flight facilities at the airport and will construct all runways and taxiways.

The new agreement is basically the same as the old five-year agreement which expired in October, but with several amendments.

WILLIAMS LAKE—RCMP here have released details of a weekend hunting accident which claimed the life of a B.C. highways department employee. Kenneth Calvin Rose, 21, of Pouce Coupe, was found dead on a barbed wire fence late Saturday, less than 12 hours after he had set out to hunt deer alone.

One bullet from his heavy rifle had struck him in the head. The rifle lay beside the body. Discovery of a second spent shell indicated Rose may have shot at a deer and was climbing through the fence to follow it.

DRIVER JAILED

VANCOUVER—A 47-year-old motorist from Brandon, Man., was sentenced Tuesday to three weeks in jail after admitting a second charge of impaired driving within three days.

Eisenhower Sound, Doctors Declare

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors Monday pronounced him in excellent health.

A medical bulletin on his latest head-to-toe physical examination said:

"The president continues to maintain an excellent state of health following recovery from his two illnesses."

It referred to his September, 1955, heart attack and to the severe intestinal attack he suffered in June, 1956, which required surgery.

Rail Unions Ask Big Wage Boost

Strike Threatened by Demand To Cost $100 Million a Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Unions representing 140,000 workers have hit the railways with a demand for a big wage boost, sure to precipitate the threat of a strike.

The unions want about 35 cents an hour in an increase, split between 11 per cent and 17 cents an hour, plus some fringe benefits.

It would cost the railways more than $100,000,000 a year.

The demand for the big raise — by the non-operating unions consisting mainly of employees not actually on the trains — was presented to the main carriers Tuesday, it was learned Tuesday night.

Today, Frank H. Hall, chairman of the general conference committee of the rail unions issued this statement:

Other Demands by Union

In addition to the wage boost, which union officials calculated would total 35 cents an hour, a union letter to the railways also asks for a more favorable vacation-with-pay deal; an eighth statutory holiday; Remembrance Day, Nov. 11; establishment for the first time of the principle of severance pay for railway workers; and no farming out by railways of work normally done by their own employees.

The unions also asked for an "open-end" contract with respect to the negotiation of differentials as between different wage groups and for employees who might get shifted to better jobs.

It was the big non-operating group that staged the 11-day

"The wages of railway employees have lagged behind those of workers in other major industries for many years past."

The present proposal for an increase of 11 per cent plus 17 cents, to become effective January 1, 1958, is designed to correct this situation as well as to maintain parity with wage rates in the other industries during the tenure of the next agreement on the railways.

"The other proposals... have the similar objective of bringing the conditions of railway workers up to standards and trends obtaining elsewhere in industry."

railways strike in 1950, called off by legislation enacted by an emergency session of Parliament.

In 1954 government intervention again was necessary in a dispute between the railways and the non-operating group. The cabinet forced the unions into accepting a settlement.

Included in the rail demands — for the first time — is the Midland Railway of Manitoba which is under federal jurisdiction. The unions have also included the Railway and Express Agency Inc. whose employees include a small number of members of the unions.

The existing contract expires at the year's end. The unions have asked for a meeting with the railways not later than Dec. 2.

Redistribution Of Tax Duties Urged at Parley

By FORBES RHUDE
CP Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Tax responsibilities must be redistributed if municipalities are to meet growing needs, H. Carl Goldenberg of Montreal said Tuesday in an address to the tax conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

At Confederation, he said, municipal responsibilities were local activities but these had been widened by social and economic change to include costly education, social welfare, health and transportation services.

Municipalities now were called upon to finance functions of province-wide or national interest.

However, the municipal tax base—the tax on real property, or land and buildings—remained largely the same as at Confederation.

This base, even in a period of rising property values and large-scale construction, lagged behind such provincial revenues as the sales tax, gasoline tax, motor-vehicle licences, corporation taxes, and receipts under the federal-provincial tax-rental agreements.

Even though new taxable property had been added to municipal assessment rolls, the increase had lagged behind the rise in wages, prices and construction costs, and had in effect been offset by them.

NO NEW SOURCES

Municipalities had been unable to find new tax sources because the most productive forms of today's taxation, such as income taxes, were difficult for municipalities to administer.

It would be generally admitted, Mr. Goldenberg said, that a more substantial increase in assessments or rates or both would have been warranted.

However, since real estate taxes must be paid out of income, and the same income was subject to federal and provincial taxes, the owners of real property reacted with compelling effect against attempts to increase assessments.

"While real property tax revenues will continue to rise with community growth, the rate of increase in productivity of the tax will lag behind the rate of growth of the community, which will thereby continue to be limited in its capacity to finance expanded municipal services and facilities."

CANADA BACKS WORLD PARLEY OF SCIENTISTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday he is sure all free nations would approve convening of a non-government conference of world atomic scientists.

He was replying in the Commons to CCF Leader Coldwell, who suggested that the Canadian government encourage holding of such a meeting as proposed by six Russian scientists.

Canadian-born industrialist Cyrus Eaton, instrumental in convening a similar meeting at Pugwash, N.S., earlier this year, has approved such a conference and suggested that it be held in Canada, the West Indies or India.

Young Reader Awards

Certificates will be awarded Friday to about 200 youngsters who completed a schedule of summer reading through clubs at Victoria Public Library.

Library board chairman J. E. Neely will make the presentations starting at 7 p.m. in the second floor music room.

The clubs, which set targets of from four to 32 books per member, were "Animal Fair," "Swiftsure Adventurers" and "Book Critics."

The ceremony will mark the opening of Young Canada's Book Week, No. 15 to 22.

Bingo 'Game' Not Lottery

WADENA, Sask. (CP)—An officer of the Kinsmen Club here has been acquitted in Magistrate's Court on a charge of conducting a lottery after the court ruled bingo was not a lottery but a game.

Henry Graham Young, a Wadena merchant and chairman of the club's fund-raising committee, was found not guilty by Magistrate R. Macara.

Magistrate Macara said bingo was not a lottery and that charges of this type usually were laid under the gaming sections of the criminal code and not the lottery section as was done Friday.

The charge was laid by Rev. David L. Clink, president of the Wadena Ministerial Association.

Defence counsel had argued bingo was not a lottery but a game and a prize of an automobile was not a valuable security under the law. Counsel said valuable security was not the goods themselves but a title or bill of sale of these goods.

Higher Loans to Small Businessmen Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is studying proposals for increasing loans to small Canadian business operators but Finance Minister Fleming says it may be some time yet before any decision is announced.

These operators, he told reporters Tuesday night, are facing the pressure of increasing competition from chain stores and are seeking access to "easier credit" than now is available to them.

The problem, he added, is "real enough," but the government so far had made no commitment to anyone. It would take some time to reach a decision after all the representations are studied.

NO POLICY CLASH

Mr. Fleming touched on this point following a 50-minute meeting with Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada. Reporters asked whether there was any truth to reports of policy clashes between the minister and the governor, clashes which could lead to Mr. Coyne's resignation.

Mr. Fleming said there was not a shred of truth in these reports. His relations with Mr. Coyne were "always pleasant—we like to do business that way."

A number of matters were discussed with Mr. Coyne but Mr. Fleming could give no details. However, in reply to questions, he observed that interest rates on government treasury bills had declined by three-tenths of one per cent in the last two months and that the market for government bonds was showing "very considerable strength."

OPPOSED TIGHT MONEY

All this was "very gratifying," said Mr. Fleming who had strongly opposed the tight money policy of the former Liberal administration.

While Canadian rates had eased, those of United States treasury bills had risen by one-half of one per cent since mid-July. The gap in Canada-U.S. treasury bill rates had narrowed by eight-tenths of one per cent and this appeared to be encouraging increased borrowing in Canada by Canadian corporations and various levels of government.

Recently British Columbia had considered placing a loan in New York but later withdrew the offer.

The general liquidity of the Canadian situation was "all a gratifying development."

SHOWS CONCERN

However, Mr. Fleming appeared somewhat concerned over the need for loans by small business operators seeking to dress up their store fronts and undertake other capital expansion better to compete against the bigger chain outfits.

There have been some rumors that the government was considering lowering the eight-per cent floor on chartered banks' cash ratios to deposits as a means of increasing the supply of bank money available for loans, but Mr. Fleming declined to comment on this point.

Kenneth Taylor, deputy finance minister, who accompanied Mr. Fleming to the meeting, observed that the Crown-owned Industrial Development Bank year. This bank caters particularly has increased its loans to some 100,000 to the needs of smaller enterprises.

Highway Signs 'Inadequate'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The association's highway signs committee, said present regulations only permit signs that are too small to be of any real value.

Regulations say off-the-highway courts are allowed only to erect a sign on the main highway pointing to auto courts.

Mrs. Lillian Chambers, vice-president and chairman of the association's highway signs committee, said present regulations only permit signs that are too small to be of any real value.

They should be allowed to give the names of the courts and their distance from the road. More than 150 delegates from across the province are registered. Guests include Ralph R. Moore, deputy economic affairs minister in Alberta, and Dan Campbell, director of the Alberta Travel Bureau.

SOCREDS LAG IN NOMINATIONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conservative, Liberal and CCF parties have nominated a total of six candidates for the 22 ridings of British Columbia—in case of an early call for a general election.

But the Social Credit party has, as yet, nominated no candidate.

Noel Murphy, president of the Social Credit League, last week sent a letter to all Social Credit riding association presidents.

He suggested the time had come to make preparations with nominations and organization.

(A) "SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD" (Cinema, Paramount Theatre, Seattle). A motion picture patron who hasn't witnessed the cinematic miracle known as "Cinerama" will likely want to chalk it up as the eighth wonder of the world.

The screen, compared to the average normal screen, is not only huge it is colossal. The images are projected on to it by three projectors and the sound is taken care of by five speakers behind the screen and two more off the screen, one on either side. In several instances such a combination provides thrilling effects for the customers. For instance, in the passing of a train, such as happens in life, first you hear the approach then you see the train. The sound keeps pace with the puffing vehicle across the stage and even after it disappears from view the noise continues to dwindle into the distance.

Unfortunately for Stanley Warner Corporation's "The Seven Wonders of the World," however, so much has been heard about the other Cinerama productions, "This Is Cinerama" and "Cinerama Holiday" that it can't possibly live up to expectations. One heard, for instance, about a roller coaster ride where it was so realistic that one clung to his theatre seat while, it has been said, some were actually sick. Still others told you about a flight down into the Grand Canyon that had you reaching for your safety belts.

In "The Seven Wonders of the World" there were all too few such adventures. There was one exhilarating ride on a run-away train and a flight under a bridge that had everyong ducking and exclaiming. Other than these, however, the film was a travelogue—a fine, wonderful travelogue, mind you, one that encompassed the beauty spots of the world, yet a travelogue nonetheless.

There are still technical problems to be ironed out in Cinerama. When the three separate films finally merge in one gigantic image on the screen two dark "seams" are in evidence where the two "wing" pictures gyrate while the centre film stands still or vice versa.

With radio newscaster Lowell Thomas as host the Cinerama plane takes off on its world jaunt—lasting some 120 minutes—with the theatre audience as passengers. The goal is to see as many of the modern wonders of the world as possible.

There are many. There is a visit to the Great Pyramid, the Taj Mahal, Rio at carnival times, a camel caravan, a rip-snorting fight between a mongoose and a cobra, Niagara Falls, Victoria Falls, the Parthenon and the Colosseum in Rome and Pope Pius XII giving a special benediction.

It is interesting to note that such is the appeal of Cinerama that since the whole business began back in the autumn of 1952 the first two Cinerama productions have grossed about $50,000,000—in spite of the fact that they have been shown in only 22 theatres.

ABOUT THEMSELVES

Millionaires Entertained
Richly By Play

LONDON (AP)—The wealthy Biddies and Dukes Tuesday night attended the charity premiere of a play about themselves, "The Happiest Millionaire."

Playing the title role in the play—already a Broadway hit—is Robert Beatty of Hamilton, who came here from Canada in 1950.

Members of the wealthy Biddies and Duke families, plus some rich friends, gathered hours before the first curtain for a $2,500 party at the Ritz.

"Millionaires," said Mrs. Cordelia Robertson in reply to a reporter's question, "Who cares about millionaires? Everyone's a millionaire these days."

Mrs. Robertson, the former Cordelia Drexel Biddle, is portrayed in the play by actress Maureen Swanson, a British beauty.

"This play is the true picture of my life," said Mrs. Robertson, now married to architect Markoe Robertson.

"I ran away from school, brought home a young man named Angier Duke and told my parents I was going to marry him."

She said her family was astounded. And so were the Dukes. The marriage ended in divorce.

Mrs. Robertson's father was Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle—"The Happiest Millionaire" in the play.

Mrs. Robertson said her father was a happy millionaire and she is a happy millionaire. Why?

"Because I have a good nature and money doesn't mean a thing to me. I just don't understand it."

COURT CLEARS
FRENCH MOVIE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has struck down Chicago's ban against the French movie, "The Game of Love."

The high tribunal in a brief order Tuesday reversed a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago which had upheld the police censor board's prohibition against showing the film.

Times Film Corporation, distributor of the movie, appealed to the high tribunal, which acted unanimously today without the customary hearing of arguments.

Confidential, Whisper Quit
Publishing 'Expose' Stories

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Confidential and Whisper magazines have decided to retire from the "expose" field. And, in a development apparently related to this decision, they have won dismissal of one of the conspiracy charges brought against them.

The magazines announced in newspaper ads Tuesday that they will "eliminate expose stories on the private lives of celebrities," beginning with the March, 1958, issue of Confidential and the April, 1958, issue of Whisper.

The ads said the magazines "never felt that such stories violated any laws," but nevertheless agreed on the format change with the state attorney-general and county district attorney.

After the ads appeared in print, Superior Judge H. Burton Nobel dismissed a charge of conspiracy to commit criminal libel brought against 11 individuals and three corporations connected with the publication of Confidential and Whisper.

The prosecution did not object. A two-month trial of the case ended last summer with the jury deadlocked 7 to 5 for conviction.

After the ads appeared in print, Superior Judge H. Burton Nobel dismissed a charge of conspiracy to commit criminal libel brought against 11 individuals and three corporations connected with the publication of Confidential and Whisper.

ROBERT E. SOMMERS... incommunicado.

Sommers Here But in Seclusion

Reporters Wait in Vain Outside of City Residence

Robert Sommers returned to Victoria early today but his exact whereabouts and movements were cloaked in a veil of mystery.

U.S. Flexes Jet Muscles In Long Hop

MANILA (AP)—Three U.S. Air Force twin-jet B-66 bombers swept into the Philippines today after non-stop flight from the U.S. west coast.

The USAF said the flight from George Air Force Base, Calif., made in slightly more than 17 hours, was part of an operation to show it can deliver a tactical striking force to help nip brushfire wars anywhere in the world.

A spokesman said the 8,000-mile non-stop trip was a record for B-66s, which can carry atomic weapons. The flight refueled in the air off Hawaii.

The B-66s are the vanguard of 47 jet fighter and bombers being moved from various U.S. bases to Pacific points.

Record Flight Started

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay lifted his record-setting KC-135 jet strato-tanker off Buenos Aires' Ezeiza Field early today in quest of a possible inter-American jet speed record for the 5,000-mile trip.

He was driving his car, in which he is reported to have been driving in the western U.S. during the past four months.

Mr. Sommers was next seen Continued on Page 2

West Willing to Add To UN Arms Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—In an effort to avert a threatened Soviet boycott, the Western powers agreed today to add 10 new countries to the UN's 12-member disarmament commission.

This is the same number pushed by India. But informed quarters said the Indians were highly displeased by the geographic distribution the West suggested.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, our help in ages past, grant us this day an uplifting consciousness of Thy presence. We offer Thee the gratitude of our hearts for the life Thou hast given, for the beauty of the world, for the daily task in which we are able to forget ourselves and minister unto others, for our loved ones, for health, food, clothing, shelter and sunshine.

Thou hast given us the night to rest from our labors. As we start on a new day, give us grace to begin and courage to pursue our task. Help us to achieve victories and to shun evil; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Second National Air Line For Canada Planned by CPA

ICBM to Get Top Priority Says John D. Pearkes, Norstad Discuss Missiles For RCAF Units

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today development of a defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile will be given high priority in Canada's defence program.

He informed the Commons this anti-missile project is being undertaken in co-operation with the United States.

Another co-operative venture of "considerable significance" was the project for development of defensive measures against the missile-carrying submarine.

This project included new long-range submarine detection techniques and improved methods of destroying undersea craft.

CO-OPERATING FULLY

Mr. Diefenbaker was making a brief statement, requested by former external affairs minister Lester B. Pearson, on defence co-operation between Canada and the U.S.

Meanwhile, Defence Minister Pearkes was scheduled to discuss with Gen. Lauris Norstad the re-equipping of the RCAF air division in Europe, possibly with missiles.

Highly-placed informants said this will be one of the major subjects to be discussed by Mr. Pearkes and the supreme allied command in Europe.

Gen. Norstad arrived here today for two days of talks with Canadian political and military leaders.

Informants said, however, the final decision would rest with the Canadian government.

Norstad told a press conference that the balance of power between East and West will not be upset in the next few years.

He said that the Russians do not now have any significant number of operational intermediate range missiles and that the launching of Soviet earth satellites has not required any alteration in his recently-drafted five-year military plan for the North Atlantic alliance.

He added: "We're not frightened. We have the strength. We have great will and determination. We can do the job. The balance is not going to be upset in the next few years."

Ocean Still Scoured For Lost Airliner

HONOLULU (AP)—The aircraft carrier Philippine Sea and its covey of planes today enter the critical area in their search for a Honolulu-bound Pan American airliner which vanished last Friday with 44 persons.

Despite the biggest peacetime search in the Pacific, embracing more than 175,000 square miles, no trace of the plane or its 36 passengers and crew of eight has been found.

CANADA REPRESENTED

The Western decision was taken at a meeting attended by representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Canada. These same countries had agreed Tuesday on the addition of five new members but had decided to reconsider after a number of countries had complained at being left out.

The names of the countries backed by the Western powers were not disclosed immediately. They had agreed Tuesday on Brazil, Italy, Tunisia, India and Poland.

A formal proposal on the enlargement of the commission was expected to be submitted before the General Assembly meets on Thursday to consider the disarmament problem.

TOO DAMN SMUG

Mirror 'Reflects' British Image

LONDON (AP)—The millions of Britons who read the tabloid Daily Mirror were jolted this morning by a headline advising them they are "Too, damn smug!"

The entire front page of The Mirror consisted of an eight-deck head reading: "Wake up, Britain! 'We're living in 'The past'—it's too slow 'Too damn smug!'"

"Urgent... see today's centre pages."

THE MIRROR'S EDITORIAL

A two-page spread inside The Mirror—which claims the world's highest weekly sale of more than 4,500,000 copies—says the rest of the world thinks of Britain as "stuck in a rut, bumbling, outdated."

"The world is on the move, but we are still marking time. 'Little wonder that we are losing trade. Today it is Ger-

LOGICAL FOR RUSS TO HIT AMERICA FIRST

PARIS (AP)—Charles Cannon, Liberal member of the Canadian House of Commons, told the NATO parliamentary assembly today that Canada and the United States might be in more immediate danger of attack from Russia than western Europe.

He called for a joint Canadian-U.S. command under NATO.

He said: "The time has now come for the defence of North America with the participation of Europeans in this defence. Would it not be logical to have the Russians first attack North America and then turn on Europe?"

Pulp Strike Blow to Island

Economy Threatened as 1,600 Workers Set for Thursday Walkout

By JOHN MIKA

First province-wide strike in B.C.'s pulp industry's history, scheduled to start at 8 a.m. Thursday, will throw a snag into Vancouver Island's economy.

More than 1,600 pulp workers will walk off jobs, leaving an other 300 office and salaried workers stranded in four closed Island plants. Jobs of another 1,000 construction workers carrying out expansion programs also are threatened.

The Island's daily output of 2,480 tons of pulp and paper will be cut off with no shipments to customers possible during the duration of the strike.

The strike will chop into an $800,000 monthly payroll at the plants. Business activity in communities near plants also will be slowed by curtailment of plant purchases.

No negotiations were reported today between six companies, operating nine plants in B.C., and the joint union committee representing the International Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Paper Mill Workers.

About 6,000 workers will strike for a 12 per cent wage increase after rejecting a 7½ per cent boost recommended by a majority conciliation board report.

The Island plants were undergoing shutdown preparations today.

Other Workers To Be Affected

Jim Petrie, manager of the $100,000 MacMillan and Bloedel plant at Port Alberni said 525 workers of 625 personnel were scheduled to walk out Thursday, stopping the plant's 800-ton daily production of newsprint, paper and pulp.

Some 350 construction workers employed in a large expansion project may be affected if the strike is prolonged.

G. L. Harris, manager of the company's Harmac plant near Nanaimo, said the $400,000 plant will be closed when 400 workers go on strike. Jobs of another 75 employees and 25 construction workers may be affected later.

The $35,000,000 Elk Falls Co. plant will be strike-bound by 350 workers but the shutdown may affect jobs of 500 construction laborers working on an expansion project scheduled to finish Dec. 1.

The plant, four miles from Campbell River, produces 330 tons of newsprint and 400 tons of paper daily, manager Tom Hargreaves said.

Some 360 of the 440 employees at the Port Alice plant operated near the northern tip of the island by Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. are expected to join the strike.

CPA Franchise Hopes Backed By Tory Stand

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects of Canadian Pacific Airlines getting a trans-continental franchise in competition with the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines appear fairly bright.

The Progressive Conservatives have repeatedly stated they are opposed to the TCA's 19-year monopoly and the cabinet is known to favor the introduction of competition in the domestic service.

Transport Minister Hees, who answers for TCA to the Commons said today that "any air line has a perfect right to apply for anything it wants."

"That is what the air transport board is for," he said.

"The whole air industry has been under intensive review by myself and the department for some time. At a proper time in the near future I expect to discuss what the government's thinking is in connection with that industry."

DELAY PROBABLE

It could take months for a final decision to be reached. The board must hold public hearings on the application before making a recommendation. That ruling may be appealed to Mr. Hees.

The former Liberal administration, in power for 22 years until last June, rejected previous moves by CPA to share in the cross-country service on the grounds that Canada could not afford to support two competing lines. The Conservatives, while in Opposition, argued that monopoly was detrimental to the public.

Four years ago the Liberal government rejected the CPA bid for a trans-continental air freight franchise to compete against TCA in this field. The bid was rejected by the cabinet. Certain recommendations were made by the air transport board but these were never made public.

Last year TCA reported the highest gross revenues in its history and a surplus of $1,556,000, up from $190,000 in 1955. Revenues went up by 18 per cent to $91,306,000. Operating expenses totalled $82,225,000 and depreciation charges $6,971,000.

The company's financial improvement was attributed to increased traffic throughout TCA's trans-continental and trans-oceanic system.

Details of proposed schedules will be announced when the application is submitted, he said in a statement.

CPA is expected to start the new service as soon as the air transport board's approval is received, with four east-west flights a day. A fleet of 15 super DC-6B airliners will be available for the domestic service.

"We are convinced that the time has come to satisfy the public demand for competitive air service in Canada," Mr. Mather said. "It is apparent that the measure of competition involved in the CPA application would benefit the travelling public by improving the quality, the efficiency and the frequency of available air service in this country."

"Competitive air service in Canada would result in no duplication of facilities in terms of public investment in air transport."

Huge U.S. Missile Successfully Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A huge missile was fired from the air force missile test centre here today.

It roared out over the Atlantic tracking range in an apparently successful launching.

The needle-nosed projectile was believed to be a Navaho, an inter-continental missile still on the stockpile here although no longer manufactured for the air force.

Spectators along the beach near the top secret base said the missile moved upwards with a roar, slowly curved and then moved over the tracking range out of sight.

In July of this year the air force cancelled its contract with North American Aviation, Inc., builder of the Navaho. However, there were a number of the missiles already built believed to be in the "missile stockpile" here. A Navaho was fired Sept. 18 here but it was believed that all further launchings of the red and white projectile were merely their "swan song."

A spokesman once described the Navaho as an inter-continental missile, but said its performance was not comparable to larger ICBMs.

U.K. ROCKET 83 MILES UP AT 3,307 MPH

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Britain launched a Skylark high-altitude rocket to a height of 83 miles today, Australian Supply Minister Howard Beale announced.

The firing — at Australia's Woomera range — was designed to check instruments being used in International Geophysical Year experiments by British universities.

It was the fourth Skylark rocket to be launched.

Beale said the rocket's speed was 3,307 miles an hour.

GIVES WARNING

Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, warned the world Tuesday his force has planes all over the world, loaded with nuclear bombs ready to take off in 15 minutes after any warning of an enemy attack. (AP Wirephoto.)

Application At Ottawa; No City Link

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines announced today it will apply to the Air Transport Board this month for permission to operate a trans-continental mainline route linking Vancouver and Montreal.

CPA chairman W. A. Mather said the application will seek traffic rights at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

(A CPA spokesman at Vancouver told the Times today a Victoria-Vancouver service was not proposed in the company's plans for a trans-continental service.)

"The application would cover not only passenger traffic, but competitive service with Trans-Canada Air Lines on all services which TCA provides." This would include air mail, air express and air freight services.

Charles Watt, assistant public relations officer, said the CPA application probably will come up before the air transport board "within two weeks."

(If the board decided public hearings on the application were necessary, it could take two months or more before a decision is reached.)

Mr. Mather said the proposed route pattern would "directly duplicate only 10 per cent of the present inter-city services" and would give "a number of the cities concerned... more direct as well as more frequent air services."

The federally operated Trans-Canada Air Lines now operates the only trans-continental service.

FOUR DAILY FLIGHTS

Details of proposed schedules will be announced when the application is submitted, he said in a statement.

UNION SEEKS WIDE PICKETING

minals and communications — rather, public revenues from these facilities would increase because of greater frequency of domestic flights.

"After 20 years of monopoly, the trans-continental airline now, if ever, should be strong enough to stand up to competition in a prospering economy."

"We in Canadian Pacific Airlines believe we can provide an efficient and profitable east-west air service under competitive conditions and thus our application is in line with the proven principles of the free enterprise system."

CPA had applied some years ago for authority to operate an air freight service across Canada but the application was rejected. The current application will be for regular passenger service, a CPA spokesman said.

WESTERN OPERATION

CPA now operates several domestic services mostly in Western Canada and the North. All of the aircraft are piston-engined.

CPA also operates several international services, also with piston-engined aircraft. They run from Mexico City to Madrid, Amsterdam to Sydney, Australia, and Hong Kong to Vancouver.

TCA now provides Canada's only trans-continental service. Its planes land at Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, Regina, Swift Current, Moose Jaw, Winnipeg, Brandon, Fort William, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Fredericton, Halifax, Sydney, N.S., Charlottetown, St. John's, Nfld., and Gander, Nfld. There are other regional and international services.

TCA operates Vickers Viscount turbo-prop aircraft domestically and the Super Constellation piston craft internationally. A spokesman said TCA hopes to add by 1960 some Douglas DC-8 jet aircraft for use on some domestic services and in 1961 the Vickers Vanguard, a sister ship to the Viscount and also turbo prop.

Senate Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The senate banking committee today approved government bills to raise by $9 monthly the federal-provincial payments to the needy aged, the blind and the disabled.

'Old Guard' Communist President Zapotocky Dies

PRAGUE (Reuters) — President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia, one of the "old guard" Czech Communists, died here early today of a heart ailment. He was 72.

Zapotocky, once a stone-cutter's apprentice, returned from a German concentration camp at the end of the war to become successively head of the revolutionary trade union movement, premier and president.

Premier Vilam Siroky was being tipped here as Zapotocky's most likely successor.

DIES AT CLINIC

Zapotocky died at Sanops, a Prague clinic reserved for high party and government leaders. He was admitted there nine days ago when he was taken ill after seeing off a Czechoslovak delegation to Moscow.

Black flags, banners and streamers went up on many government and other buildings less than two hours after the announcement.

Zapotocky presided over the destinies of his country during a turbulent period which saw Czechoslovakia become Russia's most reliable ally in Europe.

The Communist leader, considered "absolutely loyal" to both the party and Russia, played a major role in consolidating the power of the Communists in the crisis of 1948 which followed the resignation and death of President Eduard Benes.

One of the founders of the Czech Communist party, he became president March 21, 1953.

on the death of President Klement Gottwald.

PROMOTED PURGE

He was also one of the main promoters of the 1952 purge in which the former secretary-general of the Czech Communist party, Rudolf Slansky, was tried as a traitor and executed with 10 others.

During the war Zapotocky was imprisoned by the Nazis, first in Dachau concentration camp, then in Sachsenhausen.

When the Germans retreated from Czechoslovakia in 1945, Zapotocky was among 5,000 Sachsenhausen prisoners who went on a notorious "death march" of hundreds of miles toward Mecklenburg.

He was finally freed by the Red Army.

SOMMERS

drifting off the Black Ball ferry at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo, at 10 p.m.

SLOW DOWN

Then he returned to his car and drove a twisting route through Nanaimo, doubling back on his own course several times, pulling into side streets and periodically turning his lights off.

At times he slowed to five miles an hour to force cars behind him to take the lead.

The scene switched then to Victoria, where a reporter-photographer team watched Mr. Sommers' home until 3 a.m.

He did not arrive by that time, but this morning his car was parked in the garage under the house.

Reporters got no answer today when they knocked on the door and no one answered the telephone in the house. Later the phone was apparently taken off the hook.

NO DEVELOPMENTS

Meanwhile, there were no new developments today following the startling events at the inquiry Tuesday when the validity of the commission was challenged by lawyer Alfred Bull, Q.C.

Mr. Bull, counsel for C. D. Schultz and Co., said he expected to seek an injunction blocking further hearings.

He was understood to be conferring with Mr. Schultz this morning before seeking a writ from the B.C. Supreme Court.

Attorney-General Bonner has indicated the provincial government will contest any attempt to overthrow the Commission.

"I'd be very surprised if we didn't oppose such a move," Mr. Bonner said. "The government naturally hopes the inquiry will be permitted to proceed."

Mr. Bull maintains that the provincial government has no right to set up the commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, because a criminal offence is involved which comes under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — The Speech from the Throne opening the 25th Legislature said today Quebec would ask Ottawa for a bigger share of the tax dollar.

Quebec asks for no favors but only for the full respect of its rights, prerogatives and liberties," the 1,500-word document read by Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux said.

WHO'S BOSS AT HOME? MOM, POP STILL ARGUE

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Salt Lake Tribune recently sent a questionnaire to all its school correspondents. One of the questions: "Who is the boss in your home?"

Columnist Dan Valentine says an overwhelming majority reported mother is the boss. Only a sprinkling voted for father.

One reply: "I don't know who's boss in our home. They are both still arguing about it."

CONTROVERSY RAGES

Laika Dead Before Sunday, Says Russ

MOSCOW (UP) — A spokesman for the Moscow planetarium said Tuesday that Laika, the dog in Sputnik II, had died even before the satellite's radio signals failed.

The spokesman, identified only as Prof. Porzsky, added that he knew of no device in the Sputnik in which the dog or its body could be brought back to earth.

Porzsky's report indicated that Laika had died prior to Sunday, the day on which the satellite's signals generally were presumed to have failed.

His statement appeared to refute rumors that Laika had landed somewhere in Russia and that search parties had set out to look for it.

The statement conflicted, however, with one made Tuesday night by Soviet premier Nikolai Bulganin to newsmen at a Swedish Embassy party. Bulganin said that the dog was alive to his knowledge on Sunday, but that he had not heard about its condition Monday.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The dog aboard Sputnik II probably has been brought back to the earth alive but the Russians aren't talking about it because of military implications, the president of the International Astronautical Federation said Tuesday night.

Andrew G. Haley said he based his belief partly in the difference in the radio code pattern of the two Russian satellites.

Sputnik I gave out signals until its battery wore down, he said. The beeping from the larger Sputnik II ended sooner and suddenly, as if connections were broken or instruments destroyed by the ejection of the dog.

Haley, who spoke at Gonzaga University, did not spell out the military implications.

MOSCOW (AP) — Izvestia said today Russia will shoot many more dogs into space before risking human life in such experiments.

The Soviet government newspaper said the first human space travellers would not be adventurers but "the best people to be found in Soviet society."

Scientific methods of protecting future pilots and passengers from harmful effects must be created beforehand by means of experiments with animals in space, the paper added.

Britain Rejects Iran Claim to Bahrein Is.

LONDON (AP) — The government served notice today that Britain will go on safeguarding the independence of oil rich Bahrein, the Persian Gulf island which Iran has claimed.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain has repeatedly made clear it considers the Iranian claim to be unfounded.

The spokesman's prepared statement was read after reporters at a press conference had asked him to comment on the Tehran government's move to give Bahrein the status of an Iranian province.

The British consider Bahrein was lost to Iran in 1783 when it became an independent principality. It has been ruled uninterruptedly since then by the Al Khalifah sheiks.

The ruler of Bahrein and his government controls the island's internal affairs while Britain, at the ruler's request, runs Bahrein's foreign affairs and is responsible for its defence.

Two Men Jailed For Theft Of Clothes

Two men who pleaded guilty to stealing $260 worth of clothes from George Straith Ltd., 921 Government, Nov. 4, were given jail terms in city police court today.

William Toderas, no fixed address, was sentenced to three months because of his record. Henry A. Lustig, also of no fixed address, was given one month in jail.

Magistrate H. C. Hall warned both men about their conduct which arose, apparently, from excessive drinking.

Goods included eight sports shirts and two sports jackets, one of them valued at more than $100.

Ike to Air Science Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower outlines tonight his program for training more youths as scientists in the space era struggle against Russia.

Some key scientific advisers to the president have suggested to him that the federal government grant scholarships to promising students as an incentive. But the White House declined advance discussion of what Eisenhower will recommend.

For tonight's coast-to-coast, television-radio address, the second in a "chins up" series, the president travels by plane to Oklahoma City.

(The speech is scheduled to be carried on Channel 5 at 10.30 and on Channel 12 at 11.)

WIDE OPEN GAS SALES ASKED BY OIL FIRMS

Major oil company representatives Tuesday asked the City of Victoria to leave hours of gasoline sales unrestricted.

They proposed a public opinion poll, at their expense, to prove the drivers of the district favored the present non-regulated hours of sale.

City council is pondering a by-law which would require service stations to either close at 6 p.m. or stay open 24 hours a day. Victoria Automobile Club has recommended regulation of hours be left to the service station operators.

ON HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Tories Stalling Claims Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin has accused the federal government of "stalling" implementation of a national hospital insurance scheme.

City Needs Technical Planners

Greater Victoria municipalities will have to hire technical planning staffs to turn an impending development plan for the region into reality, capital region planner Brahm Wiesman said Tuesday night.

He told a Saanich Council committee the plan "will be just so much paper" if municipalities did not employ technical staffs to implement it.

ONE MORE

If the Capital Region Planning Board switched over from overall planning for the area to detailed planning for individual municipalities, one more planner would be required, he said.

Mr. Wiesman met the councillors as a result of a suggestion by Coun. George Chatterton that Saanich should investigate the feasibility of employing a full-time town planner.

Elworthy Elected By Tories

Gordon Elworthy, elected president of the Oak Bay Conservative Association Tuesday for a two-year term, said the organization has grown from about 25 to 145 members in the past six months.

Other officers elected were Gerald Carter and Anna Wootton, vice-presidents; Mrs. F. X. Russell, secretary, and William Mann, treasurer. Ten members were elected to the executive.

Robber Tackled

MONTREAL (CP) — Two bank employees tackled a suspected bank robber Tuesday after a holdup of less than $1,000 took place at a branch of the Bank of Montreal in mid-town Montreal.

Club Owner Protests Socred League Ouster

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary club owner Cliff Harris, ejected from the Alberta Social Credit League, said Tuesday night he will not surrender his membership card.

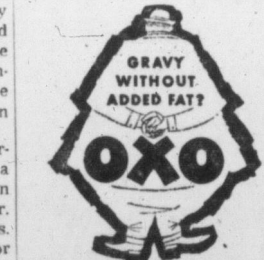

"I regard Orvis Kennedy (of Edmonton), president of the league, as a petty dictator," he said in an interview. "I shall not surrender my membership card."

Mr. Harris was informed by registered letter that he had been expelled because he opposed an official party candidate, S. J. Helman, in the Oct. 2 provincial by-election in Calgary.

Progressive Conservative Ernest Watkins was elected in a five-man field with Mr. Helman running a close second. Mr. Harris polled the fewest votes.

"I think the main reason for the expulsion was because I ran a campaign for liquor reform and the result of the provincial plebiscite Oct. 30 has endorsed that demand," the night club owner said.

He is the second Calgary politician to be ejected from the Alberta Social Credit League. A former constituency president, J. Leslie Hill, lost his membership a few years ago when he allegedly asked oil companies to contribute to party funds.

General Down Trend

Seen in Dull Day

Only on Wall Street, where aircraft led the market out of something of a decline, were the stock markets anything but sluggish today.

Industrial losses on the Canadian exchanges outnumbered gains by more than two to one and in most cases were fractional. Indices generally by late afternoon had recovered slightly from an early decline.

AT TORONTO the stock market was lower today in light mid-afternoon trading, but the indices had recovered slightly from their earlier showing.

Western oils were more than 1% points lower on index while the base metal and industrial indices were down nearly 1% points. Golds were one-quarter of a point easier on index.

Industrial losses outnumbered gains more than two to one. Utilities and refining oils had the greater number of losses among individual groupings.

Gains were fractional in nearly all cases. Western oils had 10 losses for each gain across the board.

Senior base metals were down in a solid line.

AT MONTREAL, prices were down in light afternoon trading today on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges. Losses in general ran about a point.

Only the banking section showed some resistance.

In the mines and oils, Canadian Lithium was down 3 cents at 22. Fano down 1 cent at 18, and Quebec Smelting down 3 cents at 23. Westville was at 80, a gain of 5 cents.

Industrial volume was 40,300 shares; mines and oils 232,100.

AT NEW YORK — Aircrafts bolstered their gains late this afternoon as the stock market pulled out of a decline and showed an irregular pattern in moderate trading.

United Aircraft was ahead 2 while Boeing, Douglas and Republic Aviation rose about a point.

Canadian gainers on the American Exchange included Canadian Marconi, up 1/4, and Canadair, up 1/2.

Each up 1/16. Shawinigan fell 1/4 and Fargo Oil and Jupiter Oil each lost 1/16.

AT LONDON — Stock markets were dull and uncertain today, with little selling.

Glit-ended securities lost their firm trend. Among foreign bonds, Japanese were in renewed demand but Germans remained dull.

It has long been a practice of Canadian banking that, where a cheque is deposited in a payee's account, a rubber-stamp endorsement may replace the payee's written endorsement.

Canadian bankers said there are many fundamental differences between Canadian and British laws governing cheques and a rudimentary change involving endorsements would require careful study.

D. L. CAMPBELL Senior Vice-President

Mr. S. B. Beringer, President and Chairman of the Board of the British American Oil Company Limited, has announced the appointment of Mr. E. D. Loughney and Mr. D. L. Campbell, both former Vice-Presidents of the Company, to the newly created positions of Senior Vice-Presidents of the Company. These positions, Mr. Beringer said, are a further step in the Company's policy of decentralization and will place greater emphasis on forward planning of its operations and co-ordination with the continuing growth of Canada.

The Guardian sums up the new Canadian trade policy as "higher protection for home industry and voluntary diversion to the United Kingdom of imports from the United States."

But, that being so, the editorial says, "it might be expected she would offer lower—rather than seek higher—duties against British goods as an inducement to obtain expanded opportunities for her primary production."

A British trade delegation is scheduled to arrive in Ottawa early next week to oppose the proposed increase when it comes before the Canadian tariff board. A 50-man Canadian trade mission will arrive in London Nov. 21 on the start of a month-long tour.

New Personnel Structure Set for Navy

Adapted to Need For Specialists

The Royal Canadian Navy has adopted a revised personnel structure which will be introduced in progressive steps over a period of years, naval headquarters at Ottawa announced today.

The announcement said the new structure is adapted to the increasingly technical nature of naval weapons and equipment and the navy's particular needs.

Most officers, under the new regime, will be on the navy's general list. They will be given a broad, basic knowledge of the various specialties of the navy and more advanced training in particular fields.

The general list will include a restricted duty section, composed of a comparatively small number of highly specialized technical and administrative officers. Naval headquarters added, however, that existing demarcations between branches in the service will in time disappear.

The limited duty list will consist of men with long experience commissioned from the lower deck. Such officers will have the opportunity to transfer to the general list if they qualify. The announcement said the increased complexity of equipment requires an increase in the capabilities of men on the lower deck. The existing trade structure is to be revised to train men in both the maintenance and operation of weapons and equipment, while continuing to develop and use special skills where necessary.

A report of a special committee calls for classification of recruits into trades after they have served for a while and their capabilities have been assessed. Recruits now choose a trade or branch on entry, although this can be changed after some service. The statement added changes in the personnel structure of the RCN eventually will be reflected by changes in the organization and structure of the naval reserve.

IN SLIGHTLY improved condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today is Mrs. A. E. Cotton, 75, 1054 MacGregor, who with Mrs. Karen Woodley, 75, 123 Wellington, was in collision with a car on Douglas last Thursday night.

Mrs. Cotton has a fractured leg and hip and head injury.

Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board will meet at Cormorant Street headquarters, Monday morning, Mayor Percy Scurrell, board chairman, announced today. He said a great many applications for the post of district co-ordinator have been received, but the board may decide to advertise the position before making an appointment. Present co-ordinator, Roger Peachey, announced his resignation last month.

Victoria voters' list will be posted Nov. 15 at the entrance of city hall. Court of revision will be held in council chambers Nov. 20, and after any errors or omissions are corrected in the list, the publication will be distributed. The court will consist of Mayor Percy Scurrell, chairman; Ald. J. Donald Smith and Ald. Hugh Ramsay. Nomination day is Dec. 5 and election day Dec. 12.

Robert Eddy and rug ...

'ONE-SHOT ROBBIE'

Youth, 14, Kills Bear at 300 Yards

Bear steak is the order today at the Milne's Landing home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eddy due to the keen eye and steady nerves of son Robert, 14-year-old Times carrier.

"Robbie," an avid if youthful hunter, brought down with one shot a 180-pound black bear from 300 yards in dense bush with his sporting model .303 British rifle.

He was hunting with his father and uncle at Cold Creek, about six miles from home, when he spotted the animal. He hit the bear in the neck and it died instantly.

The grade eight pupil at Milne's Landing High School shoots two or three deer a year, plus ducks and geese, and spends most of the money earned on his nine-mile Times route on hunting and fishing equipment. He's carried the Times four years.

Apart from steaks, remainder of the bear is in the process of becoming a rug.

Pupnik Burn-Out Over City Soon?

There is a mathematical passed over Victoria at around 6:40 a.m. today but it is now Sputnik II will burn up over too deep in the earth's shadow to be seen from Victoria at this time.

No radio signals have been received from the satellite since Friday evening.

"When I last heard them, early Friday morning, the beep beep had changed to a long piercing whistle," Mr. Argyle said. "I think the batteries were dying then."

RECONSTRUCTED: From orbital figures received from the Harvard College Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., Mr. Argyle has reconstructed the Sputnik's orbit with a strip of wire encircling a globe of the world.

The orbit drops to within about 150 miles over the Pacific Northwest and rises to an altitude of 1,050 over Australia, South Africa and South America on the other side of the equator.

The Sputnik should now be seen above northern Canada, Greenland and northern Russia at an altitude of about 300 miles. It will not be seen here again.

Mr. Argyle says the energy of the Sputnik is equal to 12 freight trains drawing 60 fully loaded cars at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

"Up to now we have reckoned its average speed at 18,000 miles an hour. Now the speed is increasing."

"If it reached 25,000 miles an hour it would cease to be a travelling companion of the earth and would fly off into space. But that is highly improbable."

Mr. Argyle is confident the Russians will send more animals into space—possibly more dogs and then an ape.

APPE NENT: They are certain to send an ape before long as the ape is closest to man in its physiological reactions.

He added that the orbital figures compiled by the Harvard College Observatory will be made available to scientists throughout the world, including Russia.

Man Killed By Stroke?

A post mortem will be held to determine cause of death at 7 a.m. today of 89-year-old pedestrian George Morley, 712 Vancouver, who was believed to have been in collision with a car at Quadra and Meares Tuesday at 11:05 a.m.

Police are investigating possibility the man suffered a stroke and collapsed on stepping into the street, suffering head injury when he fell.

It was believed he was victim of a hit-run driver when police took the man to St. Joseph's Hospital in critical condition.

A motorist who saw the pedestrian fall to the pavement said he thought a car ahead of him was involved. Police said the car was followed.

But no evidence was found to substantiate the theory it was involved.

It was not decided today whether an inquest will be held. The post mortem likely will determine whether an inquiry will be necessary.

AWAY FROM CURB: According to traffic officers, Mr. Morley fell about six feet from the west curb of Quadra, his walking stick and a roll of maps he was carrying were beside him. His clothes were not disturbed as they might have been if he were in collision with a vehicle, police said.

Examination at the hospital showed the elderly man suffered severe injury on the forehead and a hand abrasion. He was semi-conscious when admitted.

The deceased has a niece living in Cumberland who was en route to Victoria today. There are other relatives in England but no more in Canada. Mr. Morley's wife died here about a year ago.

... AND THE BREAD WAS A FAILURE

A runaway three-ton truck loaded with gravel crashed its way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wright, 1255 Rev. Encombe, and caused an anxious hour as gasoline splashed into the basement Tuesday afternoon.

"It sounded like an earthquake. I thought at first it was the furnace," a shaken Mrs. Wright said as firemen quelled the fire hazard with ansul powder and some of the spilled wet gravel.

She had been baking bread in her kitchen and went to adjust the furnace. Coming back upstairs she heard the noise and ran to look out her front window.

People were running across the street toward a truck lurched on its side and jammed through the steel door of the Wright's basement garage.

Truck driver Andrew Rowan, 1403 Haultain, said he had left the truck parked across the street, partly backed up to a driveway of an uncompleted house while he went inside to find out where to dump the gravel.

It rolled across the street, bumped a parked car, property of C. J. Schaddelle, 1259 Rev. Encombe, damaging it slightly and pushing it across the sidewalk, half-mounted a retaining wall at the Wright home, then dove at an angle into the basement wall and door, knocking a corner off the house.

Mrs. Wright's bread was a failure.

'Sorry' Driver Leaves Scene After Man Hit

A 57-year-old pedestrian complained to police Tuesday a car knocked him to the pavement as he walked across Pandora with a friend, the driver apologized then left the scene.

David Brownlee, Royal Olympic Hotel, was treated at Jubilee Hospital for a leg abrasion and released.

The man and his companion, Jack Jenner, 1118 Cook, told police they were crossing the avenue at Blanshard at 11:55 p.m. when a car travelling east on Pandora was in collision with Brownlee.

Jenner said the driver said he was sorry, asked if they were all right, and drove off.

SATISFACTORY: Mrs. Valerie Obee, 28, 167 Knight, who was admitted to Royal Jubilee for observation, Tuesday noon, after she was involved in an auto crash at Bay and Blanshard, was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Mrs. Obee suffered a severe head cut in the crash. She was driver of her car and the other car was driven by a 17-year-old Victorian, police said.

Mildred Williams, 2160 Bartlett, was treated for bruises and a shaking up when she was taken to Royal Jubilee after a three-car collision at Oak Bay and Jubilee at noon Tuesday.

She was identified as the driver of one car. The other drivers were Marcia Prior, 1060 St. Patrick, and James M. Laing, 1221 Reynolds.

IMPROVED: In slightly improved condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today is Mrs. A. E. Cotton, 75, 1054 MacGregor, who with Mrs. Karen Woodley, 75, 123 Wellington, was in collision with a car on Douglas last Thursday night.

Mrs. Woodley is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today with a broken leg and arm and head injuries.

Mrs. Cotton has a fractured leg and hip and head injury.

Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board will meet at Cormorant Street headquarters, Monday morning, Mayor Percy Scurrell, board chairman, announced today. He said a great many applications for the post of district co-ordinator have been received, but the board may decide to advertise the position before making an appointment. Present co-ordinator, Roger Peachey, announced his resignation last month.

Victoria voters' list will be posted Nov. 15 at the entrance of city hall. Court of revision will be held in council chambers Nov. 20, and after any errors or omissions are corrected in the list, the publication will be distributed. The court will consist of Mayor Percy Scurrell, chairman; Ald. J. Donald Smith and Ald. Hugh Ramsay. Nomination day is Dec. 5 and election day Dec. 12.

John Lewis Vaughan, 819 Fort, $35 for driving without a licence.

Evelyn L. Gordon, 1007 Johnson, $10 for opening the driver's door when traffic made it unsafe.

Edward C. Bailey, 148 East Burnside, $10 for failing to obey a traffic signal.

Richard Edward James Wood, 314 Douglas, $10 for speeding over 30.

Frank Wilson Tingle, 3171 Metcosh, $10 for driving without a rear licence plate light.

PROTECTIVE: "Knowing this traffic exists and making convictions are different things, I would be very grateful to anyone who could give me definite information. They could be assured we would protect them from publicity or reprisal," Mayor Scurrell added.

He indicated the matter would come before the city police commission at a meeting Thursday morning.

Mayor Scurrell, who is also chairman of the police commission, may be reached at City Hall-4-7111.

It was a bright pale yellow and I would say it was about a 1000 ft. across the moon.

Mr. Darimont said he was looking in a southerly direction when the ball of fire flashed across the sky.

"It was much too big to be a meteor," he said, "and it had no tail, so it couldn't have been a comet."

They are certain to send an ape before long as the ape is closest to man in its physiological reactions.

He added that the orbital figures compiled by the Harvard College Observatory will be made available to scientists throughout the world, including Russia.

MONTE ROBERTS

Professor John Farina of the University of Toronto has succeeded in stirring up a nest of indignant hornets with his recent remarks about sport.

Sport, according to the dictionary, is amusement, diversion, fun, pastime, game.

But sport, according to Professor Farina, breeds cheating, larceny, fighting, and downright sadism.

Sport, also according to Professor Farina, is of no use in building character or social adjustment.

Before proceeding further with this matter, let us award the professor a "C" for courage.

Or possibly an "A" for advertising, if we wish to be cynical.

But there is no gainsaying his courage.

In this country, sport is a sacred object, one not lightly to be attacked. It is in much the same category as motherhood, democracy, home cooking, and kindness to animals.

If you're agin' any of them, the wise and safe course is to keep your opinions to yourself.

Professor Farina, however, has so much courage he calls hockey the "most degenerate sport in the world."

It is only fair to point out this outspoken critic of sport is a former football player, and a former football official.

So presumably he knows whereof he speaks when he says sports are no good.

But I wonder what would happen if we carried the professor's thoughts to their logical conclusion, and abolished all sports?

No more golf, no more tennis, no more marbles, no more yo-yo's, no more Texas Wrasslin'.

No more games liable to breed "cheating, larceny, fighting and downright sadism."

You know what I think would happen?

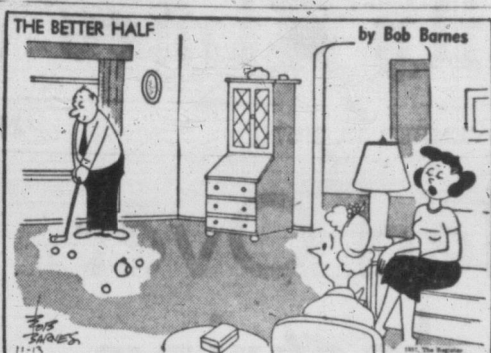

We'd have lots of time on our hands to figure out other ways of achieving training in cheating, larceny, fighting, and downright sadism.

I have enough faith in human nature to believe THAT.

Bomb threats are becoming a bore to Oaklands School staff.

Notified of a "bomb" plant in the school at 8:40 a.m. today, principal N. Forbes did not even order the school cleared. It's happened too often in the past, usually at the impetus of a pupil.

Police were informed of the threat by Mrs. F. Cole, 1704

By PENNY SAVER

It's here! The British Columbia official centennial tartan... and I must say it is exquisite. In it is woven the red of St. George Cross; the blue and white of the Pacific Ocean; the gold of the setting sun and the deep green of our forests. Wonderful for coats and suits or a full bonnie lass's kilt! Every one will be buying it for next year's celebrations, so you'd better get on the band wagon early. It's $8.95 a yard.

Do you have nieces, nephews and grandchildren on your Christmas gift list? You can stop pondering about what to give them. Today I stumbled on an assortment of colored canvas bags with quick and witty little rhymes written on the outside. I opened a bag and I found a skipping rope complete with bells! Lots of fun for $1.79.

Displaced your specs? I mean, have you the ingenious habit of leaving your glasses in silly places? I've discovered a cute and yet a practical method of keeping them right near you so you'll never have to peer near-sightedly at the written word! It is a spec-brooch. Attach glasses to the brooch and they can't fall off. They come at $2 each.

Oh, it's springtime in November when you clip the gay and giddy band I've found—around your chin or pony tail. The band is constructed of plastic and decorated with little posies! Pretty for the teenager to touch up her party dress. Makes a perfect gift for $1.50.

It is sometimes difficult to find jewelry that will team up with several costumes especially when milady is on a shoe-string budget.

CWL Bazaar Makes $1,550

A sum of $1,550 was realized at the fall fair held in the Catholic Chinese Mission Hall by St. Andrew's Cathedral Catholic Women's League, earlier this month.

Assisting organizations were the Junior CWL, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Youth Organizations, League of the Sacred Heart, the choir and glee club and women of the Polish Club.

There were stalls of home cooking, sewing, miscellaneous gifts, religious articles and a fish pond. Tea was served in the afternoon and a turkey dinner in the evening, followed by games.

WHY GROW OLD?

Energy Is Rare Commodity; We Must Not Squander It

A fine store of energy should be one of our most coveted possessions. Energy is the coin with which we pay our way in life. With it we purchase success, and to a certain degree, to which we can give ourselves to life, to others and to our work, is in ratio to the amount of energy we have. No matter how great our ideas or how gracious our intentions, unless we have the pep to put them into action they can mean little to us or to anyone else.

Some persons just naturally have more energy than others because of their fine constitutions. These folks are fortunate but they are in danger just as a beautiful woman is. Both may rely too much on their lucky inheritance. I wrote a column not long ago about the "madness of superlative health." Remember that most of the folks who are vital in older years had some physical trouble around middle age and had to take care of themselves.

Then there seem to be some people who were just born tired. These may have come into the world with a physical inheritance which left much to be desired. On the other hand, this seeming fatigue may indicate no physical disorder or handicap; but may be a matter of glands or temperament.

If, however, you find there are defects which are stealing your energy and they can be corrected, do not hesitate to do so. This may only require consistent care on your part or it may call for medical or surgical treatment.

Usually drastic measures are not the answer. Most folks have a potential for a much greater amount of energy than they experience but never get to enjoy it because of many small leaks. Our energy is worth saving and even cultivating. It is worth spending carefully but glamour, excitement and adventure are added to life if we have an extra margin of energy and can be a bit extravagant and even cultivating. It is with it.

Working Holiday Brings Romance to Jean Hewitt

CALGARY (CP)—A Calgary girl set out on what she calls a "working holiday" around the world and has returned with a husband.

Miss Jean Hewitt, now Mrs. Brian Carter, sailed from Vancouver for New Zealand in July, 1956. She obtained work in Christchurch and four months later met her future husband while skiing in the South Island.

Mr. Carter, an Englishman by birth, was at the time with the works ministry in New Zealand. Both he and the globe-trotting Canadian found a common interest in photography and skiing.

It was love at first sight and the couple later were married in England. For their honeymoon they purchased a motor scooter and toured France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Luxembourg, Austria, Switzerland and Italy.

After the honeymoon the couple returned separately to Canada. Mr. Carter was classed as an immigrant and had to take a later flight.

Reunited in Toronto, the Carters travelled by car to Calgary, where they plan to settle permanently.

Mrs. Carter, meanwhile, recommends this kind of travel for young women, saying if you "work your way" a trip around the world can be done fairly inexpensively.

The less luggage you take the better—for there is very little room on a motor scooter for excess baggage," she says.

U.K. ROCKET 83 MILES UP AT 3,307 MPH

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Britain launched a Sky-lark high-altitude rocket to a height of 83 miles today, Australian Supply Minister Howard Beale announced.

The firing — at Australia's Woomera range — was designed to check instruments being used in International Geophysical Year experiments by British universities.

It was the fourth Skylark rocket to be launched.

Beale said the rocket's speed was 3,307 miles an hour.

FINAL BULLETINS

Giant U.S. Plane Sets Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—A giant U.S. tanker-transport commanded by Gen. Curtis Lemay arrived over National Airport at 12:33 p.m., PST, today after flying non-stop from Buenos Aires on a record-making trip at 469.5 miles an hour.

Manitoba Premier Injured

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier D. L. Campbell of Manitoba suffered facial cuts and bruises early today when the car he was driving was in collision with the rear of a semi-trailer truck, stopped on the main highway near Morris, Man., 60 miles south of here.

Wheat Crop Tops Forecast

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 1957 wheat crop was officially estimated today at 373,508,000 bushels, slightly higher than previous forecasts, but down about 35 per cent from last year's 573,062,000-bushel production.

Nuclear Sea Platforms Urged

PARIS (AP)—Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) today urged Britain, The Netherlands and Norway to scatter their seas with floating or submerged platforms to fire nuclear rockets.

Huge U.S. Missile Successfully Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A huge missile was fired from the air force missile test centre here today.

It roared out over the Atlantic tracking range in an apparently successful launching.

The needle nosed projectile was believed to be a Navaho, an inter-continental missile still on the stockpile here although no longer manufactured for the air force.

Spectators along the beach near the top secret base said the missile moved upwards with a roar, slowly curved and then moved over the tracking range out of sight.

In July of this year the air force cancelled its contract with North American Aviation, Inc., builder of the Navaho. However, there were a number of the missiles already built believed to be in the "missile stockpile" here. A Navaho was fired Sept. 18 here but it was believed that all further launchings of the red and white projectile were merely for the "swan song."

A spokesman once described the Navaho as an inter-continental missile, but said its performance was not comparable to larger ICBMs.

Meets Press After Long Seclusion

By PETER MURRAY

Robert Sommers returned to his home in Victoria today and told reporters he was "back to stay."

The former B.C. forests minister came out of seclusion at 1:30 p.m. after a mystery-shrouded arrival in the middle of the night.

Reporters kept a vigil outside the house at 2 Obed Avenue during the morning but Mr. Sommers did not appear.

Finally, he sent his son out to a knot of reporters on the street outside and invited them in.

Mr. Sommers said he could not discuss any of the allegations of bribe-taking made against him because of the Royal Commission set up two weeks ago to investigate the case.

He said he had been staying in the U.S. with his daughter, but would not say in what city.

He denied that he had been "hiding."

Asked if he intended to appear before the Sloan Commission, Mr. Sommers replied:

"I think the answer must be obvious."

Later, he said he had been advised by his lawyer, James J. Proudfoot, that there was no need for him to appear at the opening session of the inquiry Tuesday.

Back 'Because of Commission'

Asked if he was returning because of the commission, he said:

"Certainly, certainly."

Regarding complaints from his riding of Rossland-Trail that he was not adequately representing them as an M.L.A., Mr. Sommers admitted that "I might have missed something."

"But I think I tried to do the best I could. I say that sincerely."

During the interview, Mr. Sommers talked slowly and softly in a composed manner, but appeared tired.

The interview started when Mr. Sommers said, after the eight reporters and photographers assembled themselves about the neat living room:

"You fellows seem quite anxious to see me, so I thought I'd call you."

"How are you feeling?" a reporter asked.

"A little better, but I don't think you're really interested in that."

"Are you back to stay?" Mr. Sommers paused, then said, "The future only happens day by day."

Another pause: "Yes, I'm back to stay."

Pulp Strike Blow to Island

Economy Threatened as 1,600 Workers Set for Thursday Walkout

By JOHN MIKA

First province-wide strike in B.C.'s pulp industry's history, scheduled to start at 8 a.m. Thursday, will throw a snag into Vancouver Island's economy.

More than 1,600 pulp workers will walk off jobs, leaving another 300 office and salaried workers stranded in four closed Island plants. Jobs of another 1,000 construction workers carrying out expansion programs also are threatened.

The Island's daily output of 2,480 tons of pulp and paper will be cut off with no shipments to customers possible during the duration of the strike.

The strike will chop into an $800,000 monthly payroll at the plants. Business activity in communities near plants also will be slowed by curtailment of plant purchases.

No negotiations were reported today between six companies, operating nine plants in B.C., and the joint union committee representing the International Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Paper Mill Workers.

About 6,000 workers will strike for a 12 per cent wage increase after rejecting a 7½ per cent boost recommended by a majority conciliation board report.

The Island plants were undergoing shutdown preparations to stop production of newsprint, paper and pulp.

Some 350 construction workers employed in a large expansion project may be affected if the strike is prolonged.

G. L. Harris, manager of the company's Harman plant near Nanaimo, said the $400,000 plant will be closed when 300 workers go on strike. Jobs of another 75 employees and 25 construction workers may be affected later.

The $35,000,000 Elk Falls Co. plant will be strike-bound by 350 workers but the shutdown may affect jobs of 500 construction workers working on an expansion project scheduled to finish Dec. 1.

The plant, four miles from Campbell River, produces 330 tons of newsprint and 400 tons of paper daily, manager Tom Hargreaves said.

Some 360 of the 440 employees at the Port Alice plant operated near the northern tip of the island by Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. are expected to join the strike.

Ottawa to Rule On Application

(See story, Page 40)

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines announced today it will apply to the Air Transport Board this month for permission to operate a trans-continental mainline route linking Vancouver and Montreal.

CPA chairman W. A. Mather said the application will seek traffic rights at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

A CPA spokesman at Vancouver told the Times today a Victoria-Vancouver service was not proposed in the company's plans for a trans-continental service.

The application would cover not only passenger traffic, but "competitive" service with Trans-Canada Air lines on all services which TCA provides.

This would include air mail, air express and air freight services. Charles Watt, assistant public relations officer, said the CPA application probably will come up before the air transport board "within two weeks."

If the board decided public hearings on the application were necessary, it could take two months or more before a decision is reached.

Mr. Mather said the proposed route pattern would "directly duplicate only 10 per cent of the present inter-city services" and would give "a number of the cities concerned... more direct as well as more frequent air services."

The federally operated Trans-Canada Air Lines now operates the only trans-continental service.

Details of proposed schedules will be announced when the application is submitted, he said in a statement.

CPA is prepared to start the new service as soon as the air transport board's approval is received, with four east-west flights a day. A fleet of 15 super DC-6B airliners will be available for the domestic service.

"We are convinced that the time has come to satisfy the public demand for competitive air service in Canada," Mr. Mather said. "It is apparent that the measure of competition involved in the CPA application would benefit the travelling public by improving the quality, the efficiency and the frequency of available air service in this country."

"Competitive air service in Canada would result in no duplication of facilities in terms of public investment in air transport."

ICBM to Get Top Priority Says John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker was making a brief statement, requested by former external affairs minister Lester B. Pearson, on defence co-operation between Canada and the U.S.

Meanwhile, Defence Minister Peck was scheduled to discuss with Gen. Lauris Norstad the re-equipping of the RCAF air division in Europe, possibly with missiles.

Highly-placed informants said this will be one of the major subjects to be discussed by Mr. Peck and the supreme allied command in Europe.

Gen. Norstad arrived here today for two days of talks with Canadian political and military leaders.

Informants said, however, the final decision would rest with the Canadian government.

Norstad told a press conference that the balance of power between East and West will not be upset in the next few years.

He said that the Russians do not now have any significant number of operational intermediate range missiles and that the launching of Soviet earth satellites has not required any alteration in his recently-drafted five-year military plan for the North Atlantic alliance.

He added: "We're not frightened. We have the situation. We have great will and determination. We can do the job. The balance is not going to be upset in the next few years."

Gen. Norstad was lavish in his praise of the Canadian military.

New Bridge to Carry Alaska Traffic Monday

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—Traffic on the 1,500-mile Alaska Highway will be routed over the newly-planned Pacific Great Eastern Railway bridge starting Monday, army officials said today.

Highway traffic has been curtailed since the Oct. 16 collapse of the 2,200-foot, $4,000,000 highway suspension bridge over the Peace River a few miles downstream.

Since then a small ferry 10 miles from the downed bridge has been attempting to handle the heavy traffic on the highway.

Don't s'pose th' CPA move will be plane sailing.

Guess we kin expect things t' warm up, now thet Sommers returned.

"After 20 years of monopoly, the trans-continental airline now, if ever, should be strong enough to stand up to competition in a prospering economy."
"We in Canadian Pacific Airlines believe we can provide an efficient and profitable east-west air service under competitive conditions and thus our application is in line with the proven principles of the free enterprise system."

CPA had applied some years ago for authority to operate an air freight service across Canada but the application was rejected. The current application will be for regular passenger service, a CPA spokesman said.

WESTERN OPERATION

CPA now operates several domestic services mostly in Western Canada and the North. All of the aircraft are piston-engined.

CPA also operates several international services, also with piston-engined aircraft. They run from Mexico City to Madrid, Amsterdam to Sydney, Australia, and Hong Kong to Vancouver.

TCA now provides Canada's only trans-continental service. Its planes land at Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, Regina, Swift Current, Moose Jaw, Winnipeg, Brandon, Fort William, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Fredericton, Halifax, Sydney, N.S., Charlottetown, St. John's, Nfld., and Gander, Nfld. There are other regional and international services.

TCA operates Vickers Viscount turbo-prop aircraft domestically and the Super Constellation piston craft internationally. A spokesman said TCA hopes to add by 1960 some Douglas DC-8 jet aircraft for use on some domestic services and in 1961 the Vickers Vanguard, a sister ship to the Viscount and also turbo prop.

Senate Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The senate banking committee today approved government bills to raise by $9 monthly the federal-provincial payments to the needy aged, the blind and the disabled.

'Old Guard' Communist President Zapotocky Dies

PRAGUE (Reuters) — President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia, one of the "old guard" Czech Communists, died here early today of a heart ailment. He was 72.

Zapotocky, once a stone-cutter's apprentice, returned from a German concentration camp at the end of the war to become successively head of the revolutionary trade union movement, premier and president.

Premier Vilam Siroky was being tipped here as Zapotocky's most likely successor.

DIES AT CLINIC

Zapotocky died at Sanops, a Prague clinic reserved for high party and government leaders. He was admitted there nine days ago when he was taken ill

after seeing off a Czechoslovak delegation to Moscow.
Black flags, banners and streamers went up on many government and other buildings less than two hours after the announcement.

Zapotocky presided over the destinies of his country during a turbulent period which saw Czechoslovakia become Russia's most reliable ally in Europe.

The Communist leader, considered "absolutely loyal" to both the party and Russia, played a major role in consolidating the power of the Communists in the crisis of 1948 which followed the resignation and death of President Eduard Benes.

One of the founders of the Czech Communist party, he became president March 21, 1953.

on the death of President Klement Gottwald.

PROMOTED PURGE

He was also one of the main promoters of the 1952 purge in which the former secretary-general of the Czech Communist party, Rudolf Slansky, was tried as a traitor and executed with 16 others.

During the war Zapotocky was imprisoned by the Nazis, first in Dachau concentration camp, then in Sachsenhausen.

When the Germans retreated from Czechoslovakia in 1945, Zapotocky was among 5,000 Sachsenhausen prisoners who went on a notorious "death march" of hundreds of miles toward Mecklenburg.

He was finally freed by the Red Army.

... SOMMERS

driving off the Black Ball ferry at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo, at 10 p.m.

A reporter watched him make a phone call from a booth on the ferry parking lot after carefully inspecting the area.

SLOW DOWN

Then he returned to his car and drove a twisting route through Nanaimo, doubling back on his own course several times, pulling into side streets and periodically turning his lights off.

At times he slowed to five miles an hour to force cars behind him to take the lead.

The scene switched then to Victoria, where a reporter-photographer team watched Mr. Sommers' home until 3 a.m.

He did not arrive by that time, but this morning his car was parked in the garage under the house.

Reporters got no answer today when they knocked on the door and no one answered the telephone in the house. Later the phone was apparently taken off the hook.

NO DEVELOPMENTS

Meanwhile, there were no new developments today following the startling events at the inquiry Tuesday when the validity of the commission was challenged by lawyer Alfred Bull, QC.

Mr. Bull, counsel for C. D. Schultz and Co., said he expected to seek an injunction blocking further hearings.

He was understood to be conferring with Mr. Schultz this morning before seeking a writ from the B.C. Supreme Court. Attorney-General Bonner has indicated the provincial government will contest any attempt to overthrow the Commission.

"I'd be very surprised if we didn't oppose such a move," Mr. Bonner said. "The government naturally hopes the inquiry will be permitted to proceed."

Mr. Bull maintains that the provincial government had no right to set up the commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, because a criminal offence is involved which comes under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) —

The Speech from the Throne opening the 25th Legislature said today Quebec would ask Ottawa for a bigger share of the tax dollar.

"Quebec asks for no favors but only for the full respect of its rights, prerogatives and liberties," the 1,500-word document read by Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux said.

WHO'S BOSS AT HOME? MOM, POP STILL ARGUE

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Salt Lake Tribune recently sent a questionnaire to all its school correspondents. One of the questions: "Who is the boss in your home?"

Columnist Dan Valentine says an overwhelming majority reported mother is the boss. Only a sprinkling voted for father.

One reply: "I don't know who's boss in our home. They are both still arguing about it."

Laika Dead Before Sunday, Says Russ

MOSCOW (UP) — A spokesman for the Moscow planetary said Tuesday that Laika, the dog in Sputnik II, had died even before the satellite's radio signals failed.

The spokesman, identified only as Prof. Porzesky, added that he knew of no device in the Sputnik in which the dog or its body could be brought back to earth.

Porzesky's report indicated that Laika had died prior to Sunday, the day on which the satellite's signals generally were presumed to have failed.

His statement appeared to refute rumors that Laika had landed somewhere in Russia and that search parties had set out to look for it.

The statement conflicted, however, with one made Tuesday night by Soviet premier Nikolai Bulganin to newsmen at a Swedish Embassy party. Bulganin said that the dog was alive to his knowledge on Sunday, but that he had not heard about its condition Monday.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The dog aboard Sputnik II probably has been brought back to the earth alive but the Russians aren't talking about it because of military implications.

Britain Rejects Iran Claim to Bahrein Is.

LONDON (AP) — The government served notice today that Britain will go on safeguarding the independence of oil rich Bahrein, the Persian Gulf island which Iran has claimed.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain has repeatedly made clear it considers the Iranian claim to be unfounded.

Two Men Jailed For Theft Of Clothes

Two men who pleaded guilty to stealing $260 worth of clothes from George Straith Ltd., 921 Government, Nov. 4, were given jail terms in city police court today.

William Toderas, no fixed address, was sentenced to three months because of his record. Henry A. Lustig, also of no fixed address, was given one month in jail.

Magistrate H. C. Hall warned both men about their conduct which arose, apparently, from excessive drinking.

Ike to Air Science Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower outlines tonight his program for training more youths as scientists in the space era struggle against Russia.
Some key scientific advisers to the president have suggested to him that the federal government grant scholarships to promising students as an incentive. But the White House declined advance discussion of what Eisenhower will recommend.

For tonight's coast-to-coast television-radio address, the second in a "chins up" series, the president travels by plane to Oklahoma City.
(The speech is scheduled to be carried on Channel 5 at 10.30 and on Channel 12 at 11.)

'TOO DAMN SMUG'

Mirror 'Reflects' U.K. Image

LONDON (AP)—The millions of Britons who read the tabloid Daily Mirror were jolted this morning by a headline advising them they are "Too damn smug!"

The entire front page of The

LOGICAL FOR RUSS TO HIT AMERICA FIRST

PARIS (AP)—Charles Cannon, Liberal member of the Canadian House of Commons, told the NATO parliamentary assembly today that Canada and the United States might be in more immediate danger of attack from Russia than western Europe.

He called for a joint Canadian-U.S. command under NATO.

He said: "The time has now come for the defence of North America with the participation of Europeans in this defence. Would it not be logical to have the Russians first attack North America and then turn on Europe?"

CPA Franchise Hopes Backed By Tory Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — Prospects of Canadian Pacific Airlines getting a trans-continent franchise in competition with the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines appear fairly bright.

The Progressive Conservatives have repeatedly stated they are opposed to the TCA's 29-year monopoly and the cabinet is known to favor the introduction of competition in the domestic service.

Transport Minister Hees, who answers for TCA to the Commons said today that "any air line has a perfect right to apply for anything it wants."

"That is what the air transport board is for," he said.

"The whole air industry has been under intensive review by myself and the department for some time. At a proper time in the near future I expect to disclose what the government's thinking is in connection with that industry."

DELAY PROBABLE

It could take months for a final decision to be reached. The board must hold public hearings on the application before making a recommendation. That ruling may be appealed to Mr. Hees.

West Willing to Add To UN Arms Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—In an effort to avert a threatened Soviet boycott, the Western powers agreed today to add 10 new countries to the UN's 12-member disarmament commission.

This is the same number pushed by India. But informed quarters said the Indians were highly displeased by the geographic distribution the West suggested.

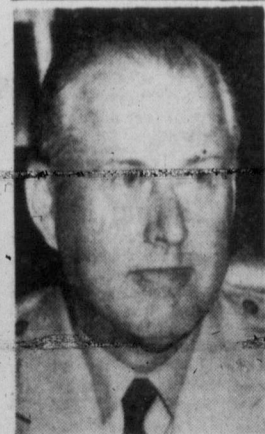

U.S. Flexes Jet Muscles In Long Hop

MANILA (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force twin-jet B-66 bombers swept into the Philippines today after non-stop flight from the U.S. west coast.

The USAF said the flight from George Air Force Base, Calif., made in slightly more than 17 hours, was part of an operation to show it can deliver a tactical striking force to help nip brushfire wars anywhere in the world.

A spokesman said the 8,000-mile non-stop trip was a record for B-66s, which can carry atomic weapons. The flight refueled in the air off Hawaii.

The B-66s are the vanguard of 47 jet fighter and bombers being moved from various U.S. bases to Pacific points.

GIVES WARNING

Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, warned the world today his force has planes all over the world, loaded with nuclear bombs ready to take off in 15 minutes after any warning of an enemy attack. (AP Wirephoto.)

"Too damn smug!"

"Urgent... see today's centre pages."

A two-page spread inside The Mirror—which claims the world's highest weekly sale of more than 4,500,000 copies—says the rest of the world thinks of Britain as "stuck in a rut, bumbling, outdated."

"The world is on the move, but we are still marking time."

"Little wonder that we are losing trade. Today it is Germany and Japan who are beating us in world markets. Tomorrow it may be Russia."

"British is best" is a comfortable motto. But there are many places in the world today where that is no longer accepted as a historic truth.

"There are businessmen from Buenos Aires to Bombay to whom the word 'British' too often means supercilious salesmanship, late deliveries, swollen prices."

"These are uncomfortable truths to live with. So we try to escape from them. Not by going forward, but by going back."

"We try the aristocratic line: Everything will be all right in the end—breeding and good connections are more important than brains and skill."

"So that cabinet is stuffed with old Etonians, and Britain prepares to lose her Waterloo on the playing fields of Eton."

"We try the heroic line: 'Britain stood out alone against Hitler. We saved the world.'"

"True. But that was 17 years ago."

"There are millions of people in the world today to whom Hitler is as remote as Napoleon."

"What the world is asking about us today is not what we did in 1940, but what we are doing today and what we are going to do tomorrow."

LAG BEHIND

The article says Britain has only one qualified science teacher for each 2,500 of population compared with the Soviet Union's one for 800; is "teetering on the edge of bankruptcy"; lacks modern roads and railways, and is lagging in industrial automation.

The newspaper pointed out that tens of thousands of young people waited for hours outside the Canadian immigration office in London last year.

"Why?" it asked. "Because they had no faith in Britain's future."

"If this article has shocked you," it concludes, "Britain can still be saved. If it hasn't, Britain has had it."

The Mirror generally supports the policies of the Labor party.

FRED NORRIS

FRED HAWES

Norris Changes Mind —Seeks Re-Election

Reeve Fred Norris announced Tuesday he will run again in the municipal election, reversing his stand of several months ago.

The reeve will be seeking his third two-year term, admittedly under pressure from friends.

Coun. Fred Hawes also announced he will again seek office; Coun. George Murdoch had not yet decided, while Patrick Birley, who had served two terms on council but did not run for re-election last year, will run again.

Kenneth C. Murphy, defeated last year, will also vie for a council seat.

JOHNSON OUT

Coun. John V. Johnson, who has served 23 years on council, will not seek re-election.

This leaves three announced candidates for the three vacant council positions.

A public forum will be held in the municipal hall early in December to allow all council candidates to explain their platforms.

Eight Young Canadians to Get All-Expense European Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Forty-eight young Canadian university students next year will have a kind of European holiday with all expenses paid.

The group—24 boys and 24 girls—will act as guides at the Canadian pavilion during the 1958 world fair in Brussels, April 17-Oct. 19.

Being able to speak both English and French is one of the major prerequisites.

"We're also looking for students who are extroverts without being brash, and pleasant without being shy," said Glen E. Bannerman, chairman of the trade department's exhibition branch.

The students selected must have a good knowledge of Canadian geography as well as a B standing or better in their last university examinations. Mr. Bannerman told a press conference here.

As guides at a fair which will be an international showcase for 48 countries, the students will have to answer questions about Canada's 28 exhibits.

SELECTION STARTED

Work on the selection of guides started about two years ago. Some 20 universities agreed to handle student applications and make nominations to the exhibition branch—the government body looking after Canadian participation in the fair.

After nominations close Oct. 15, two selection teams composed of exhibition commission and civil service commission officials will visit universities to make final selections. Mr. Bannerman said he expects two or three students will be chosen from each university. Lt. Col. Edward Bullock, the exhibition commission's information officer, said students will be paid $150 a month, with all travel and living expenses paid.

Macmillian Orders Probe On Bank Rate Leak Claim

LONDON (Reuters) — The government today ordered a judicial investigation into charges that information about a bank rate increase was leaked in advance.

Prime Minister Macmillan for weeks had rejected Labor party demands for an investigation.

He told the Commons today he had decided to order the inquiry because of "insinuations" made Tuesday against Oliver Poole, deputy chairman of the Conservative party.

The investigation will give Poole an opportunity of "clearing his honor," Macmillan said.

CLAIM FORTUNES MADE

Labor party officials had charged that because of a leakage of information, millions of pounds changed hands and fortunes were made Sept. 18—the day before Britain raised the bank rate to 7 per cent from 5.

Labor members asked Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft Tuesday to say whether he had seen Poole on the day before the bank rate was increased.

He refused to answer this question on the grounds that it was "improper." There was no leakage, he said.

Poole today wrote to the prime minister saying that he saw Thorneycroft on the day in question but did not receive any prior information about the bank rate from anyone, nor did he sell any securities.

REQUESTS INQUIRY

He asked the prime minister to order a judicial inquiry in fairness to himself.

Macmillan told the House:

"This is an attack on the honor of two gentlemen—Mr. Poole and the chancellor of the exchequer—and I think it right that they should have an opportunity to rebut this attack. At an earlier stage it was mere tittle-tattle."

The lord chancellor, Lord Kilmuir, the government's adviser, recently made a private inquiry for the government and reported there was no evidence of a leakage.

LOST — Captain George H. Brown of Palo Alto, Calif., was the pilot of a double-decked Pan American Airways Stratocruiser which has been presumed to have gone down in "perfect weather" midway between San Francisco and Hawaii. The lost airliner had 44 persons on board.—(NEA)

Two Years In Coma, Logger Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — A young Dutch logger died in hospital here Monday, two years and 12 days after lapsing into a coma when he suffered a severe brain injury.

Joseph Byl, 29, had been unconscious for longer than anyone else in Canada as the result of an industrial accident, a Workmen's Compensation Board official said Tuesday.

Byl, who regained semi-consciousness recently, was hit by a cable on a logging job Oct. 29, 1955.

His mother, Mrs. Klaas Byl, returned to her home in Holland last October after praying beside Joseph's bedside for 120 evenings.

The board paid $42,000 in medical expenses for Byl. About $6,000 in lost time compensation will be paid into his estate.
